Garland, MacPhail, Oliver, Speak in Durham

The Province pays half, it must agree to it before becoming law.
Tenders for Durham's new Post Office would be called May 31st and building proceed this year. The opposition had enquired if site had been purchased when estimates were before the House, but when told it had been bought by a Conservative Government, they offered no opposition. Durham was lucky to get it as many other places wanting public buildings were not similarly favored. The budget was a mild affair—a standstill, comfortable budget. It amounted to little; the duty on matches was lowered, but it was doubtful if the benefit reached the consumer.

The Government is making a tremendous effort to secure immigrants to settle on the farms, but they don't tell the people already here how to keep their land and make a living on it. She had been accused of indifference to returned men but on the contrary she was so interested in their welfare that she believed all should be so provided for, none would ever suffer hardship. The increase in military estimates should be turned over to returned men. She believed in practising patriotism, but didn't like this shouting it. A woman who marries a foreign man loses her British citizenship; she desired the law amended to retain it.

"I found the past session very interesting," remarked Miss MacPhail, "and criticism I have received has not made me sorry I am in public life or member for S. E. Grey. I may sometimes be untrue to your best thought: at any rate I am true to self."

F. R. OLIVER

F. R. Oliver, M.P.P., suffering from a cold, delivered a brief, bright address. This old time-worn hall had many memories and thoughts which could not be taken away, still Durham needed a new Hall perhaps more than anything else.

Miss MacPhail incurred the wrath of opponents at regular intervals but people could see it was for political purposes. Alberta, Mr. Garland's province, had the best agricultural organization in Canada. South Grey had Ontario's best and was looked to as a pattern all over the province.

Farmers were not organized for any selfish purpose for the Legislature, but to better Agricultural conditions: as agriculture prospers, so does the nation.

MR. GARLAND

Mr. Garland, in a brilliant, well-reasoned address, contended agriculture had not been advancing like other industries. "You have a most beautiful province, and you farmers are helping nature to produce what mankind needs. You are the salt of the earth." Equal justice is required in farm and city conditions: the cities couldn't last without country infusion.

Canada's invested agricultural wealth was about six billion dollars, the annual income slightly over a billion; while industrial wealth was scarcely four billions, with annual income was three billions.

Domestic statistics showed average value of farm land decreased from $38 an acre in 1925 to $37 in 1926, while over a two year period industrial stocks increased from 100 to $307.

There is no gov't legislature or large city council, that is not controlled or dominated by wealth. He quoted at length from Prof. W. B. Munro's remarks, attempting to defend control of gov't by wealth. Our political parties, he said, are controlled by vested wealth in its interests; the greatest evil is that actual control is in the hands of a few individuals who have power to increase or decrease prices at will.

The U.F.A. had developed a new theory—the people must have some binding link, and this was common economic needs. They sought Ag. representation only proportionate to voting strength. "The only people who can work in your interests is yourselves: pay your own campaign expenses" were among his concluding remarks.

Immediately following the football game between Ayton and Holstein, a Western play entitled "An Arizona Cowboy", free from the rough stuff so often introduced, was given by the Ayton Dramatic Society in the hall here. The play was exceptionally well balanced and all took their part well. One couldn't single out any special character as being better than others. The Club are a fine group of ladies and gentlemen, and it is to be hoped that another year, Mr. Holstein, they will be favored with a larger house, which they well deserve.

Holstein 3, Ayton 2

Holstein won their opening game of the season on their own grounds from Ayton by the score of 3-2. The grounds were in ideal shape, having been rolled during the afternoon, but the weather was anything but suitable. During the day a drizzling rain had been falling, but during the afternoon it cleared off, the weather was cold and windy, making it hard to control the ball. Nevertheless some 150 faithful fans turned out for the game and during the last minutes of the game when score was close, the visitors were making it hot for all concerned, in the weather. The teams were gathered together at the centre of the field by Referee Goheen of S. Park and Holstein won the toss and the wind. The teams got into the line, the whistle blew and away went the game. With the wind in their favor, Holstein were continually pressing during the first half. Seldom was their goal in danger and Pinder was not called upon to make a stop. The locals were in close defence the first 10 min. of play but were either outkicked or shot wide. They were finally relieved when Calder, receiving a pass from right wing, tricked his way in shot and hit the upright and scored on the rebound. A regrettable accident occurred when Dickson put his knee out. The game was held up while the visit was damaged, but to no avail. He ran off finished the first half but at beginning of second he was forced to quit, and the locals finished with 10 men.

The second goal was scored by H. Pinder in a shot from right wing. Yandt, in playing the ball, deflected it into his own goal. Clements made some nice tries from centre but shot high. Red Pinder nearly scored on a long, fast drive from left wing which hit the goal post while Sandy McKenzie hit the cross bar. The forward line worked well and were untiringly not to score more. Half ended with the locals leading 2-0.

The second half was more even, the Holstein scored first in the last half on the nicest effort of the night. Clements took the ball up centre, passed Calder, Clements switched to outside left to fill Dickson's place and on the pass out, centred the ball. Red Pinder came in fast and scored. The play was quite even for the balance of the game. Clements tricked his way in and shot but Szembre saved. Near the close of game Werner went up right wing and shot the ball, hitting the cross bar and rebounded into play. A scramble ensued and Seim scored for Ayton. A few minutes later, Seim and Sturzbach tricked their way and the latter scored, the game ending with locals leading 2-2.

Line up: Ayton—Szembre, Yandt, Hahn, Lumsden, Thomas, Schenk, Werner, Wright, Seim, Sturzbach and Widmeyer.

Holstein—Roy Pinder, Long, Gibson, H. Pinder, J. McKenzie, Eccles, J. Calder, Dickson.

Ford to Produce New Model

Mr C. H. Wales, district sales manager of the Ford Motor Company of Canada, who is in town to-day, confirmed the announcement that the company will produce a new car but added that it will probably be September before the new car is available for sale. In the interval, he said, sale of the Model T will be continued. The announcement that the new car will be more expensive to manufacture than the present model should set at rest rumors as to a price cut. Further, Mr Wales, said, the established Ford policy of confining trade-in business principally to cars of its own make will give owners of present Ford models a distinct advantage in procuring a new model when it does come on the market. This practice, he said, is based upon the established re-sale value of Ford cars. Many dealers are already selling the new car 'right unseen' and orders will be filled in rotation, so that the owner of a current model who gets his order in early, will enjoy a distinct advantage when the delivery of the new car begins.

The new car, Mr. Wales said, will keep the Company's name to the fore in the motor world and will be built upon the same quality basis of high quality at low cost. Work on the new model was begun several years ago, he said, but the sale of Model T continued at such a pace that there never seemed to be an opportunity to get the new car started. Even now
