The Second Method. Selling service is a sure return.

Work well done makes constant demand for more work. Caddying, hunting lost balls, mowing lowns, watching parked cars, washing cars at a dollar apiece, helping people move, gathering dandelion greens, weeding gardens, windows, carrying water ta games, rainting screens, cleaning yards and basements, delivering packages, folding advertising circulars, distributing handbilis-these are a few of the many ways this group used

Partnerships Between Boys. Often partnerships between boys are an added incentive to work. One case of this kind resulted most happily. The two boys bought old roller skates from the jank man at 5 cents a pair. They converted them into "skooters" by adding a grocery box and a running board and sold them for 50 cents apiece.
