MOFFAT—ROBINSON

A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized at Knox Manse on Wednesday, April 25, by the bride's pastor, Rev. W. H. Smith, B.A., when Miss Myrtle Wilma Robinson, eldest daughter of Mr and Mrs David Robinson, Edge Hill became the bride of the late Henry and Mrs Moffat, also of Edge Hill. The wedding was of the quietest possible nature and the ceremony was witnessed by only the bride's brother Clarence and sisters, Dorothy and Alma. The bride wore a navy blue georgette dress below a blue tricotine coat and hat to correspond. The groom's gift was also worn, a gold bar pin set with an olive stone in pearls.

Immediately after the ceremony the young couple boarded the CPR afternoon train for Toronto, where they spent a few days, returning home on Saturday night. They have taken up homemaking on the groom's farm, and here the best wishes of their friends follow them for a happy and prosperous voyage through life. In these the Review wishes to join.

THE EXPORT OF EXPORTS

HERMANN TRELE, the Peace River grain breeding expert, is reported to have received an offer of $25,000 a year from a research institution in California. We do not know whether Mr Trele has accepted or will accept, but certainly nobody could blame him for so doing, more especially as the position offered him will probably enable him to do more effective work, through association with other investigators than he could possibly do as a private agriculturist in British Columbia. If he removes from Canada, he will be merely one more in the long procession of eminent experts whom Canada has been unable to keep at home.

We should like to see Canada do much more than it does to encourage its research experts to remain at home and devote themselves to the problems which vex Canadians. But perhaps we need not be unduly depressed at the fact that we cannot provide many $25,000 posts, with which to accommodate them. The fact is that the very best work that the experts do is usually done in the early years of their expatriation, before they get mixed up with large organizations and big salaries and red tape.

So if we can continue to provide ourselves with a supply of Treles and Bantings and such-like to do their early work in Canada and on Canadian subjects we shall be able to survive the fact that we cannot bid for them against $25,000 offers when they are mature and famous. And it does seem to be a fact that the Canadian people can produce a little better than their share of brilliant young scientists, even if they can't pay them to stay at home when they have ceased to be young. It is better to have had and lost, experts, than never to have had any at all.

Origin of Township Names in Grey Co.

ST. VINCENT TOWNSHIP (1840)

From St Vincent and from Victory, and Wellington come well. These cheers that are of warm welcome home from hard-fought battles tell

This township first bore the uninviting name of Zero which was changed to St Vincent in memory of John Jervis, Earl of St Vincent, born at Meaford Hall, near Stone in Staffordshire, 1734, died 1823. He went to sea under Lord Hawke when he was 10 years of age. For his exertions at Quebec he was publicly commended by Sir Chas. Saunders and on his return from America in 1780 he was promoted to the rank of post-captain. At the trial of Admiral Keppel, Captain Jervis gave testimony in favor of the accused officer. In 1793 he was ordered to West Indies to assist Sir Chas Grey in his operations against Martinique. He was next appointed to the Mediterranean squadron and proceeded to block the Spanish fleet at Cadix. The battle took place on Feb. 11, 1797. Jervis having fifteen vessels to oppose 27 ships of the enemy. After the battle he sailed into the Tagus with four captured ships and a large number of prisoners. For this he was raised to the peerage, awarded a gold medal and granted a pension of 3000 pounds a year. He afterwards served as First Lord of the Admiralty and died at the age of eighty nine, leaving no heir. His body was interred in the family mausoleum in Stone churchyard.

A NOTABLE ANNIVERSARY

The hundredth anniversary of the birth of Henri Dunant, founder of the Red Cross Society, is to be celebrated this year as never before. He was born May 8, 1828, died Oct. 31, 1910 and this year 59 nations who have adopted his idea as found in the Red Cross will celebrate his birth.

He was travelling as a tourist, when the battle of Solferino was being fought when 300,000 troops were engaged for 15 hours on a broiling June day. The French and Italians defeated the Austrians, but left 40,000 wounded, dying and dead with no one to come to their aid, relieve their agonies or even quench their thirst. Shocked into immediate action Dunant organized a band of volunteer workers and for several days labored unceasingly to relieve the sufferings of those who had fallen. The authorities issued an edict of neutrality for his hastily formed band of helpers, who were officially recognized by the peasant costume of Lombardy which they wore, but in spite of the lack of surgeons, it was only with great difficulty that he obtained permission to make use of the Austrian doctors who had been made prisoners of war.

Eatons Purchase Canadian Departmental Stores

The current report the last month or two, that the T. Eaton Co. of Toronto, had purchased the insolvent Canadian Departmental Stores Limited, was verified Wednesday, when the sale was officially announced. Eatons paying $4,000,000 cash down. The purchase includes 21 leading department stores at important points in Ontario and Quebec, and is in line with the Eaton policy of expansion. WILL ABOLISH TOMBSTONES!

In a new Roman Catholic cemetery at Guelph, not a single memorial will be permitted. Rich and poor alike will lie under small tablets two and a half feet long and six inches wide, and on these likely will be recorded name, date and age. If a sensible movement such as this were widely adopted, it would result in a saving of thousands of dollars, in every community and prevent invidious feeling between rich and poor in "God's acre."

Of course love for the memory of the dead often leads to lavish expenditure where it can be afforded, (and sometimes where it can't) but the true mourner needs no marble aid to keep alive the feeling of affection for those "gone before."

But who will have the courage of Rev. Father Doyle to begin the innovation?

IS CANADA'S PREMIER CONTEMPERING MATRIMONY?

The Winton Echo Editor, Mr Duncan, has a two column article last week on the imaginary signs two lady delegates from his town saw while delegates to Ottawa to the Women's Liberal Convention. Mr. Duncan has it pretty well sized up and his musings on the ladies trip, are not, we would imagine, far out. But his conjecture regarding the future domestic state of Premier King is new here and for the benefit of our readers, will give this gossip from Mr Duncan's pen for what it is worth:

"I heard a choice bit of gossip along matrimonial lines involving members of the House of Commons, the materialization of which would create a situation in political forces that would put the Union Government experiment of 1917-19 into the good old days of monarchical government, kings carried their diplomatic alliances to such an extent that sons and daughters had no choice of their own as to whom they should marry. That was all arranged by their royal parents in the supposed interests of their countries, just as one government to-day makes a trade treaty with another. Should conjecture materialize into fact, Canada will no longer have a bachelor Prime Minister and a very illustrious lady in high conservative circles would become Canada's first lady, but in this instance Cupid would be responsible and not diplomacy."
