PRICEVILLE AND VICINITY

The funeral of Mrs. Angus McLachlan on Wednesday last was largely attended, the church being well filled with sympathetic mourners. The service was jointly conducted by Rev. A. Sutherland of Priceville and Gray of Markdale. The latter, her pastor, spoke appreciatively of her many good christian qualities, her cheerful disposition and spoke of the delights arising from memory in remembering her many good qualities.

The floral offerings were many and beautiful. A pillow from the husband and family and wreaths and sprays were also given by Dr. and Mrs. McFarlane and Mr. and Mrs. Neiles, Mrs. Neil McKinnon and family, Toronto; Mrs. J. W. Jones, (a sister) Sault; Brother Malcolm, Regina; Ladies Aid, Presbyterian Ch., Markdale; Mrs. Carson, Mrs. Campbell and others. The male quartette of the church sang "The beautiful land on that far away strand," feelingly and W. G. Watson was the efficient funeral director.

HOPEVILLE

Mr and Mrs Geo. Riddell were in Luther last week attending the funeral of their aunt, Mrs Barber. Mrs John McMurdo is at present visiting her sister, Mrs Mary Dezell and other relatives.

Mr W. R. Dickie has rented Mr. John Becker's farm. Mr Chas. Huddy was a recent visitor at Mr Jas Dingwall's. Miss Thelma Riddell spent over the week end with her aunt, Mrs G. B. Smith.

Mr John Nelson was assisting his uncle, Mr Wm McEachnie recently. A few from this vicinity attended the funeral of the late Mrs Watson, Swinton Park, Tuesday.

Our two local churches are holding their annual meetings this week. Hopeville citizens were among the number that looked in vain for the eclipse Saturday. Although greatly disappointed we were impressed by the silence and shadow.

EDGE HILL

Mr John McDonald and son Hector, attended the funeral of the late Mrs A. McLachlan at Priceville last week. Mr McDonald remained over for a visit.

Mr and Mrs Dan Firth of Stony Creek, near Hamilton, are visiting Mr. and Mrs J. Firth at present.

Mr Fred Staples and son Ralph, spent the beginning of the week with friends in Markdale.

Mr and Mrs Geo. Hargrave and daughter of Egremont, visited with Mrs. Geo. Ritchie in spending a week with her daughter, Mrs Nelson McGuire, Holstein.

The debate at the school Friday evening last, proved to be quite a success even if Edge Hill were not the successful side. The majority was given to Ceylon who held the affirmative side. As the Review press representative was present, we will not go into details.

The next debate will be held at Ceylon, Feb. 13th, when Messrs Clarence Robinson and Arch. McDonald are the debaters.

Life in Russia

As Graphically Told by Baroness de Hueck Tuesday Night

Tuesday evening rather a poor audience greeted Baroness De Hueck, a first hand information of conditions past and present in that distressed country. The engagement was under the auspices of the Literary Society of the High School, and they are to be congratulated in getting the distinguished lecturer.

Rev. J. H. Whealan was chairman and ably introduced the lady, who is a fine specimen of womanhood. She has acquired a good command of English, though there is a foreign touch about her delivery still. She began with remarks on the amazing size of Russia: Siberia associated with so much that was painful and tragic was one of the most beautiful spots on earth. The lady of the house there had a much easier time than the same lady in Canada for it was easy to get servants at $3.00 a year! and bread was cheap.

She had hospital experience and had much to say of the sufferings of wounded soldiers. The lack of ammunition was the great handicap at the beginning of the war. She told of her experience on one occasion of running into German lines unexpectedly and their treatment there. When the Revolution came she joined the crowd: "I never saw a Revolution before," she said archly. With one stroke of a pen all discipline in the army was done away with—it was a mob, no longer an army and without supplies, they sullenly refused to move and all appeals were in vain. The officers returning from the front after the soldiers had fallen to back them up. Looked ten years older in a night. She and other nurses could have gone home, but they felt that their place was there.

She told of crude methods in dealing with a case of blood poisoning, amounting to cruelty: told of a General having to dig his own grave in which he was placed upright and buried up to the neck, two sentinels being placed over him to prevent relief being given. Eye and ankle shots were heard and they knew it was some one "being done to death."

The story of her escape from the hospital, from the moral and physical death of Bolshevist influence followed. In 7 days they made 250 miles. Food deprivation was extreme, two hearings cost $5.00 and other prices similar. She related a stirring interview with two grotesquely attired Bolsheviks who announced they were taking possession of everything: "thieves calling themselves the Government." Clothing, jewels, books, etc., all were gone.

Then her husband's name was put on the "black list" which meant he was to be shot. However with refined cruelty a friend said: "don't shoot, it is too easy a death, let them starve." We cannot reproduce her story of the pangs of starvation, the pinching of poverty, and the awful effects of famine, but eventually they got back to shelter and food, having lost money, friends and everything.

Faciously she told of a rebuke she had received by calling a man an Englishman who told her he was a Scotchman, and she learned to say "Britisher" in future.

She told of her appreciation of the Canadian welcome to the Russian refugees, and closed with an appeal to be kind to the Russian.

QUESTIONS

Later to questions she told of the futile attempts to govern when they tried to make peasants give all produce to the Government after feed and seed were retained. Peasants soon saw to it that they produced only feed and seed.

In the schools, the name of God was tabooed as was also all religious reference. The Russian people, she said, were as cleanly on the average in their homes as other people.

Produce and Poultry Markets

The Gov't report reads as follows: "Deaths are only buying from hand to mouth as they realize the market is due for a sharp drop at any time. Producers are strongly advised to keep their eggs closely sold up from day to day. It is difficult at this stage to forecast what will be the basis upon which eggs will be stored for future demand this year, but it is safe to say that prices will be no lower than last year. This year, however, may be an exception as Canadian dealers have to take into consideration the importance of storing at prices that will place them in a position to do some exporting at a profit."

It has been a surprise to those in the Poultry trade to have so much poultry arrive since the Christmas holidays. In the past there has usually been a sharp falling off in receipts after the New Year. This year since the holidays demand has not been so great the supply and demand quite a large surplus has had to be packed for storage. Prices are comparatively low. Geese are a drug on the market. Considering the attractive prices at which they are selling, it is difficult to understand why more are not consumed. New York State's embargo on live poultry today was extended by the State Bd. of Health to a total of 13 States owing to the continued spread among fowl of the disease known as the European Fowl pest.

The feature of the Butter trade at Montreal on Monday was the further weakness that developed in the market and prices scored another decline of 1c per lb. One car of Eastern Townships grass made No. 1 pasteurized creamery sold on Saturday at 30c per lb. The wholesale jobbing market was also weaker.

It was suggested to the Minister of Agriculture at the Convention of the Canadian Produce Association, that dealers in eggs should be licensed and a resolution was passed to that effect. This will prevent any person going out with a truck from going out and picking up a few eggs here and there unless he is licensed and protects the legitimate dealers who are doing their utmost to comply with the regulations and see that producers marketing high grade eggs are paid a premium for quality.

IX "ROUGHING IT IN THE BUSH"

By Susanna Moodie

The emigrant is usually one who hopes to better his condition and has a love for independence. The choice of the country to which they devote their talents and their energies depends upon their means than upon the fancy of the emigrant or the popularity of a name. In 1830 Canada became the great landmark for the rich in hope and poor in purse who resided in the British Isles. Public newspapers and private letters teemed with the unheard of advantages to be derived from a settlement in this highly favored region. These articles told of almost total exemption from taxes, of lands that would yield 40 bus. to the acre, of log houses that could be built in a day, but they carefully concealed the toil and hardships that had to be endured to secure these advantages. On Aug. 30, 1832, J. W. Dunbar Moodie with his wife and child were among the immigrants from England, and almost three months elapsed from the time of sailing until they arrived at their destination. The many dangers and inconveniences, the rough roads, the little variety in food, and the structure that looked most like a cattle shed which was to be their home, certainly these were discouragements for the bravest.

The chapters giving an account of "The Fire", "The Whirlwind", "The Outbreak", "The Wet Season" and the consequent poverty that followed, and the days and nights of illness with no medical aid, are experiences of all the pioneers in our fair land. And yet the majority who came through these trials and experiences, had an unflinching faith in the Giver of all good gifts, and had the ability to look on and enjoy Nature in its beauty at all seasons—two things in the rush of modern life that are sometimes undeveloped.
