MILITARY FUNERAL FOR GENERAL WM. OTTER

We had the privilege while in Toronto last week of witnessing the funeral of the late Gen. Otter, who died full of years and honor at the age of 86. The impressive funeral took place from the Armories which was the centre of interest during the afternoon. The casket rested in the centre of a big semi circle of beautiful plants and flowers and some thousands of people filed in, four abreast and viewed the fine features of the deceased. This over, a service was held, three Anglican clergymen taking part, with simple hymns sung by the crowd.

Everywhere were soldiers in military garb, over 500 of them; outside they were arranged in formations, arms reversed, while the band played fitting, mournful music. The remains mounted on gun carriage, and drawn by a posse of soldiers, came out and passed between the ranks outside, all heads uncovered. The procession was formed on the street and after some time "slowly and sadly" to the last resting place he was borne, his last march over.

From the time of the Fenian raid and North West trouble, to the present, he figured. He won honors in the South African war and in the "Great War" his military services and advice with the Canadians, were valued. He was popular with all ranks will always be remembered kindly by those he came in contact with.

DURHAM AND VICINITY, AS SEEN FROM THE AIR

The Review scribe last Friday afternoon realized a long-cherished desire in obtaining a bird's-eye view of Durham and surrounding country from an aeroplane. In making the flight, there was little thrill to it, except in appreciation of the landscape. One feels practically as safe as in spinning down the highway in a car, and realizes little sense of danger. Leaving the earth, one does not notice it, except on looking over the side of the plane, you view it sinking beneath you. There are no jolts or jars, or prescribed routes of travel: everything is smooth sailing in any direction, altitude, or angle desired. We ascended to an elevation of 1500 feet and the scenery at that height delighted us even more than the thrill of flying through space at 75 or 80 miles per hour.

Durham is a scattered town, but from a height of over a quarter mile it apparently occupies but little space and swiftly moving as we were, the buildings are undistinguishable. Most prominent landmarks are the W. A. McGowan dam-near the centre of the town, the Durham Furniture Co. factory and lumber yards at west end, and the Stone & Sand Co. plant at the south-east corner. An auto on the highway was simply a moving speck.

But the landscape is beyond our power to adequately describe. Amidst the varied small patchwork squares (fields) of brown and green hue, we discern rivers and creeks as thin crooked lines, and scatterers here and there throughout Egremont, here and there, and Bentinck, are apparently small ponds, some of which we recognized as Wilder's Lake, Bell's Lake, Towns' Lake, and others in the north-west of the town, the lake north-west of Bentinck, the names of which we are not familiar with. And this practically all in one glance.

Stretching like a ribbon almost straight to the northern horizon, we view the Garafra Road, its whole length to Owen Sound, with slight jogs near Williamsford and Chateaufort. Narrowing down to a sharp angle where it touches Owen Sound, we discern the blue waters of Georgian Bay jutting into the land, just as depicted on the County of Grey maps. Turning our glance to the western horizon, we gaze straight across Bruce County and view a blue fringe beyond—the waters of Lake Huron, over forty miles distant.

HAMPDEN

A delightful evening was spent at No. 8 last Tuesday when the play "A Dutch Detective" was acted by some of our local talent who belong to No. 7 Young People's Club. Much credit is due Mr. Will Ford and Miss Marjorie in selecting their actors as we undoubtedly think these amateurs could not be beaten. We are sorry to learn Mrs. C. Seim is under the Dr's care at present.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Smith and daughter, with Mr. H. McPhee of Holstein visited with the Byers' family recently.

The heavy rainfalls are detaining the seeding on the lower lands and we will need July's heat soon to help getting somewhat scarce.

Some of the farmers have been disposing of a few of their cattle, thus lightening the task of the daily chores.

Mrs. Jas. Park of S Bentinck spent a day recently with her sister, Miss M. Geddes.

DORNOCH

The remains of the late Mrs. Wm. Vasey who died in O. Sound, was buried at St. Paul's Church, Dornoch, on Sunday last. Our sympathy goes out to the bereaved ones.

The Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. A. McIntosh and was our annual meeting day. There was no program—just the business meeting. The Williamsford Institute was invited and in all there were 37 out. Mrs. E. B. Dargavel resigned as Sec'y Treas. and Mrs. R. Morley stepped in her place. All other officers were re-elected. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Will Robertson.

Mrs. J. E. Picard and granddaughter of Toronto, spent a few days at their summer home here. She also planted quite a number of berry bushes, black and red, also more apple trees and a number of perennials and shrubs.

Mrs. Speiz, Hanover, visited with Mrs. E. Dargavel, one day last week.

Mr. Brye Dargavel is painting and shingling his house, which will make a great improvement, also the new garage.

The United W. M. S. held their meeting Tuesday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. C. McIntyre. After the regular business, Mrs. (Rev.) Smith, of Durham, gave a splendid report of the Convention which was held in Toronto. The ladies thought it one of the best ever given here. Mrs. Smith is very capable of doing it as it was appreciated very much.

The Presbyterian W. M. S. was held on Monday, when quite a number were present.
