THE ROLL CALL

MRS. JAMES MAY

Word came Monday to Mrs Richard Barber, Varney, that her sister, Mrs James May had passed away the day previous at her home in Newton Centre, Mass., from intestinal trouble, after an illness of several weeks. Recently she underwent two operations, but to no avail. The deceased lady, formerly a Durham resident,, was formerly Jessie Ann Hay, born in Aberdeen, Scotland, 65 years ago. Nearly 30 years ago she wedded Mr. May, a native of Peterhead, Scotland, and they lived some time at Quincy, Mass. To benefit his health he purchased the Calvert homestead at Orchard, and after two years on the farm, they moved to Durham, where for three years he was engineer at the Cement works. They returned to Massachusetts, and later came back as engineer at stone crushing plant. Two years ago they went back to Mass.but they had hoped to return next year to end their days in their home here, now occupied by Mr Nicholson.

Besides the sorrowing husband, she leaves one brother, Jas Hay, Proton, and three sisters, Mrs R. Barber, Varney ; Mrs McMillan of Sherbrooke, Quebec and Mrs Adam Gallen in Scotland. The remains are being forwarded here and will be interred in Maplewood cemetery beside her parents, the funeral taking place on Friday at 2 p. m. from Mr Barber's residence. Many friends in town and vicinity will sympathize with the bereaved relatives.

JANE McDOUGALL BURGESS

The death occurred on Saturday, Nov. 8th, at Malton, Peel County, of Miss Jane McDougall Burgess, aged 72 years. Deceased had been ailing from heart trouble for some time but for the past twelve days back or more, pneumonia set in which resulted fatally.

The late Miss Burgess was born on the farm on which she died and has lived continuously in the one place, except for a few years near Durham. She is survived by two brothers and four sisters, viz : John, in Durham : James, believed to be near Woodstock : Janet, (Mrs Butler,) Guelph : Mary, (Mrs Ivey) Michigan and Misses Nina and Helen in California. Deceased's brother Thomas of Southampton, died in December last, another brother Robert, was a victim of the late war, while a sister Florence died some 20 years ago.

Deceased lived alone and during her last 12 days' illness was tenderly cared for in true Christian spirit by a neighbor and his wife. They knew little of her relatives, but a Mr Irwin, a friend of the family, wired Durham friends who had barely time to attend the funeral. Addresses of the sisters in Guelph and California are known, but of none of the other relatives.

The funeral took place Tuesday to Malton cemetery, where she was buried among her kindred.

Grey County Mothers' Allowances Board met in Dundalk on Friday evening of last week and elected officers for the ensuing year as follows: Chairman, John Mills, Hanover; Vice-chairman, Mrs. E. Long, Meaford; Secretary, Mrs. Wm. Dingwall, Hopeville.

PRICEVILLE & GLENELG

This is Thanksgiving Day and a beautiful morning promises a fine day. How thankful we ought to be that we are privileged to see another Thanksgiving after our long experience. This Thanksgiving Day will be to many a sad reminder, for it will bring to their memory events that they experienced a year ago, many of a sad nature, while others are privileged to enjoy all the blessings and comforts of life by being shareholders of the blessings that the past spring and summer had in store for them by being the recipients of a bountiful harvest, providing enough for man and beast, so that those depending from the fruits of the farm, may have abundance at a reasonable rate from the tillers of the soil.

To those of us who have seen many Thanksgiving seasons, it is a source of thankfulness that they are privileged to enjoy another Thanksgiving season, when so many of their juniors have passed to the Great Beyond. But time passes on all the same.

In the beginning of the summer complaints were often heard of the backwardness of the season and on during haying and harvest of the frequent showers of rain. But after all if properly realized, it was for the good of complaining humanity. The Great Provider caused the showers to give vitality to the growing grain, and when the time came for separating the grain from the straw, they were blessed by having an abundant quality to share for man and beast.

But we must press on to some other matter for the press.

It might be said what had become of Glenelg and Priceville correspondents last week when neither of them had anything to say, good or bad, from those places of interest to many of the readers of the 'Review.'

Well for our part, we spent a couple of days at the old home, Durham Road, with our brother and sister and had the privilege of going to the good old town church at Priceville on Sunday, to hear our good friend, Rev. Dr. Alex. McGilvray, of Toronto. To us it reminded and brought us back 48 and 49 nine years ago, when the Rev. Dr. as a young student, preached for two summers. In his preliminary remarks the Dr. spoke feelingly of the many changes that had taken place in the intervening years. As we are one of the few spared to remember the changes since then, it brought back to memory, the days of our youth when we enjoyed the privilege of attending regularly, (whether we did so as a duty or a habit, it is hard to say, but both might be right,) as the praise part of the service depended on us being there, both in our mother tongue and the ruling language of the English. No organs, no Book of Praise, but simply the old Psalms and Paraphrases : no choirs, but the whole congregation united as a choir, irrespective of the fact that whether the leader observed the correctness of following the tunes properly or not, they all sang—not by note, but by their desire to praise their Master, singing from the heart. To those who did not attend this service, a grand discourse was missed. He took his text from Revelation : "Behold I set before you an open door." The preacher pointed out the freedom of entering the open door, which is widely opened at all times to those who will accept the privilege of entering therein.

It might be said also that more might enter the door of the visible church to hear a good sermon as there was plenty of room inside to seat more. The day was somewhat cool but what are we going to do before the winter months are over when a little change in the weather keeps us at home as an excuse.

Mr MGillivray performed the ordinance of baptism on Rev. and Mrs. Sutherland's child. As was seen Mr. McGillivray attended a Foresters' meeting in Durham Monday evening, being driven over by the obliging John Morrison. On his way to Durham, the Rev. Dr. called to see his old friend, Mr Donald McDonald, who is deprived of his usual activity in the years gone past. Though only a short time he had to stay, ne made the most of the time with most earnest devotional exercises.

We were sorry to hear that Mr. Herman McLean was in the hospital, Toronto, last Sunday. But all hope that he gets along well and home by the time this appears in print.

We congratulate the young Editor, Mr Harold Ramage, on assuming the Editorship of the Thornbury Review-Herald. We wish Harold much success in his undertaking and that he may be rewarded by having thousands of subscribers as supporters.

Those behind in their fall plowing are living in the hopes of November favoring them with a couple of weeks of Indian Summer and then a week of squaw winter, when all those who purpose going to the bush to prepare for winter, may engage in cutting wood, feeding cattle and pigs and what not. In olden times a lot of middle aged women would be sometimes engaged in fulling cloth which was woven by the old fashioned weavers, such as blankets and clothes for the family. Some dozen of women were seated on the floor with some straw beneath them to protect them from the hard floor, and some that had good lungs would sing a song and the rest would keep time. At intervals a small wine glass would be passed around of the good old so-called stuff of the olden times As the good old ladies were wet with suds, though condemned now, it kept them from catching cold and cheered them up. Next in order sang another song. This sometimes might be called a fooling bee, as some would be jolly.

We hear the reports of the hunter's guns in the distant swamps. If our good preachers would go into the woods they would find more than in the churches.

Mrs McLeod who spent last week with friends in Durham, returned home Saturday last.

All our collectors delivered their demanding papers during the past week in their different wards in Glenelg.

DEMAND FOR CORSET IS OFF— SO IS THE PRICE

The truth about the corset is out at last.

While during the ten years since the war began other articles of clothing have increased in price no less than 321 per cent., corsets are only 16 per cent more expensive than they were before the murder at Sarajevo precipitated a world war.

This proves conclusively, points out the French newspaper Excelsior, that corsets are not being worn. But to make things certain a French newspaper sent out reporters to ask them whether they wore 'em.

Of 1000 women questioned in offices banks, factories, subways and on the streets, only 111 admitted that they still wore corsets.

The article which has increased the most in price during the 10 years is the hat. Women's millinery is roughly 410 per cent more expensive now than hitherto.

IN DAYS OF YORE

15 YEARS AGO

From Review fyle of Nov. 11, 1909

To-day, Priceville is laying to rest her foremost citizen for many years, Mr John McArthur, who died Monday at the age of 60 years, after an illness of about half a year.

Congratulataions to Mr Thos. Lauder, registrar for South Grey,, who on Monday last celebrated his 81st birthday, with a measure of health and strength granted to but few.

Priceville corr. : A meeting was held here Saturday, to consider the advisability of selecting a piece of land for a new cemetery, irrespective of denominational differences of all Protestant churches. In taking a view through the old graveyard, one finds it is full to its utmost capacity and in some instances old graves had to be opened to place some other of the family therein. It is 50 years since the first grave was opened, being the late John McLachlan, father of Mrs Dugald McCormick. and the last one was Mr John Campbell of Swinton Park aged 89 years.

Much gratification was expressed when it became known that Rev. Mr. Newton decided to remain in Durham.

A wealth of curious looking but no doubt efficient machinery, is being installed this week in the new McGowan mill. The dam too is assuming its final proportions and when on full duty will give Durham a navigable lake.
