SCOTTISH PIPE BAND AT BANFF

SWORD DANCE IN CANADIAN ROCKIES

PIPING FOR FIRST PRIZE, BANFF

The programs of Scottish music are drawn up in historical sequence, beginning with the old ballads, followed by groups from the period of Mary Queen of Scots, the Stuarts and the Jacobites, selections from the songs of Burns, Sir Walter Scott, Lady Macneil and Christopher North, as well as the Hebridean music recently made popular by Margaret Kennedy Fraser.

Initiated last year under the patronage of the Prince of Wales, this festival has quickly established itself as a Canadian institution, with regimental piping contests, athletic games, folk songs and Highland dances—all as old as Scotland herself. Notable among the musical features arranged by Harold Eustace Key, musical director of the Canadian Pacific Railway, is the special performance of "The Jolly Beggar," a cantata with text by Burns and music by Sir Henry Wood. At the daily concerts in the hotel ballroom notable Canadian artists will sing the folk songs of Scotland, and Scottish Canadian laesles will join their laddies in the Highland fling, the sword dance, the sailor's hornpipe, the Scotch reel and the graceful seann triubhas.

At the same time the Alberta Amateur Championship meet will crown the victors in the flat and hurdle races, weight-throwing, tugs-of-war, high and broad jumping, tossing the caber, shot putting and dacia and javelin throwing. The regimental pipers from all over the Dominion will compete for the prizes offered by E. W. Beatty.

PAVED STREET FOR DURHAM Mayor Murdoch and the Town Council are to be commended for taking energetic action towards main street paving in Durham next year.

It is false economy, under heavy traffic conditions now prevailing, to expend between $1000 and $2000 in oil and other upkeep and grading of Garafraxa Street each year, and at the end of the season, have nothing to show for it. Our front street the last month or two, has been in poor condition, and recent rains have caused excessive mud and pools both sides of the street.

Paving is the only solution for it: the oiling has not been a success, as it tends to produce small holes in the surface, making for rough traffic conditions. A 20 foot wide strip, where the Govt. pays half cost, would be much better than nothing, but the review favors full width pavement, and have a first-class job, and a street both the town and the tourists will be proud of. It will increase property values and induce business people to brighten up their places.

The pavement, according to kind and width decided upon, may cost from $50,000 to $100,000 or over, but the Govt. pays for a 10 foot strip, and property owners (fronting the pavement) pay part cost. The town without paved streets is getting to be an oddity and a back number. The question is not "Can we afford it?" but "Can we afford to be without it?" We believe the ratepayers are heartily behind the Council in taking action.

HOOVER IS COMING PRESIDENT 443 to 47

By a decisive vote: a landslide in fact, Hoover defeated his able opponent, Al Smith on Tuesday last by the figures in the heading. These are members of the Electoral College.

and the majority is a handsome one. These men are appointed by the votes of about 25 million persons, nearly half of them women, and the new incumbent has been overwhelmed with congratulations. The vote was bigger than all its predecessors, and the tremendous compliment will inspire the winner to do his level best for the country which elected him.

THANKSGIVING "The earth is full of the goodness of the Lord," declared the Psalmist. If it seemed so then, what of now; in the centuries since that utterance the blessings of mankind have multiplied until there is more than the vagrant imagining of the poet to Stevenson's exquisite bit of children's verse:

The world is so full of a number of things, I'm sure we should all be as happy as kings. With most Canadians the material requisites, at least, are not lacking for a day's fulfillment of the ancient promise, "Joy and gladness shall be found therein, thanksgiving and the voice of melody." But something further is needed to make Thanksgiving complete. It is the spirit found in the Psalmist's words: "What shall I render unto the Lord for all His benefits towards me?"

A GREAT TRIBUTE If you are ever so fortunate as to visit our National Capital at Washington, you will find many things there to thrill you. But none, perhaps, as stirring as one picture that hangs as a permanent gift to the American people and a fitting tribute to one of the most glorious deeds in all our nation's proud history.

ARMISTICE DAY, 1928

ARMISTICE DAY celebrates a truce. It expresses the desire for cessation of all discords, of respite from the strife and horror of war. It is a day of boundless rejoicing for we are not satisfied with war. We long for harmony.

As the years go by the animosities abate, the hatreds subside, and tender recollections covers the pain and neutralizes it. The past is hallowed and life assumes a new consecration. Those who have suffered the awful loss of war, with Thomas Moore, that "fond memory brings the light of other days around me." And then we begin to rejoice that the strife is ended, and to take heart for the morrow and to hope that war will be no more. We look afar on the landscapes of life and see a pleasant retrospect.

All we know of peace is in the landscape, which is the expression of nature—in the landscape and in the heart. Harmony is in the earth to-day, or if anywhere there is discord, it is among the humans. Again the trees are ripe. Since April and May they have been active with the forces of nature, born of the amity of earth and air and sun: now have they yielded their harvest of seeds and leaves and now they rest. Patiently in drought and wet the grass has grown and is ready for the winter. Once more the cattle are housed: once more the brooks are edged with frost and the fragile forms of life that live in them are covered and secure. We are told that there is struggle for existence in nature and many persons try to justify war on this basis. But through the year we have not been conscious of the struggle. To the prevailing man who does not search for it, the struggle in nature does not exist. And this is for the very good reason that it is not a struggle in the human sense: it is not a combat or a contest in ambition and the earth is not strewn with the dead. The noblest conquest man may seek TO-DAY the march of the hostile armies is once more ended in this fortunate land. The wounds are covered with the sward and flowers of memory. In the great cities we are reminded constantly of the surge of people, the pursuit and noise, and life looks like a contest or even a strife.

But the truer background is far away. It is in broad fields, deep serene woods and brooks that sing as they carry their freights towards the sea. The harmony in nature is the first great lesson we need to take to our hearts. It is the result of the most perfect adjustment we know, in which seeming failure and loss are elements in a holy equilibrium. Whether short or long, no life has failed that is part of the fitness. Here is the enduring foundation in a changing earth. Herein may we take the great apprenticeship. The noblest conquest of any person is of himself. Then he does not need to try and conquer others: and he shall be greater than he who takes a city. Sometime we shall be courageous: then will we be known only in the hoary amazing tomes of the dead and buried Past. At present war is a process toward adjustment: it is an earnest of the completer prospects ahead of us.

Armistice Day is a blessed release. It comes when the year is ripe with good works. The joy of full fruition is in the landscape. WANTS CHURCH BAZAARS ABANDONED A writer to the People's Columns in the Toronto Daily Star, is much perturbed over the numerous church bazaars and many other schemes that are exploited by the churches nowadays to make money. The writer claims that it is in direct contrast to Christ's word and would like to have it pointed out to him any chapter or verse of the Bible where the warrant is given for raising funds by this method.

While we are not going to hold church bazaars, etc., aloft as the ideal way of raising funds, yet what is positively wrong about them? Value is supposed to be received for articles sold and the industry and zeal that goes behind the making of bazaar articles should rather tend to increase the interest of the cause it represents. Provided the right spirit is behind the cause, one can sanction many avenues of money raising methods for church purposes. The Apostle James in his letters to the church, goes on to say, "Thou hast faith and I have works: show me thy faith without thy works, and I will show thee my faith by my works." Again in Acts of the Apostles, chap. 16: 14, in the journeyings of St. Paul, he comes upon a certain woman, named Lydia, a seller of purple of the city of Thyatira, which worshipped God, heard us, whose heart the Lord opened, that she attended unto the things which were spoken of Paul."
