

"Talkies" Owe Their New-Found Voice to the Telephone

All predictions lead to the belief that talking moving pictures—the Movietones—will be used universally very shortly, and the silent drama will perhaps be less dominant. Engineers of the Bell Telephone Laboratories were making a careful study of the ways in which speech is produced, when they discovered and developed the successive steps that have led to this newest achievement in motion picture entertainment. The telephone, which is being rapidly introduced to enthusiastic audiences throughout this continent, with Montreal as the first Canadian City to have installed the required equipment. Madge Bellamy, Fox Star, is shown above impersonating Sir Harry Lauder. Oval inset shows inspection of a wax disc upon which sound vibrations will be recorded.

THE GREAT CONTEST ACROSS THE BORDER

On Tuesday of next week the great decision will be made, who is to be President of nearly 120,000,000 people. Both Hoover and Smith are preaching victory which of course is a good way to rouse their friends to action if they incline to be sluggish. Several journals are asking their readers to contribute their opinions by 'straw votes' as to who is going to win, and most of these give Hoover, the Republican, a majority. But this method is at best, guesswork. All we can be sure of is that the sympathies of Canada are with Hoover.

GREEN GROVE

A social given by the Sunday School officials, school section, etc.—in fact, a community social was held in the school house on Tuesday evening and was of a Halloween nature. The ghosts were out and two entered the school and received the visitors. Mr Rob. McPadden was appointed to the chair and had a program of songs readings and recitations and dialogues to call off. Lunch was served all at the close and the children were given a helping of candy as a special favor.

Miss Rieta Willis spent an evening with her friend, Miss Grace Hopkins. Miss Ethel Hargrave spent an evening with Miss Kathleen Firth.
Mr and Mrs Sam Patterson have returned from their Western trip, and are this week busy moving into the Will McGowan home in town, they purchased last Spring.
Mrs Will Hunter and family, of Egremont, spent Saturday with Mr. and Mrs John Hamilton.
Miss Mary Moore, McWilliams, spent an evening recently with Miss Ruby Lawrence.
Mr Harold Morrison has returned from the West and visiting friends in this vicinity.

Mr and Mrs Rob McFadden, Mrs. R. Bell and Mr and Mrs L Chapman, visited recently with Mr and Mrs. F. Cuff, Aberdeen.
Mrs Geo. Noble of town, spent Saturday with her daughter, Mrs Jno. McGirr.

HYMNEAL

HUTTON — WYLIE

A pretty wedding took place at 26th St. Craig Baptist Church, Oct. 26th, when Janet Melroy, second daughter of Rev W. W. and Mrs Wylie and William James Hutton, son of Mrs. Hutton and the late Isaac Hutton, of near Durham, were united in holy bonds of matrimony.

The bride's brother Wilson gave her away and she was supported by her sister Catharine, while Mr Douglas Ewen, Durham, supported the groom. While the register was being signed, James Wylie sang 'Promise Me'. The church was beautifully decorated with arches of white asters and white dahlias and palms and a variety of other flowers. Jas Wylie and Wm Kellar were ushers.
A buffet luncheon was served the guests in the bride's home, a number of girl friends assisting. The bride and groom left by motor on a wedding trip to Niagara, Toronto and Durham, and on return, will make their home in Detroit.
The bride is well known here from the time of her father's pastorate in Durham Baptist Church and the groom makes annual trips to town to visit his mother and sisters. The best wishes of their friends are extended to the young couple

JOHNSTON — HERD

A quiet wedding was solemnized at 2 P. M., Oct. 17th, at Hanover Presbyterian Manse, by Rev. G. C. Little, when Miss Catharine Herd, only child of Mr and Mrs Alex Herd, Allan Park, and Mr Rupert Fullerton Johnston, son of Mr and Mrs Robt. Johnston, Vickers, were united in holy bonds of matrimony. The only witnesses to ceremony were the parents of respective parties and immediately after the ceremony, the young couple left on the CNR for a short wedding trip to Toronto.
The bride was handsomely gowned in a royal blue georgette transparent velvet and with it went hat to correspond. The groom's gift to the bride was a gold brooch with amethyst setting.
While in Toronto, the bride's aunt, Mrs Bradley, tendered the young couple a shower, when many pretty gifts, chiefly in silver, came the bride's way.
On the evening of 24th October, on their arrival home from Toronto, a reception was tendered them at the home of bride's parents, when about one hundred and fifteen neighbors and friends gathered to extend in person their good wishes and congratulations. Many beautiful gifts were bestowed upon them on this occasion also. The evening was spent in music and dancing. The Misses Fursman contributed several piano numbers.

"Scottish Characteristics"

Paper read and Prepared by Mrs. D. Lamb, Aberdeen and read at a recent Women's Institute Meeting

More than a century ago the English essayist, Sydney Smith said that it required a surgical operation to get a joke into a Scotchman's head. Evidently Smith, with all his knowledge of human nature, failed to understand the Scottish character. The Scotch have not the rollicking humor that characterizes English humor, but the keen wit which is so much the possession of the French. But the Scotch have a deep sense of humor, often droll, frequently grim and ironical, but it is there and those who understand the people know that it is invariably kindly.
Some years ago those who held the popular delusion that the Scotch have no sense of humor, received a crushing rebuke when it was proven that the English humorous magazine "Punch" has a larger circulation, "according to population" in Great Britain in any other city of significance than the world's most popular humorist at present, Sir Harry Lauder, whose much of his popularity to the fact that his songs and quips are so characteristically Scotch. Much of the appeal of Robbie Burns poetry would be lost were it not for the note of humor, so tender and human.
The late Rev. John Watson, D.D. (Ian McLaren) used to lecture on "Scottish Traits." He accounted for the trait of economy, which is supposed to be most characteristic of all Scottish tendencies in two ways. For centuries the Scotch had to cultivate land which needed infinite patience to coax to productivity. It was hard and stony and so often in the teeth of the snow storm the harvest was gathered on bleak mountain sides. For centuries the struggle to live went on and it developed the most rigid appreciation for the need of economy. There could be no prodigal waste under such conditions. Life was stern and the irony of such experience entered into Scotch character, so that the race of people was produced who regarded extravagance as a vice. There is another reason which accounts for Scotch cannicness and is this. In olden times not only did they have to labor unceasingly to wrest a harvest from the soil, but they were being constantly plundered by their enemies. Their neighbors to the south harassed them and the French from across the sea often paid most unwelcome visits to the unguarded coasts during harvest. So the Scotch by necessity became watchful, careful, economical. But all who understand the Scotch people know that there is no warmer or more generous hospitality to be found anywhere than in the land of cakes.

There is no country where there is more regard for education than in Scotland. It is proverbial that the schoolmaster there, even in the most remote highland glens is constantly on the lookout for boys 'wi' pairs'. He is infinitely more concerned about turning out scholars than he is in developing the keen and aggressive qualities that make for business success. A millionaire in a Scotch village would excite no interest, but the presence of a scholar would bring folks from far and near. Probably in no country in the world have men denied themselves more in order to obtain an education than in Scotland.

It is well known that many of the most illustrious names in the records of her universities are of those who knew the most abject poverty. If the students have struggled and sacrificed, what of the parents? Here are Dr Watson's words on that subject: "Come with me where the heather rolls in purple billows, come with me to any highland glen you can think of or of which you have read. Here's a shepherd's cottage on top of which the mosses grow. Stopping we enter the doorway and are shown into the best room where in striking contrast to the rest of the poor furniture is a shelf of calf-bound books. The shepherd's wife is in reality, anxious to have you examine these books and ask about them, tho' Scotch manners prevent her from calling them to your attention. It would be a vain display and boasting to speak of them first. But when you have broken the ice, she will take you into the kitchen and tell you that they were the university of her son for whom she family had toiled and saved that he might have an education. To have a scholar in the family is one of the greatest ambitions of Scotch parents and to reach that goal no sacrifice is too great, no labor too hard.

The Scotch as a race are deeply religious and while the picture drawn by Burns 'Cottar's Saturday Night' is an ideal, it has been realized in thousands of homes in that rugged land of heather-clad hills. The Scotchman's reverence for religion is proverbial, his deepest respect for the minister is touching and not without its sense of humor. Dr Watson tells of a Scotch woman, whose husband was very ill. Her minister was that great preacher, Rev. Norman McLeod, for whom she and her husband had the most profound respect. But she sent for another minister to visit her sick husband. In speaking with the wife this man was astonished to find that she and her husband belonged to Dr McLeod's church. "Why did you not have him come to visit your husband' he asked. 'Why,' she replied, 'do you think we would risk Norman with the typhus fever.'

ROCKY U.F.W.O. CLUB ENTERTAINS VARNEY CLUBS

Rocky Saugeen U. F. W. O. Club chose the only good night of the week for their social evening at Rocky Saugeen schoolhouse on Friday last, when they were hostesses to the three Varney clubs. The school was crowded to the door and the overflow extended to the school platform for the lunch period. Mrs. Robt Lawson presided over the program which was given in the main, by the Varney young people. These young people put on three spicy dialogues, that caused much laughter and the costumes in some cases were relics of a former day. The opening number was a dance by the school children: readings, Miss Ruby Morrison, Mrs John Marshall, Mrs Arthur Edge; recitation, Miss Myrtle McLean; song, Mr P. Ramage; music, Rocky orchestra and Stewart McArthur.

A substantial lunch was served all at the close of program and Mrs A. Smith, on behalf of Varney Clubs, voiced the thanks of their Club, for the reception tendered them.
Rocky U. F. O. Club feel the need of a central community hall for the winter evenings and Mr Jas Lawrence, has, we understand, kindly offered a free site and a cash donation to the building of same. This discussion is only in its embryo stage as yet, but with that vim and energy characteristic of the Rocky people, one would not be surprised were the idea to germinate into something.

IT WILL TAKE A LOT OF STRENGTHENING

This is the season of the year when the annual chicken suppers make their appearance in many of the rural churches. And isn't it a musing that among the hundreds who attend are a few who walk up and deposit 50c and then spend the next three hours gorging on huge quantities of roast chicken, hot vegetables, salads, pastries, etc, and sit in comfort listening to an expensive program by talented artists and imagine they are thus strengthening the walls of Jerusalem.—Walkerton Bruce Herald and Times.

Two papers in one—The Family Herald and Weekly Star, Montreal, one for the farm, the other for the home, both of superior excellence. One dollar a year covers the subscription, or three years for $2.

ROCKY SAUGEEN

We have had quite a fall of snow reminding us that winter will soon be here.
Mr and Mrs Neil McLean and family spent the week end with her father, near Hamilton.
A splendid time was held in the school on Friday night when the Rocky UFWO club entertained the Varney clubs. A good program was put on by the Varney people which was much enjoyed by all. Lunch was served and a social chat ended an enjoyable evening.
Mr Sterling Miller is spending a couple of days with his brother, Jas Miller.

The UFWO will hold their annual meeting at the home of Mrs Jas Ewen, on Nov. 9th.
Mr L. A. McLean left this week to accept a position in Chicago for the winter months.

Mrs Ross and daughter, Toronto, were recent visitors with her sister, Mrs Angus McArthur.
Mr Vic Sheurman is busy with his sawing outfit on this line at present.

DORNOCH

The weather is more like winter than fall. The snow was flying on Sunday and was very cold. Let us hope we will have Indian Summer before the winter is on.

Mr and Mrs Picard have been doing their fall work ready for winter before leaving for the city. Each time they come they accomplish quite a lot of hard work. Every fall they tie heavy paper around their 25 0 trees to protect them from the rabbits and mice through the winter and which is quite a task. They also so made their rock garden and some flower beds and planted 675 tulips, daffodils and hyacinth bulbs which will be in bloom early in the spring and will make a wonderful sight for the public.

Mrs Cruse, Toronto, motored up Saturday night for a few days visit with Mrs Picard and expects to return Tuesday.

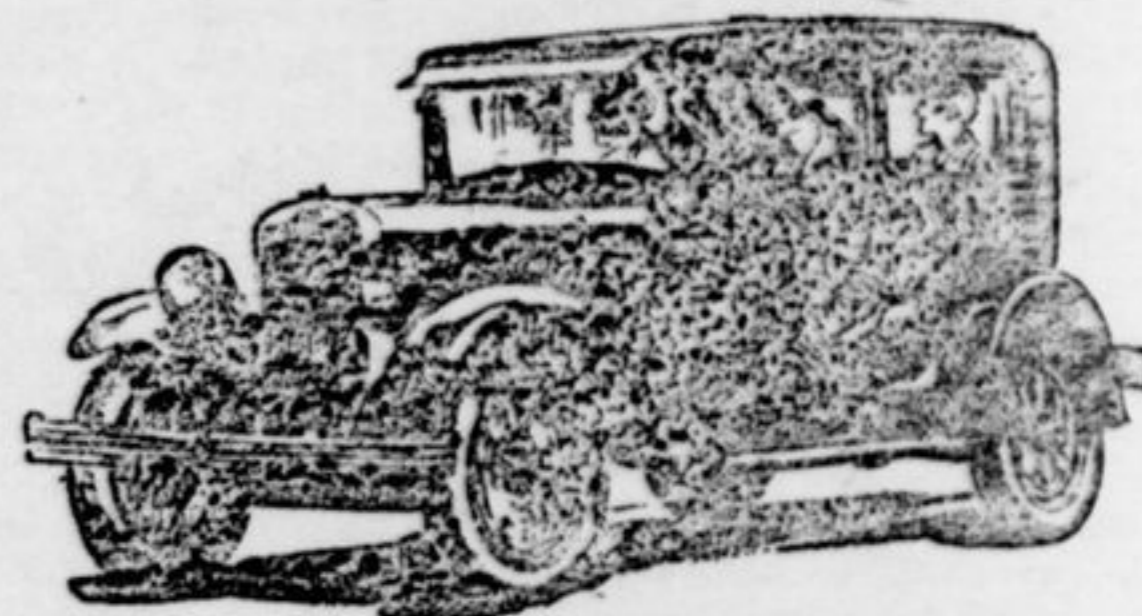

Mr Stanley Lowe and sister Jean, left for Niagara Falls Friday after spending a week with Mr and Mrs. E. B. Dargavel.

Our boys returned from the West on Friday, all looking well pleased to get back to the old town, Dornoch. Mr and Mrs Wm Running returned home last week after spending over two months in the West.

Mr Angus McIntosh and sister, visited Owen Sound friends Saturday.

Mrs C. McIntyre and daughter Mary and Miss M. McIntosh, spent one evening last week with Mrs E. B. Dargavel.
