

EDGE HILL

Mr. J. G. Firth arrived home from the West last week where he spent a pleasant month visiting his sisters, Mrs. Perry and Miss Belle Firth, Levan, Sask.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Williams spent a few days with their daughter, Mrs. J. Mortley, Arthur.

Mr. John McDonald spent last week with friends in Priceville.

Mrs. R. Anderson, Brampton, visited one day recently with Mr. and Mrs. Adam Anderson.

Mr. W. G. Firth was in Guelph for a couple of days last week.

Mr. W. G. Ritchie left last Saturday for Detroit.

Last Sunday closed our Sunday School for this year. There were 5 teachers present every Sunday and an average attendance of thirty throughout the summer.

At the close the scholars were given the usual treat of candy.

The Grange Hall which has been renovated by the Ritchie Bros., is now ready for paint and final touches.

This week will about wind up the threshing for this season in our neighborhood.

Mr. John McFayden, his sisters, Misses Mary and Kate, with Mr. S. D. Croft and children and Miss Elizabeth McDonald, spent the first of last week with friends and relatives in Chesley and Sullivan.

It's mud, mud everywhere. Mr. John McFayden had the misfortune to lose one of his fine working horses last week.

PRICEVILLE

The continued winter like weather is causing much anxiety among the farmers, as nearly all the root crop is out.

Mr. Colin McLean pulled in home today with his threshing outfit. Threshing is all finished around here with the exception of a little sweet clover still in the field.

Mrs. Tom Walker of Williamsford has been visiting Mrs. Mather and Miss Lizzie.

The home of Mr. Arch McArthur is sorely afflicted at present, Mr. and Mrs. McArthur and Mr. McArthur Sr. all being under the Dr's care.

One of the pioneers of the South Line, Artemesia, in the person of Mrs. John McMillan, passed away on Saturday evening, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. A. D. McKinnon, S. L. Glen's, after a lingering illness.

The funeral is being held today to Evergreen cemetery. We will refrain from writing more about this estimable lady as the correspondent of Priceville and Glenelg, who is a life-long acquaintance, is so well able to write her obituary.

PRICEVILLE AND VICINITY

Mr. Alex. McPhail, Mr. and Mrs. Arch. McPhail of Russeldale, are visiting their cousins, Misses Sautler and Mr. Charlie McLean at present.

An interesting and social function was held on Tuesday evening in St. Columba United Church, Priceville, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society.

Put on as a Halloween social, with goblins, black cats, screech owls, etc., it had its ghosts and witches with their proverbial gooms, one of the latter reminding us of the song "Her long Roman nose nearly met with her chin, which brang folk in mind of the auld witch O'Endor."

Fortune telling by them contests by all, matching of severed proverbs, making a rhyme upon them and singing it there after, created great sport.

Mr. J. McMillan's group of four, won the prize. Miss Grace Ramage sang, introducing local celebrities in her song. Community singing was heartily joined in with Mrs. H. B. McLean at the piano.

Rev. S. G. McCormack without any exaggeration, showed good executive ability in the handling of all events. The weather was not the best, but a tidy sum beyond expectations was raised.

Mr. and Mrs. John Graham and Mr. and Mrs. John Bowie (sons-in-law), together with Mr. Joe Black, all of Toronto, arrived here Tuesday and are in attendance at a wedding of the latter's brother George, son of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Black, Glen's.

Messrs and Miss McPhail of Mitchell, were week end visitors at the home of Mr. Chas. McLean.

Miss Grace Ramage left Saturday last to be in attendance upon her friend, Mrs. Geo. Hargrave, who was operated upon Monday last by Dr's D. E. Jamieson and Smith of Durham. Latest reports tell of the patient doing nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. John Graham and Mr. and Mrs. John Bowie (sons-in-law), together with Mr. Joe Black, all of Toronto, arrived here Tuesday and are in attendance at a wedding of the latter's brother George, son of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Black, Glen's.

Messrs and Miss McPhail of Mitchell, were week end visitors at the home of Mr. Chas. McLean.

Miss Grace Ramage left Saturday last to be in attendance upon her friend, Mrs. Geo. Hargrave, who was operated upon Monday last by Dr's D. E. Jamieson and Smith of Durham. Latest reports tell of the patient doing nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. John Graham and Mr. and Mrs. John Bowie (sons-in-law), together with Mr. Joe Black, all of Toronto, arrived here Tuesday and are in attendance at a wedding of the latter's brother George, son of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Black, Glen's.

Messrs and Miss McPhail of Mitchell, were week end visitors at the home of Mr. Chas. McLean.

Miss Grace Ramage left Saturday last to be in attendance upon her friend, Mrs. Geo. Hargrave, who was operated upon Monday last by Dr's D. E. Jamieson and Smith of Durham. Latest reports tell of the patient doing nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. John Graham and Mr. and Mrs. John Bowie (sons-in-law), together with Mr. Joe Black, all of Toronto, arrived here Tuesday and are in attendance at a wedding of the latter's brother George, son of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Black, Glen's.

Messrs and Miss McPhail of Mitchell, were week end visitors at the home of Mr. Chas. McLean.

Miss Grace Ramage left Saturday last to be in attendance upon her friend, Mrs. Geo. Hargrave, who was operated upon Monday last by Dr's D. E. Jamieson and Smith of Durham. Latest reports tell of the patient doing nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. John Graham and Mr. and Mrs. John Bowie (sons-in-law), together with Mr. Joe Black, all of Toronto, arrived here Tuesday and are in attendance at a wedding of the latter's brother George, son of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Black, Glen's.

Messrs and Miss McPhail of Mitchell, were week end visitors at the home of Mr. Chas. McLean.

Miss Grace Ramage left Saturday last to be in attendance upon her friend, Mrs. Geo. Hargrave, who was operated upon Monday last by Dr's D. E. Jamieson and Smith of Durham. Latest reports tell of the patient doing nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. John Graham and Mr. and Mrs. John Bowie (sons-in-law), together with Mr. Joe Black, all of Toronto, arrived here Tuesday and are in attendance at a wedding of the latter's brother George, son of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Black, Glen's.

Messrs and Miss McPhail of Mitchell, were week end visitors at the home of Mr. Chas. McLean.

Miss Grace Ramage left Saturday last to be in attendance upon her friend, Mrs. Geo. Hargrave, who was operated upon Monday last by Dr's D. E. Jamieson and Smith of Durham. Latest reports tell of the patient doing nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. John Graham and Mr. and Mrs. John Bowie (sons-in-law), together with Mr. Joe Black, all of Toronto, arrived here Tuesday and are in attendance at a wedding of the latter's brother George, son of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Black, Glen's.

Messrs and Miss McPhail of Mitchell, were week end visitors at the home of Mr. Chas. McLean.

Miss Grace Ramage left Saturday last to be in attendance upon her friend, Mrs. Geo. Hargrave, who was operated upon Monday last by Dr's D. E. Jamieson and Smith of Durham. Latest reports tell of the patient doing nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. John Graham and Mr. and Mrs. John Bowie (sons-in-law), together with Mr. Joe Black, all of Toronto, arrived here Tuesday and are in attendance at a wedding of the latter's brother George, son of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Black, Glen's.

Messrs and Miss McPhail of Mitchell, were week end visitors at the home of Mr. Chas. McLean.

Miss Grace Ramage left Saturday last to be in attendance upon her friend, Mrs. Geo. Hargrave, who was operated upon Monday last by Dr's D. E. Jamieson and Smith of Durham. Latest reports tell of the patient doing nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. John Graham and Mr. and Mrs. John Bowie (sons-in-law), together with Mr. Joe Black, all of Toronto, arrived here Tuesday and are in attendance at a wedding of the latter's brother George, son of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Black, Glen's.

Messrs and Miss McPhail of Mitchell, were week end visitors at the home of Mr. Chas. McLean.

Miss Grace Ramage left Saturday last to be in attendance upon her friend, Mrs. Geo. Hargrave, who was operated upon Monday last by Dr's D. E. Jamieson and Smith of Durham. Latest reports tell of the patient doing nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. John Graham and Mr. and Mrs. John Bowie (sons-in-law), together with Mr. Joe Black, all of Toronto, arrived here Tuesday and are in attendance at a wedding of the latter's brother George, son of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Black, Glen's.

Messrs and Miss McPhail of Mitchell, were week end visitors at the home of Mr. Chas. McLean.

Miss Grace Ramage left Saturday last to be in attendance upon her friend, Mrs. Geo. Hargrave, who was operated upon Monday last by Dr's D. E. Jamieson and Smith of Durham. Latest reports tell of the patient doing nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. John Graham and Mr. and Mrs. John Bowie (sons-in-law), together with Mr. Joe Black, all of Toronto, arrived here Tuesday and are in attendance at a wedding of the latter's brother George, son of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Black, Glen's.

Messrs and Miss McPhail of Mitchell, were week end visitors at the home of Mr. Chas. McLean.

Miss Grace Ramage left Saturday last to be in attendance upon her friend, Mrs. Geo. Hargrave, who was operated upon Monday last by Dr's D. E. Jamieson and Smith of Durham. Latest reports tell of the patient doing nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. John Graham and Mr. and Mrs. John Bowie (sons-in-law), together with Mr. Joe Black, all of Toronto, arrived here Tuesday and are in attendance at a wedding of the latter's brother George, son of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Black, Glen's.

Messrs and Miss McPhail of Mitchell, were week end visitors at the home of Mr. Chas. McLean.

Miss Grace Ramage left Saturday last to be in attendance upon her friend, Mrs. Geo. Hargrave, who was operated upon Monday last by Dr's D. E. Jamieson and Smith of Durham. Latest reports tell of the patient doing nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. John Graham and Mr. and Mrs. John Bowie (sons-in-law), together with Mr. Joe Black, all of Toronto, arrived here Tuesday and are in attendance at a wedding of the latter's brother George, son of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Black, Glen's.

Messrs and Miss McPhail of Mitchell, were week end visitors at the home of Mr. Chas. McLean.

Miss Grace Ramage left Saturday last to be in attendance upon her friend, Mrs. Geo. Hargrave, who was operated upon Monday last by Dr's D. E. Jamieson and Smith of Durham. Latest reports tell of the patient doing nicely.

merous then, 65 years ago in the vicinity of Priceville, only one separator was in use by the late McArthur brothers of Caledon. Kennedy brothers were next with a Brampton separator. Only one of six brothers of 40 arator. Only one of six brothers of 40 to 65 years ago is now living—Angus at the town line, Priceville, who always made a good driver on the wheel. Angus didn't show partiality to his own horses for they were wise enough to keep the tugs straight without using the whip.

The residents in olden times were not so much taken up with politics as they are nowadays, though there were two parties in existence just the same. Some of the old heads did not stick with their party altogether, as for instance the late Geo. Jackson showed some favor as a land agent to the new comers in the bush. Though different in politics many of the Grits supported him owing to these favors shown while entering the woods. As for instance a father with a large family of boys would get a 50 acre lot or grant of land and on some certain occasions Mr. Jackson thought that too small and some times granted the older boy another 50 acres. This was a generous action of the good old Conservative for the future benefit of a large family.

There were no Progressives then, and if Miss McPhail and Mr. Campbell were in the land of promise then, there would be a third party. However both are good looking and we heard a good Conservative say, he never saw Miss McPhail look as well as she did at Nomination. So her looks and manner correspond, and by next Thursday we will know how much these statements mean.

We are sorry to hear of the accident which befel Mr. Jno. McArthur of the Glen, Glenelg, by falling into the cellar. We are pleased to hear that the aged gentleman is getting better.

We were pleased to have a call from Peter McArthur of Durham. Peter was 9 weeks in the Hospital from the effects of an injury to his knee in a fall at the Stone and Sand plant early in the summer. He is much better but is somewhat lame yet.

Many thanks to young Arthur Hutton for giving us a swift ride in his car from the old home, Durham Rd.

Snow was twice as deep in the vicinity of Priceville and sleighs were going there for a couple of days last week.

The harvest is past and the summer is ended. In some instances the harvest was overtaken by foul weather, causing a delay in securing the products of the farm. But Death's harvest is in operation by the weather foul or beautiful, for He is no respecter of persons. He enters one house this week end and in a few days or so enters another. He takes short cuts across the country unheeding the residents threat to stop him till he fulfills his object in view by claiming a victim. He says to the aged veteran: "I have spared you for a long time; you have seen many years in this world and now I claim you mine. You had many calls to prepare for my coming and now, while I have ended your existence, I hope that your departure from this world of pain and sickness is only the beginning of that joyful life in the house of many mansions where you will meet friends I have taken many years ago."

To the youth, he says "I have come to take you away before you experience the many temptations that will meet you on life's journey, ere you reach the pioneer state, and to which these words may apply, 'before the evil days come not nor the years draw nigh, when it may be said 'I have no pleasure in them.'"

Now this draws our attention to the present time. A short time ago the news came by phone to our residence of the death of a lady who has suffered long with an incurable ailment, in the person of Catherine McKinnon, widow of the late John McMillan, of the S. Line, Artemesia, at the age of about 72 years. Mrs. McMillan's youthful years were spent in the Tp. of Osprey and at about 23 became the happy bride of Mr. McMillan, who proved to be a dutiful life partner. To them were born sons and daughters, two of the sons and the father passing away a few years ago. Yet by faithful managing the widow and mother continued life's duties on the farm till she was overtaken by sickness, which ended in a paralytic stroke. She was carefully nursed by the son and daughter at the old home and about a year ago her daughter Annie, Mrs. Arch. McKinnon, took her to her own home, where she was well attended by son-in-law and son and daughter. And now the daughter especially can reflect in the past and say she has done what she could to alleviate a loving mother's ailment. The words of the poet might come to her mind: "That mother she has gone, Calm she sleeps in yonder tomb; While her family mourns, but happy To know she's entered a better home!" The funeral will be on Tuesday, 27th inst. to McKinnon cemetery, on the S. Line, Artemesia, and the procession will be from her son-in-law's residence, Mr. Arch. McKinnon, leaving at 2 p.m. To the bereaved family the community extend condolence in the loss of a beloved mother. More may be said in next week's paper. Rev. Mr. Sutherland will be the officiating minister at the funeral.

SWINTON PARK

Cheer up; better times are coming. At least so all Canada has been told by those great orators that have been broadcasting all over the land those contrary winds. But now that the campaign is over we can expect more settled conditions in general.

Many an anxious look is being cast these days along the potato fields as the greater part of the crop is still in the ground. Some are gone this morning to the Egremont Plowing Match, but it will be snow ploughing that are needed. Threshing is drawing near a close, the machines are making the second trip, finishing up those that were partly done. Still there are fields of sweet clover in stock.

This community welcomed Mr. and Mrs. Richardson and family of Toronto, who last week moved to the old Parslow farm, con 14, which they have purchased. We wish for their success in their new surroundings.

We can also rejoice with Mr. and Mrs. Jno. Plester of New England, Egremont Tp., who yesterday celebrated their golden wedding by a family gathering. Mr. and Mrs. Plester are old Swintonites and all join in wishing them the compliments of the occasion. We are sorry that neither of them are in very good health. All wish for them good health and many pleasant years yet to come.

ZION

Mr. Geo. Furneaux returns to St. Catharines this week after spending some time with the Peart families.

Mrs. Hugh McArthur is visiting the first of this week with her aunt, Mrs. Samuel Putterbough, Bentneck.

Mr. Robt Peart returned to Detroit Saturday after a most enjoyable three weeks' visit at his home here.

Mrs. Turner, Niagara Falls, N.Y., is visiting with Mr. and Mrs. A. Kleist. Mr. and Mrs. A. Kleist are attending a wedding this Wednesday of a relative near Walkerton.

Sorry to report that Mr. Robt. Allan is in such poor health.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. McFadden and family were callers at W. J. Cook's the latter part of last week.

A week ago Friday evening last over a hundred guests enjoyed themselves at a reception at the Davis home, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lawrence, who were the recipients of many beautiful and useful gifts. Hazel was one of Zion's most popular young girls and will be much missed in both church work and social gatherings.

New Post Office for Wlarton Plans have arrived in Wlarton for their new Post Office and have been approved by the Town Council and the Board of Trade. When their deputation returned from Ottawa last spring, and said that Wlarton would be one of the first three towns in Canada to have a new public building, the citizens were skeptical. Then the supplementary estimates came out allotting $20,000 and now the plans arriving, making it a certainty. The new building will have a frontage of 58 feet on Burford St. and 34 feet on George St., will be 24 feet high, of one storey construction. There are to be two main entrances, one for post office, the other for the customs-excise office. It presents a very pleasing appearance and will cost about $32,900, according to the architect. It is now eleven or twelve years since the new Durham post office was a live probability. The site is still waiting, but no government estimates have yet gone through for a building. Perhaps our coming M. P. will use her or his influence with the powers that be at Ottawa to that end!

Now this draws our attention to the present time. A short time ago the news came by phone to our residence of the death of a lady who has suffered long with an incurable ailment, in the person of Catherine McKinnon, widow of the late John McMillan, of the S. Line, Artemesia, at the age of about 72 years. Mrs. McMillan's youthful years were spent in the Tp. of Osprey and at about 23 became the happy bride of Mr. McMillan, who proved to be a dutiful life partner. To them were born sons and daughters, two of the sons and the father passing away a few years ago. Yet by faithful managing the widow and mother continued life's duties on the farm till she was overtaken by sickness, which ended in a paralytic stroke. She was carefully nursed by the son and daughter at the old home and about a year ago her daughter Annie, Mrs. Arch. McKinnon, took her to her own home, where she was well attended by son-in-law and son and daughter. And now the daughter especially can reflect in the past and say she has done what she could to alleviate a loving mother's ailment. The words of the poet might come to her mind: "That mother she has gone, Calm she sleeps in yonder tomb; While her family mourns, but happy To know she's entered a better home!" The funeral will be on Tuesday, 27th inst. to McKinnon cemetery, on the S. Line, Artemesia, and the procession will be from her son-in-law's residence, Mr. Arch. McKinnon, leaving at 2 p.m. To the bereaved family the community extend condolence in the loss of a beloved mother. More may be said in next week's paper. Rev. Mr. Sutherland will be the officiating minister at the funeral.

Now this draws our attention to the present time. A short time ago the news came by phone to our residence of the death of a lady who has suffered long with an incurable ailment, in the person of Catherine McKinnon, widow of the late John McMillan, of the S. Line, Artemesia, at the age of about 72 years. Mrs. McMillan's youthful years were spent in the Tp. of Osprey and at about 23 became the happy bride of Mr. McMillan, who proved to be a dutiful life partner. To them were born sons and daughters, two of the sons and the father passing away a few years ago. Yet by faithful managing the widow and mother continued life's duties on the farm till she was overtaken by sickness, which ended in a paralytic stroke. She was carefully nursed by the son and daughter at the old home and about a year ago her daughter Annie, Mrs. Arch. McKinnon, took her to her own home, where she was well attended by son-in-law and son and daughter. And now the daughter especially can reflect in the past and say she has done what she could to alleviate a loving mother's ailment. The words of the poet might come to her mind: "That mother she has gone, Calm she sleeps in yonder tomb; While her family mourns, but happy To know she's entered a better home!" The funeral will be on Tuesday, 27th inst. to McKinnon cemetery, on the S. Line, Artemesia, and the procession will be from her son-in-law's residence, Mr. Arch. McKinnon, leaving at 2 p.m. To the bereaved family the community extend condolence in the loss of a beloved mother. More may be said in next week's paper. Rev. Mr. Sutherland will be the officiating minister at the funeral.

Now this draws our attention to the present time. A short time ago the news came by phone to our residence of the death of a lady who has suffered long with an incurable ailment, in the person of Catherine McKinnon, widow of the late John McMillan, of the S. Line, Artemesia, at the age of about 72 years. Mrs. McMillan's youthful years were spent in the Tp. of Osprey and at about 23 became the happy bride of Mr. McMillan, who proved to be a dutiful life partner. To them were born sons and daughters, two of the sons and the father passing away a few years ago. Yet by faithful managing the widow and mother continued life's duties on the farm till she was overtaken by sickness, which ended in a paralytic stroke. She was carefully nursed by the son and daughter at the old home and about a year ago her daughter Annie, Mrs. Arch. McKinnon, took her to her own home, where she was well attended by son-in-law and son and daughter. And now the daughter especially can reflect in the past and say she has done what she could to alleviate a loving mother's ailment. The words of the poet might come to her mind: "That mother she has gone, Calm she sleeps in yonder tomb; While her family mourns, but happy To know she's entered a better home!" The funeral will be on Tuesday, 27th inst. to McKinnon cemetery, on the S. Line, Artemesia, and the procession will be from her son-in-law's residence, Mr. Arch. McKinnon, leaving at 2 p.m. To the bereaved family the community extend condolence in the loss of a beloved mother. More may be said in next week's paper. Rev. Mr. Sutherland will be the officiating minister at the funeral.

Now this draws our attention to the present time. A short time ago the news came by phone to our residence of the death of a lady who has suffered long with an incurable ailment, in the person of Catherine McKinnon, widow of the late John McMillan, of the S. Line, Artemesia, at the age of about 72 years. Mrs. McMillan's youthful years were spent in the Tp. of Osprey and at about 23 became the happy bride of Mr. McMillan, who proved to be a dutiful life partner. To them were born sons and daughters, two of the sons and the father passing away a few years ago. Yet by faithful managing the widow and mother continued life's duties on the farm till she was overtaken by sickness, which ended in a paralytic stroke. She was carefully nursed by the son and daughter at the old home and about a year ago her daughter Annie, Mrs. Arch. McKinnon, took her to her own home, where she was well attended by son-in-law and son and daughter. And now the daughter especially can reflect in the past and say she has done what she could to alleviate a loving mother's ailment. The words of the poet might come to her mind: "That mother she has gone, Calm she sleeps in yonder tomb; While her family mourns, but happy To know she's entered a better home!" The funeral will be on Tuesday, 27th inst. to McKinnon cemetery, on the S. Line, Artemesia, and the procession will be from her son-in-law's residence, Mr. Arch. McKinnon, leaving at 2 p.m. To the bereaved family the community extend condolence in the loss of a beloved mother. More may be said in next week's paper. Rev. Mr. Sutherland will be the officiating minister at the funeral.

Now this draws our attention to the present time. A short time ago the news came by phone to our residence of the death of a lady who has suffered long with an incurable ailment, in the person of Catherine McKinnon, widow of the late John McMillan, of the S. Line, Artemesia, at the age of about 72 years. Mrs. McMillan's youthful years were spent in the Tp. of Osprey and at about 23 became the happy bride of Mr. McMillan, who proved to be a dutiful life partner. To them were born sons and daughters, two of the sons and the father passing away a few years ago. Yet by faithful managing the widow and mother continued life's duties on the farm till she was overtaken by sickness, which ended in a paralytic stroke. She was carefully nursed by the son and daughter at the old home and about a year ago her daughter Annie, Mrs. Arch. McKinnon, took her to her own home, where she was well attended by son-in-law and son and daughter. And now the daughter especially can reflect in the past and say she has done what she could to alleviate a loving mother's ailment. The words of the poet might come to her mind: "That mother she has gone, Calm she sleeps in yonder tomb; While her family mourns, but happy To know she's entered a better home!" The funeral will be on Tuesday, 27th inst. to McKinnon cemetery, on the S. Line, Artemesia, and the procession will be from her son-in-law's residence, Mr. Arch. McKinnon, leaving at 2 p.m. To the bereaved family the community extend condolence in the loss of a beloved mother. More may be said in next week's paper. Rev. Mr. Sutherland will be the officiating minister at the funeral.

Now this draws our attention to the present time. A short time ago the news came by phone to our residence of the death of a lady who has suffered long with an incurable ailment, in the person of Catherine McKinnon, widow of the late John McMillan, of the S. Line, Artemesia, at the age of about 72 years. Mrs. McMillan's youthful years were spent in the Tp. of Osprey and at about 23 became the happy bride of Mr. McMillan, who proved to be a dutiful life partner. To them were born sons and daughters, two of the sons and the father passing away a few years ago. Yet by faithful managing the widow and mother continued life's duties on the farm till she was overtaken by sickness, which ended in a paralytic stroke. She was carefully nursed by the son and daughter at the old home and about a year ago her daughter Annie, Mrs. Arch. McKinnon, took her to her own home, where she was well attended by son-in-law and son and daughter. And now the daughter especially can reflect in the past and say she has done what she could to alleviate a loving mother's ailment. The words of the poet might come to her mind: "That mother she has gone, Calm she sleeps in yonder tomb; While her family mourns, but happy To know she's entered a better home!" The funeral will be on Tuesday, 27th inst. to McKinnon cemetery, on the S. Line, Artemesia, and the procession will be from her son-in-law's residence, Mr. Arch. McKinnon, leaving at 2 p.m. To the bereaved family the community extend condolence in the loss of a beloved mother. More may be said in next week's paper. Rev. Mr. Sutherland will be the officiating minister at the funeral.

Now this draws our attention to the present time. A short time ago the news came by phone to our residence of the death of a lady who has suffered long with an incurable ailment, in the person of Catherine McKinnon, widow of the late John McMillan, of the S. Line, Artemesia, at the age of about 72 years. Mrs. McMillan's youthful years were spent in the Tp. of Osprey and at about 23 became the happy bride of Mr. McMillan, who proved to be a dutiful life partner. To them were born sons and daughters, two of the sons and the father passing away a few years ago. Yet by faithful managing the widow and mother continued life's duties on the farm till she was overtaken by sickness, which ended in a paralytic stroke. She was carefully nursed by the son and daughter at the old home and about a year ago her daughter Annie, Mrs. Arch. McKinnon, took her to her own home, where she was well attended by son-in-law and son and daughter. And now the daughter especially can reflect in the past and say she has done what she could to alleviate a loving mother's ailment. The words of the poet might come to her mind: "That mother she has gone, Calm she sleeps in yonder tomb; While her family mourns, but happy To know she's entered a better home!" The funeral will be on Tuesday, 27th inst. to McKinnon cemetery, on the S. Line, Artemesia, and the procession will be from her son-in-law's residence, Mr. Arch. McKinnon, leaving at 2 p.m. To the bereaved family the community extend condolence in the loss of a beloved mother. More may be said in next week's paper. Rev. Mr. Sutherland will be the officiating minister at the funeral.

Now this draws our attention to the present time. A short time ago the news came by phone to our residence of the death of a lady who has suffered long with an incurable ailment, in the person of Catherine McKinnon, widow of the late John McMillan, of the S. Line, Artemesia, at the age of about 72 years. Mrs. McMillan's youthful years were spent in the Tp. of Osprey and at about 23 became the happy bride of Mr. McMillan, who proved to be a dutiful life partner. To them were born sons and daughters, two of the sons and the father passing away a few years ago. Yet by faithful managing the widow and mother continued life's duties on the farm till she was overtaken by sickness, which ended in a paralytic stroke. She was carefully nursed by the son and daughter at the old home and about a year ago her daughter Annie, Mrs. Arch. McKinnon, took her to her own home, where she was well attended by son-in-law and son and daughter. And now the daughter especially can reflect in the past and say she has done what she could to alleviate a loving mother's ailment. The words of the poet might come to her mind: "That mother she has gone, Calm she sleeps in yonder tomb; While her family mourns, but happy To know she's entered a better home!" The funeral will be on Tuesday, 27th inst. to McKinnon cemetery, on the S. Line, Artemesia, and the procession will be from her son-in-law's residence, Mr. Arch. McKinnon, leaving at 2 p.m. To the bereaved family the community extend condolence in the loss of a beloved mother. More may be said in next week's paper. Rev. Mr. Sutherland will be the officiating minister at the funeral.

Now this draws our attention to the present time. A short time ago the news came by phone to our residence of the death of a lady who has suffered long with an incurable ailment, in the person of Catherine McKinnon, widow of the late John McMillan, of the S. Line, Artemesia, at the age of about 72 years. Mrs. McMillan's youthful years were spent in the Tp. of Osprey and at about 23 became the happy bride of Mr. McMillan, who proved to be a dutiful life partner. To them were born sons and daughters, two of the sons and the father passing away a few years ago. Yet by faithful managing the widow and mother continued life's duties on the farm till she was overtaken by sickness, which ended in a paralytic stroke. She was carefully nursed by the son and daughter at the old home and about a year ago her daughter Annie, Mrs. Arch. McKinnon, took her to her own home, where she was well attended by son-in-law and son and daughter. And now the daughter especially can reflect in the past and say she has done what she could to alleviate a loving mother's ailment. The words of the poet might come to her mind: "That mother she has gone, Calm she sleeps in yonder tomb; While her family mourns, but happy To know she's entered a better home!" The funeral will be on Tuesday, 27th inst. to McKinnon cemetery, on the S. Line, Artemesia, and the procession will be from her son-in-law's residence, Mr. Arch. McKinnon, leaving at 2 p.m. To the bereaved family the community extend condolence in the loss of a beloved mother. More may be said in next week's paper. Rev. Mr. Sutherland will be the officiating minister at the funeral.

Now this draws our attention to the present time. A short time ago the news came by phone to our residence of the death of a lady who has suffered long with an incurable ailment, in the person of Catherine McKinnon, widow of the late John McMillan, of the S. Line, Artemesia, at the age of about 72 years. Mrs. McMillan's youthful years were spent in the Tp. of Osprey and at about 23 became the happy bride of Mr. McMillan, who proved to be a dutiful life partner. To them were born sons and daughters, two of the sons and the father passing away a few years ago. Yet by faithful managing the widow and mother continued life's duties on the farm till she was overtaken by sickness, which ended in a paralytic stroke. She was carefully nursed by the son and daughter at the old home and about a year ago her daughter Annie, Mrs. Arch. McKinnon, took her to her own home, where she was well attended by son-in-law and son and daughter. And now the daughter especially can reflect in the past and say she has done what she could to alleviate a loving mother's ailment. The words of the poet might come to her mind: "That mother she has gone, Calm she sleeps in yonder tomb; While her family mourns, but happy To know she's entered a better home!" The funeral will be on Tuesday, 27th inst. to McKinnon cemetery, on the S. Line, Artemesia, and the procession will be from her son-in-law's residence, Mr. Arch. McKinnon, leaving at 2 p.m. To the bereaved family the community extend condolence in the loss of a beloved mother. More may be said in next week's paper. Rev. Mr. Sutherland will be the officiating minister at the funeral.

Now this draws our attention to the present time. A short time ago the news came by phone to our residence of the death of a lady who has suffered long with an incurable ailment, in the person of Catherine McKinnon, widow of the late John McMillan, of the S. Line, Artemesia, at the age of about 72 years. Mrs. McMillan's youthful years were spent in the Tp. of Osprey and at about 23 became the happy bride of Mr. McMillan, who proved to be a dutiful life partner. To them were born sons and daughters, two of the sons and the father passing away a few years ago. Yet by faithful managing the widow and mother continued life's duties on the farm till she was overtaken by sickness, which ended in a paralytic stroke. She was carefully nursed by the son and daughter at the old home and about a year ago her daughter Annie, Mrs. Arch. McKinnon, took her to her own home, where she was well attended by son-in-law and son and daughter. And now the daughter especially can reflect in the past and say she has done what she could to alleviate a loving mother's ailment. The words of the poet might come to her mind: "That mother she has gone, Calm she sleeps in yonder tomb; While her family mourns, but happy To know she's entered a better home!" The funeral will be on Tuesday, 27th inst. to McKinnon cemetery, on the S. Line, Artemesia, and the procession will be from her son-in-law's residence, Mr. Arch. McKinnon, leaving at 2 p.m. To the bereaved family the community extend condolence in the loss of a beloved mother. More may be said in next week's paper. Rev. Mr. Sutherland will be the officiating minister at the funeral.

&lt;