Rubber Enters Some New Fields of Usefulness.

Rubber's field of usefulness has recently been greatly enlarged. In the first place, it was a few years ago found practical to ship this material in its original form, that is, the later or milk of the rubber tree. Formerly it was subjected to a cooking operation at the place of its origin and transported in the shape of huge lumps, but this method was open to some irregularities that in time became serious. The natives who gathered the latex and prepared it for transportation learned some tricks in the way of perpetrating some frauds on the purchaser. Often when these masses of crude rubber were opened at the factory for further treatment they were found to be filled with stones or other foreign matter which added greatly to their weight and to the cost of shipping as well. There were some other forms of deceit practiced in the pre It was then found that by partial evaporation the latex could be handled in bulk and the new method proved much more satisfactory, and this has been mainly responsible for the enlarged field of usefulness.

For glazing purposes a very superior putty has been made by mixing the latex with whiting. The usual method is to mix the whiting with linseed oil and in the course of time this dries out and breaks away, leaving the glass looze. It has no clinging property to the woodwork or the glass, and when it becomes thoroughly dried out it both the frame and the glass and makes a joint which is absolutely waterproof.

An excellent substitute for hair has Certain materials now used for stuffing unsanitary and others are subject to coated with rubber and vulcanized and a perfect elastic stuffing is obtained which is clean and which will hold its not do this, for it must be removed and curled at intervals to restore its "life."

A wonderful cement is reported as the result of the use of latex. It is said that a strong and perfectly waterproof joint is obtained between materials which have not heretofore lent Metal, glass, mica and waxed cloth skin of the face, neck and chest.

Apparently such a gift is common to all, but in the average person the sight-seeing power of the eyes overcomes the weaker sight of the other organs. If we all had this power developed, it is stated that it would be possible for us to see in a surrounding circle from various angles of the body through "myriad eyes."

M. Jules Romain, the French scientist, has made this discovery. The first essential for the man or woman who wishes to develop this gift is to bring about a complete concentration of all his attention. Considerable time must elapse before the result of this quiet concentration can become apparent. Sittings of about an hour's duration, if persisted in, should eventually enable the patient to perceive light, and then to visualize shapes and sizes of surrounding objects. After that swift progress is asured, and in time M. Romain claims that it is possible to read type almost as rapidly and accurately as one would

One of the stone tablets discovered in the ruins of the ancient temple at the foot of Mt. Sinai may possibly have been inscribed by the hand of Moses himself. The message, which is in primitive Hebrew, reads: "I am the son of Hatshepsut, overseer of the mine workers of Sinai, chief of the temple of Mana and Jahu (Jehovah) of Sinal. Thou, O Hatshepsut, wast water of the Nile; and thou hast placed me over the temple which is on the Arctic. The Plaintiff on the Jury.

Since it is a place where human nature is constantly under examination and illustration, there is plenty of ceedings of the court room. One of the very best court anecdotes is told by the eminent English advocate Sir Ernest Wild, K.C.

A civil action was being heard in certain court of justice, and counsel, having opened the case, called the plaintiff, whereupon a member of the jury rose, left the jury box and made his way to the witness box. Asked what he was doing, he said that he

FOR JOY OF GOOD HEALTH

Manitoba Woman Thanks Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Crandall, Manitoba .- "When I was a young girl at home and working I had terrible pains, almost more than I could bear, and I was not regular. These troubles kept me so tired all the time that I had no strength and no ambition to join in with my friends and have a good time. I was just tired and miserable always and life just seemed as if it wasn't worth living. I saw so much in the papers about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and then I had a friend who had taken it and told me about it, so I got some. Every month after taking it I got stronger and I soon did not suffer every month. It stopped the pains and helped me other ways. Then when my babies were coming I was tired and worn out the first three months and ached badly. I took the Vegetable Compound right along and must say it made a new woman of me and able to do my work, and it helped me through confinement. You see I am a farmer's wife with a big house to look after, and three babies now. I have told ever so many women about your medicine. Just last week I got a letter from my old chum in the East. He, baby was born fifteen days before mine and she told me she was not feeling very well, her back aches so much, and that she is going to take the same medicine I took. You can use my letter and I hope some one will be helped by it."—Mrs. Jos. H. Kidd, Box 56, Crandall, Manitoba. C
