

The New Car.
 "I think I'll buy a better car," remarked Bob Hampton as he wiped his trowel preparatory to stopping work for the day. "I know where I can get a pechereno almost new for sixteen hundred dollars. Only five dollars a week to pay, and they'll take the old car as the first payment."
 Old Turner Gill looked at Bob in a way that made the younger man feel a trifle uncomfortable. "Old car getting pretty well used up, is it?" he asked.
 "Oh, no, but it's beginning to look a little dingy."
 "How much money have you in the bank, Bob?"
 Bob grinned ruefully. "I got a notice yesterday that my account was overdrawn. But this is pay day, you know; I'll pull down sixty bucks."
 "How much of the sixty dollars will be yours?"
 "Well, there is an overdraft of seventy at the bank, a payment of five dollars on the baby grand and five dollars on the home. We owe the grocer about twenty dollars. Then there are some other little bills; I guess about fifteen dollars."
 "About eight dollars to run a family of four for a week. I'm. Got your winter coal in?"
 "No. I'll have to save enough for that out of next month's wages."
 "If the work doesn't shut down. There's talk of a strike, you know. How much life insurance do you carry, Bob?"
 "I thought of taking out some insurance, but the wife and I decided we couldn't spare the money just now. My health has always been perfect, and there's not much danger of an accident if you are careful."
 "The other day," observed Turner Gill, "I read about a man who was walking carefully down the sidewalk. A Jay driver came tearing down the street at about sixty miles an hour. Something went wrong with the steering gear, and the car shot into the curb, overturned and killed the careful pedestrian. The fool driver escaped with a harked skin. It's a big job to be careful enough to make up for some other person's carelessness."
 "In that case I suppose the family didn't get anything? The Jay driver didn't have anything for them to get, of course you are not expecting to get sick or hurt or killed, but, supposing you should, what would become of your family?"
 "I suppose the Lord would provide; the Bible says He will."
 "The Lord is always ready to provide, but He does not agree to furnish any man's meals ready cooked. He has provided you with two hands, a strong body, a good job and splendid wages. He expects you to make provision during the fat years for the lean years that may follow."

Who Was Mrs. Grundy?
 Some of the world's most famous women never existed except between the covers of a book.
 Take Mrs. Malaprop, who was always saying things in the wrong way. When she was outlining her ideas of a young girl's education, she said: "I would never let her meddle with Greek, or Hebrew, or Algebra, or Simon, or Euclid, or Paradoxes— or handle any mathematical, astronomical, diabolical instruments. She should have a supercilious knowledge of accounts, and as she grew up I would have her instructed in geometry, that she might know something of contagious countries."
 This famous character appears in Richard Brinsley Sheridan's comedy, "The Rivals," which was first played at Covent Garden Theatre, London, in 1775. The famous Mrs. Green took the part of Mrs. Malaprop, and from that day to this her peculiar style of substituting one word for another of somewhat similar sound, but totally different meaning, has been parodied a thousand times.
 Another woman who is famous, although she never actually existed, is Mrs. Grundy. She is the patrin of propriety. In Tom Morton's play, "Speed the Plough," one of the characters is jealous of her neighbor, Mrs. Grundy, and her husband exclaims, indignantly: "Be quiet, woolly? Always ding, ding, ding Dame Grundy into my ears! What will Mrs. Grundy say? What will Mrs. Grundy think? It was in that slight reference that the immortal Mrs. Grundy had her origin.
 One of the most engaging characters in Dickens' novels is Dolly Varden, and in the 'seventies of last century she gave her name to a style of dress. There were Dolly Varden bonnets and Dolly Varden frocks, just as later there were Trilby hats and Trilby hats, although neither of these famous girls ever had any existence except in the pages of literature.

Working His Way.
 There was no one at the table but the landlady and Mr. Skaggs, and the latter was doing his best to cut the piece of steak on his plate.
 "Mr. Skaggs," said the landlady, firmly, "when are you going to pay your bill?"
 "Madam!" responded Mr. Skaggs, in a tone of surprise.
 "When are you going to pay your bill?"
 "I didn't know I had to," he said, as he looked reproachfully at the steak. "I thought I was working it out."
 A Suggestion.

Surnames and Their Origin

DUNLAP
 Variations—Dunleavy, Dunlevy, Dunliel, Donleavy, Don-Levi, Delap.
 Racial Origin—Irish and Scottish.
 Source—A given name.

This group of family names had its origin in the name of one of the ancient Irish clans, from which all of the foregoing variations have been derived in the process of Anglicizing the name.

The name Dunleavy occurs as native to Scotland, and as the name of a sept in the Clan Buchanan. But while it may have originated from the same given name as the Irish family name its source is more or less clouded in obscurity, and the only thing certain is that it had an origin independent of connection with the Irish clan. The older form of the Scottish name is "MacDon Leavy."

The Irish clansmen were known as the "MacDunshleibhe" or "O'Dunshleibhe." The clan came into being some time in the eleventh century, under the leadership of a chieftain named "Dunshleibhe," who was the son of the famous "Eochaidh," brother of "Maolruanaidh." This "Maolruanaidh" was the forty-seventh king of "Ulidia," of Ulster, and was slain in the great battle with the Danes at Clontarf in 1047.

"Don-Levi" was the peculiar English translation of the name adopted by a branch of the clan, but it was never widespread.

PEPPER.
 Racial Origin—English.
 Source—An occupation.

As has been explained in a previous article, which told why the family name of Spicer does not happen to be "Grocer," many terms which were in common use in medieval days are either uncommon or obsolete today, and many words and terms which are usual to-day had not come into general use at the period when family names were being formed.

Why have we no such English family name as "Carpetmaker"? Because virtually the only floor covering used in those days was rushes or hay. Why is there no such family name as "Physician"? Because in those days they were known rather as "leeches," and we have the family name of Leech or Leach.

We have no trade-to-day which corresponds exactly to that form which the family name of Pepper was taken. If we were forming the name-to-day from the name of the trade, we would have to call it Spicer or Spicegrinder, though the "spicer" of the Middle Ages corresponded to our modern grocer.

"Pepperer" is really the older form of the family name. The pepperers were the grinders and the sellers of pepper, specialists in that one article of trade. The repetition of the "er" syllable, however, became clumsy on the tongue, and the natural tendency was to shorten it to Pepper, though the reference was still to the trade and not to the article.

MADE HER BABY PLUMP AND WELL

Nothing makes a mother more grateful than a benefit conferred upon her child. Mothers everywhere who have used Baby's Own Tablets for their children speak in enthusiastic terms of them. For instance, Mrs. Zepherin Lavoie, Three Rivers, Que., writes:—"Baby's Own Tablets are a wonderful medicine for little ones. They never fail to regulate the baby's stomach and bowels, and make him plump and well. I always keep a box of the Tablets in the house and would advise all mothers to do likewise." Most of the ordinary ailments of childhood arise in the stomach and bowels, and can be quickly banished by Baby's Own Tablets. These Tablets relieve constipation and indigestion, break up colds and simple fevers, expel worms, allay teething pains and promote healthful sleep. They are guaranteed to be free from injurious drugs and are safe even for the youngest and most delicate child. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25c a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A River That Gets Rusty.
 Can you imagine a river that gets rusty? There is one which is subject to this phenomenon—the River Ob, which falls into the Arctic Ocean and runs through the north of Siberia. The Ob contains a great amount of iron. Every year when it freezes over the iron is cut off from the air. The result is that the metal precipitates, or, in other words, instead of being dissolved in the water, becomes a solid. The whole underside of the ice is covered thickly with rust, and even the fish and other creatures become rusty. In the lower reaches, where ice does not form, the water, ordinarily quite clear, becomes cloudy and discolored. The whole river, 2300 miles long, becomes poisonous.

People living near it have to quench their thirst with melted snow, and most of the fish leave the river and seek safety in the sea. They are told by instinct when the time arrives for their annual exodus.

In the spring the ice thaws and the air renders the river free from poison. The fish immediately return. They swim up the stream in such vast numbers that they are packed tightly together. Any boat that tries to navigate the river at this time forces thousands of fish onto the flat banks, where the natives kill them with sticks.

 W. G. Potter received $52.25 more for steers sired by a Pure Bred Bull than for steers sired by a Scrub Bull. He shipped five steers from common grade cows of equal merit. The two steers sired by a Scrub Bull brought $93.55 each, while the three steers sired by the Pure Bred Bull brought $147.80 each. The steers received the same care. Purer and better cattle are more profitable than a larger number of Scrub animals. Make your cows work for you rather than you should work for them. She Pitied the Lion.
 Uncle had just returned home from an expedition into Africa after big game, says the Tatler; he was delighting all the family with stirring tales of adventure in the jungle.
 "One of my beaters was so savagely bitten by a lion once," he announced, "that he had to have his arm amputated."
 There was a short silence while the information sank in, and then the small daughter of the house said in a sympathetic voice:
 "What a pity, uncle; the poor lion might just as well have had it."

The Uses of Advertisement.
 When Mark Twain was editor of a Missouri paper a reader wrote to him saying that he had found a spider in his copy of the current issue. Would the editor please say if this was a sign of good luck? To this Mark Twain replied:
 "Finding a spider in your paper was neither good luck or bad luck for you. The spider was merely looking over our paper to see which merchant is not advertising, so that he can go to that store, spin his web across the door, and lead a life of undisturbed peace ever afterward."

BLEMISHES OF THE SKIN
Are Proof the Blood is in a Weak and Watery Condition.
 One of the surest signs that the blood is out of order are the pimples and unsightly eruptions that break out on the face or body. The same condition is indicated by an attack of eczema or scrofula. You cannot get rid of these troubles by the use of purgative medicines, as so many people try to do. Purgatives merely gallop through the system and leave it still weaker. What is needed when the blood is shown to be out of order is a tonic which will restore its missing elements and leave the blood rich and red. For this purpose there is no other tonic can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, every dose of which helps enrich the blood, drives out impurities, and brings a new feeling of health and energy. Mrs. R. E. Bishop, Hawthorne Ave., Hamilton, Ont., tells for the benefit of others what these pills did for her. She says:—"I was suffering terribly from scrofula. I doctored with several doctors, but without success. My complexion was sallow, I had no strength, feeling very weak and languid. My neck was full of lumps called scrofula, and at times they were very painful. After trying several so-called blood medicines, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were recommended to me and I got half a dozen boxes. After taking them I found a decided improvement in my appearance, and to my joy the lumps were disappearing from my neck. I persevered in the treatment, and finally the only sign left of the trouble was a scar on my neck where one of the swellings broke. Since that time I have been in robust health and heartily recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to any suffering from impure blood."
 You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

No Money Made With Poor Stock.
 Breeders of live stock are facing problems to-day that require expert business-like handling.
 The high cost of feed, labor and heavy overhead expenses are matters the average farmer finds confronting him every day.
 Successful farmers have always realized the value of good breedings in live stock. Testimonials from these men are easily obtained and should convince the most skeptical that the only way to beat the labor situation, cost of feed, etc., is to keep only those animals that are bred to produce either milk or beef.
 The surveys conducted by Prof. Leitch in the different counties all go to prove that where farmers are using pure bred sires in either beef or dairy herds, they are making greater incomes with practically the same quantities of feed.
 When we consider that these figures were obtained from actual farmers, living under average farm conditions, we can hardly discredit them.
 Liberal feeding of inferior live stock, it was shown, was not as great a factor in increasing the labor income as was the use of pure bred sires. The pure bred sire has back of him generations of ancestors that were selected and bred with a specific purpose in view: either the production of beef or the production of milk.
 These characteristics are highly intensified in his blood so that he transmits them to his offspring, even when only a grade female is used.
 The grade sire has back of him generations of ancestors, that, like "Topsy," just happened. The result is that you can expect nothing but are liable to get anything.
 Haphazard hit and miss breeding operations are the causes of low labor incomes and financial failures among Ontario farmers to-day.
 The remedy lies in the farmers' hands.
 Buy a good pure bred sire of the breed of stock you are interested in and you have made the first step toward success.

The Demon.
 A Rhyme to Remember.
 Lurking beside the portals of the soul,
 Where fall the shadows of Life's darker days,
 Couchant, there waits the Demon who betrays
 My high resolves and shakes the will's control.
 When purpose prompts to noble enterprise,
 Or hails new duties for the soul to meet,
 The Demon softly whispers of defeat,
 And points to threatening omens in the skies.
 Untrodden paths allure my feet to dare,
 But as I set face forward to explore
 The Demon joins my elbow at the door,
 And hints of danger from some hidden snare.
 A crisis faces me, demands the need
 Of ready act and calmly alert mind;
 The Demon, softly stealing from behind,
 Grips me about and stays the hand of deed.
 Then wheel I in the moment of despair
 To face him, and he cringes 'neath my eye;
 Hot anger follows fear—he turns to fly,
 But ere he speeds I feel the Demon there.
 His ghost may haunt me yet, but now I know
 The craven spirit and his voice of lies;
 I cannot fear the thing that I despise;
 One act of manhood laid the traitor low!

 Many citizens of San Marino, one of the smallest republics in the world, are unable to read or to write. The Secretary of the republic, talking with an American visitor, explained how they got round the difficulty on election day. "The vote is by ballot," he said, "and on the day of election there are present a number of little girls dressed in white. If a voter cannot read or write he selects a little girl who can, and she prepares his ballot for him. A little girl, ignorant, is the purest thing on earth, and she is sure to practise no deceit on the man who trusts her."
