> BANDIT ATTACKS HOME OF FORMER EGREMONT FARMER

Some excitement was staged on the farm home of Mr Robt. Reid of Webb, Sask, on 16th January last. His hired man was ready to entertain a real live bandit but the latter evidently didn't appreciate that kind of hospitality.

Mr and Mrs Reid live in the town of Webb for the winter, leaving the hired man and his wife on the farm as general overseers. On the night in question, a man called at the farm home and asked to have his supper. This was granted and the night being one of great severity, was asked to also remain over till morning. The caller didn't state he would or would not, but went out for a few moments. A knock was heard at the door and on opening same this same man stood in front, demanding the occupant to hold up his hands. This he refused to do and for it received a blow that sent him unconscious to the floor for a short time. The farm dog took up the cudgels and did effective work as when the hired man came to, th bandit was hitting the trail. A parting shot was fired after him but it is not known whether it had effect or not. To date no further word has heard of this character, but should he again appear at the Reid
