Does Prosperity lessen self reliance? President R. B. Reynolds of the O. A. C., speaking to the Elgin Trustees Association expresses a fear of the effect of prosperity in Ontario. He declared that the indulgences brought by prosperity detracted from education and the more prosperous the province became the more detrimental would be the effect. Conditions of 40 years ago which required a large measure of frugality in rural Ontario, developed qualities in the young people not found to-day. Possibly there is a danger as the learned gentleman states, but we do not think prosperity detracts from edu- good condition. For further particucation, says the Bruce Times. With a prosperous country there are a greater number of students attending the higher schools than ever before. Prosperity may leave the young people less self reliant, but one of the duties of such institutions as the pro- ply at once. fessor has charge of, is to inculcate self reliance.
