

Treaty Provides for Boundary Adjustments

Slight adjustments in the International Boundary between Canada and the United States which will remove certain anomalies and otherwise simplify the work of the International Boundary Commission, are provided for in a treaty signed at Washington on 24th February, 1925. All matters concerning the boundary between the Dominion and the United States are handled by a joint commission composed of one commissioner from each country. Mr. J. D. Craig, Director General of Surveys, Department of the Interior, being His Britannic Majesty's Commissioner.

Maps of the vicinity of the north-westernmost point on the lake of the Woods, based on notes of the surveys of 1872, showed that this meridian boundary intersected in five places the boundary passing through the lakes and the treaty recently signed provides for the moving of the boundary point known as the "westward-most point" of the lake of the Woods 4.785 feet due south, and thereby transferring to Canada two small water areas of about two and a half acres in extent which were formerly part of the United States, but which were entirely surrounded by Canadian waters, a somewhat anomalous situation. The treaty also stipulates that the boundary south of the provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, and Alberta, shall consist of a series of straight lines joining adjacent boundary monuments, instead of the present series of curved lines which are difficult of determination. The straight lines never deviate from the curves ones more than a few inches, and the total area involved is only about 25 acres, along a boundary of 853 miles in length. In this case the United States is the gainer. A small zone of water in Grand Manan channel between the provinces of New Brunswick and the state of Maine and formerly of controversial jurisdiction, has been divided between the two countries by extending the boundary 2,333 metres from its former terminus to the high seas. The treaty also provides for the permanent maintenance of the boundary line in a state of effective demarcation, by repair and renewal of boundary monuments and the reopening of boundary vistas.

The adjustment of the boundary in the Lake of the Woods region is a matter of considerable satisfaction. The earliest reference to the point is contained in the description of the boundaries of the United States in the treaty of Paris of 1783. By the treaty of Ghent, 1814, commissioners were appointed to decide upon the boundary through the Great Lakes as far west as the northwesternmost point of the lake of the Woods. In 1818 the 49th parallel of latitude was decided on as the boundary from the lake of the Woods to the Rocky mountains; in 1824 the latitude and longitude of the northwesternmost point in the lake of the Woods was determined, and in 1872 a line was run south connecting this point at the 49th parallel.

Money-Changing in China.

Everywhere most of our troubles are money troubles, writes Dorothy Dix in My Trip Round the World, but nowhere is the money question such a vexation to the spirit as it is in China. There every city issues its own currency, which is not legal tender in any other city. Peking money is not good in Shanghai, Shanghai dollars will not pass in Hongkong; the Canton merchant refuses your Hongkong pelf; and you are forever running to the money-changers, who charge you a big discount for turning the currency of one city into that of another.

Worse still, there is "big money" and "little money," both of which you must have, and this is a sort of a financial joke that you never quite understand. For you can take a dollar which is "big money," and get it changed into "little money," and have a dollar and fifteen or a dollar and twenty cents. If you buy some small article that you can pay for with the exact amount in "little money," the merchant will take it; but if you buy an article costing, say, one dollar and twenty-five cents or one dollar and a half, he will not take back in part payment the "little money" he has just given you.

Nowhere is there so much counterfeit money as in China, and in no other place is counterfeiting so skillfully done. Lead dollars that look exactly like the real thing are as plentiful as blackberries in summer, and in addition there are other dollars in which the silver has been dug out from the insides and the other surface carefully restored; so you have to be careful to deal only with reputable money-changers, who stamp in black or else nick every dollar; they give you that their "chop," and it is a guarantee that their money is the real thing.

There are certain creatures which never feel the pangs of thirst, for they are so constituted that drink is unnecessary to them, and they never swallow a drop of water in their lives. Among these animals are certain gazelles of the Far East and llamas of Patagonia.

The male of the honey-bee comes between the queen and the workers in size, and is stingless.

A GRATEFUL LETTER

From a Lady Made Well by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

"I wish from my heart I could persuade every person who is run down in health to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial." Thus writes Mrs. Louie Mitchell, Oak Point, Man., who further says:—"About a year ago I was a weak woman, suffering from a run down system and impoverished blood. Any little exertion would cause my legs to tremble and my heart to throb violently. I could not sweep a room or walk fifty feet without being exhausted. Then I began taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and after taking only six boxes I am as well and strong as ever. I can walk and run without stopping every few seconds gasping for breath as previously. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will be my stand-by in the future if ever my blood needs building up again, and I shall always with pleasure recommend them to anyone needing a tonic.

There are many troubles due to weak, watery blood which can easily be overcome by a fair use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The sole mission of this medicine is to enrich and purify the blood and when that is done all the varied symptoms of anemia disappear, and good health returns. You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box, by writing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A Family of Z's.

Some persons have a queer, not to say a perverse, humor in names, and when they happen to be parents they often inflict on their offspring names that are a lifelong embarrassment. A writer in the Boston Herald recalls the case of a man named Zuriel Cook, who, having been cursed with an outlandish name, determined that all his children should suffer with him.

Zuriel Cook married Polly Lombard at Henderson, New York, early in the nineteenth century. His large family of children were named as follows: Zuriel, Zeressa, Zeremo, Zelius, Zephronia, Zerolita, Zedina, Zegotus, Zolora, Zethaniel, Zeruth, Zolobus, Zodela and last of all James.

It is fair to presume that James was a posthumous child. If Mr. Cook had lived the boy would probably have been named Zephaniah or Zerubbabel.

A Poem You Should Know.

"Sigh No More, Ladies."
Many gem-like songs are found in Shakespeare's plays. The following is Balthazar's song in "Much Ado About Nothing":

Sigh no more, ladies, sigh no more;
Men were deceivers ever;
One foot in sea, and one on shore;
To one thing constant never:
Then sigh not so, but let them go,
And be you blithe and bonny;
Converting all your sounds of woe
Into, Hey nonny, nonny.

Steering in Their Sleep.

It was recently stated that a motorist had been fatally injured in a road accident caused by dozing while he was driving.

A number of motoring experts seem to incline to the view that many drivers have dozed at the driving-wheel at one time or other during their career. But they add that usually in such cases the man who dozes is still perfectly capable of driving his car without danger to himself or other passengers.

One case which occurred during the war seems to suggest that, in such circumstances, some special instinct keeps the sleeper right. An Engineer who was driving for the General Staff was ordered out with a big car after a heavy day. He found it difficult to keep awake, and finally succumbed to sleep. He was unconscious for about ten minutes, when he suddenly awoke to find that he had brought his car correctly to a standstill in front of a closed level crossing.

Mother-in-Law's Mistakes.

The mother-in-law of a young wife is undoubtedly in a difficult position. She has brought up her son, often at very great sacrifice. When he comes to her with the news that he has decided to get married she is full of mixed feelings.

Every mother is terrified that the girl will not be good enough for her boy. She looks at her with critical eyes, and later on, after the wedding, cannot resist pointing out the young wife's mistakes to her, and pointing them out also to her husband.

The young wife won't understand her mother-in-law's feelings until she is a mother-in-law herself.

Most of the interference of relatives is meant kindly, although it is done so clumsily that it falls absolutely in its object.

The little blunders of early married life never do much harm, certainly not so much harm as the quarrels that ensue when relatives interfere.

The greatest mistake young married people can make is to live with the parents of either, after marriage.

The first year of marriage is a year of adjustments. Young people, during an engagement, see each other at their best. After marriage they find out all sorts of little things about each other, things that disappoint, until tenderness and tolerance help them to bear them.

If they are alone these differences soon fade. When relations are there the temptation to confide is too great to resist, and once a third person is dragged in, all the privacy that is so important a part of married life, vanishes.

Young people should start nest-building alone, even if they can get only one room. And relations will, if they are wise, stand aloof until the period of adjustment is past.

How Plants Travel.

Most people would be surprised if told that the dandelion growing on their back lawn had its origin in Africa. Yet this might easily be so, for seeds do travel in the most remarkable way.

How, then, do they do it? One way is by air. Those that travel in this manner have a kind of wing or parachute attached to their seed, by means of which they can be carried by the wind for miles before they finally come to earth and grow.

Others with the aid of a light float take a sea voyage and travel with the current of the water for great distances. But by far the most interesting way of all is the seed that travels with animals and birds. This is done with the help of a hooked attachment which clings to the animal's fur.

Charles Darwin once took from the foot of a wandering bird a small fragment of hardened earth; this he moistened and warmed, and waited with curiosity to see whether or not anything would grow from it. To his surprise no fewer than eighty plants sprang from this small portion of soil.

MANY MOTHERS RECOMMEND THEM

Baby's Own Tablets Are Fine for Nervous, Sleepless Children.

"From Canada the fame of Baby's Own Tablets is spreading over the world. Mothers recommend them to other mothers and wherever they are heard of these pleasant tasting little tablets that promptly relieve the minor ailments of young children.

"Baby's Own Tablets are one of the best remedies for children's ailments I have ever used," says Mrs. Arthur T. Allen, of Auburn, Me. "My little girl was nervous and could not sleep. I tried the tablets and she was relieved at once. She was also troubled with constipation and nothing seemed to help her. I had used the tablets but a short time before her bowels were regular. All mothers should keep Baby's Own Tablets in the house for they are a valuable remedy."

Baby's Own Tablets are sold by all druggists and will be mailed on receipt of price, 25 cents per box, by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont. A little booklet, "Care of the Baby in Health and Sickness," will be sent free to any mother on request.

Britain Leads in Wireless Progress.

The new wireless station which the British Government expects to open next year at Rugby will make it possible for Great Britain to talk to the entire world without the aid of intermediaries.

Trials start in November, with twelve "Eiffel Towers," as the giant masts, which rise 320 feet in the air, are called. Never before has the Eiffel Tower in Paris been approached so nearly in height within the British Empire, although the famous tower in Paris is 90 feet high. The masts are among the tallest in the world, and are twice the height of St. Paul's dome. Five other stations are being built simultaneously with Rugby—at Bodmin, Bridgewater, Skegness, Grimsby and Inverness. Britain confidently hopes to lead the world in wireless development, and link up with the Mother Country not only the far-flung Dominions and colonies, but every other part of the world.

Scenery Under the Sea.

The reported discovery of a plateau only 150ft. beneath the surface of the Atlantic serves to remind us how little we know of the portion of the earth's surface—nearly three-fourths of the whole—that is covered by the sea.

It was only in 1901 that the stupendous Britannia submarine mountain range was discovered by the cable ship Britannia in the South Pacific.

The Edward VII. range, too, in the North Atlantic, was unknown to oceanographers until comparatively lately, although some peaks rise to within 100 fathoms of the surface.

Near by is Mount Laura Ethel, its summit only thirty-six fathoms below.

That the earth is much older than the sun is the opinion of a well-known scientist.

The timber of an oak is not really much good until the tree is about a century old.

Sheep on Manitoulin Island.

Sheep raising has, for many years, been an important branch of farming on Manitoulin Island, Ontario. Besides the good outlet for lambs to tourist camps during the summer months large numbers of lambs have been marketed in the fall in Toronto and other centres. Owing to a dry season a few years ago, the sheep population of the island fell away to some extent, but it is steadily building up and with better stock than was previously raised.

Last Lion Has Best Chance.

"When I was in India," said the club bore, "I saw a tiger come down to the water where some women were washing clothes. It was a very fierce tiger, but one woman with great presence of mind, splashed some water in its face—and it slunk away."

"Gentlemen," said a man in an arm chair, "I can vouch for the truth of this story. Some minutes after the incident occurred, I was coming down to the water. I met this tiger, and as is my habit, stroked his whiskers. Gentlemen, those whiskers were wet."

THE MERCHANTS' CORNER

Planning Your Advertising.

The oftener your advertising appears, the quicker it builds up a following and the more productive it becomes. The thing to do then is to make sure your advertising appears. Other elements enter in, however, to complicate the situation. Among these are: The amount of money a merchant can wisely use for advertising; the character and variety of stocks; the size of each advertisement; the use of other means of advertising. These and other factors, with the problems, and alternatives they present, must be carefully considered in planning advertising.

The year is the logical basis for the advertising plan. Each day holds sales possibilities. You must make

A Grim Jest!

When the Titanic disaster horrified the civilized world, one of the tales of untroubled escape concerned Oscar Palmquist, of Bridgeport, Conn.

When the Titanic smashed into the iceberg Palmquist was flung into the ice-cold midnight waters of the Atlantic. He swam for hours, hopeless of saving his life, but dauntlessly refusing to let himself give up. The icy waters chilled him to the bone. He was bruised and battered by floating debris. Again and again the waves broke over his head, or eddies sucked him under.

But he swam on! Kept afloat by his indomitable will-power and by his strength and prowess as a swimmer.

At last, after many hours, a rescue ship picked him up, more dead than alive. He recovered quickly from his hideous experience none the worse for it.

A few months ago the newspapers recorded Palmquist's death. He was drowned in a pool barely six feet deep.
