SWINTON PARK

Men are all busy this week cleaning up the hay fields with great satisfaction. A fine crop and well saved is something to be thankful for. The women folk, along with the girls and boys, have taken to the woods and are gathering in the wild raspberries.

Quite a number from the Park were at Mt Forest Thursday evening last and very much enjoyed the tango.

On Friday evening Mr. and Mrs. Walter Broughton gave a dance in honor of Mr. Broughton's brother, Tom and two daughters, who are down from Coronation, Alta. on a visit. The gathering consisted of old neighbors and friends and all fully enjoyed themselves. Tom has been in Alberta for a number of years and the daughters little girls when they left here. They now both teach school in Alberta.

We were pleased to have yesterday a letter from Rev. Mr. Matheson, our long-time minister, now of Goeld, Quebec. Some time ago Mr. Matheson suffered a slight stroke, he thinks caused by over exertion in the garden on one of those very warm days.

His left side and speech was affected but is gradually recovering and expects after a good rest to be able to continue for some years yet in Goeld, where he is well satisfied with all conditions.

We were also very pleased to hear that another old minister, Rev. Mr. Sutherland, wife and family, are expected to arrive in Priceville this week. We assure Mr. Sutherland that in Swinton Park a hearty welcome awaits him and his all, hoping that his health is greatly improved.

The Presbyterian Sunday School picnic will be held on Mr. Knox's shady grounds on Wednesday, 7th of August. All children free: adults 25c.

We're coming bring your basket and help the little folk have a real holiday. Ice cream, fruits and candies for the kiddies.

Then to fill in the time between haying and harvest, the annual picnic of Orange Lodge No. 1135 will be held in Mr. Hardy's park and field. This event needs no boosting: it has become noted for its good program, a large crowd and a general good why not you?

Mrs. Neil McMillan on Friday last was at Burgoyne, at the funeral of a cousin.

Mr. and Mrs. Palmer Phillips, Toronto, are holidaying at present at Mrs. S. Kinnell's and some other friends in the Park.

Miss Ivy Parslow came home Saturday last, after spending some weeks in Toronto.

The Late Robert P. Legate

A telegram was received by relatives here that R. P. Legate had died in Calgary on the 26th July. He was 78 years of age and will likely be interred in Edmonton, where wife and daughter reside.

Deceased was the eldest son of the late Robert Legate, for many years Clerk of Egremont. He had about him a streak of genius and adaptability rarely seen. While still young, he went farming in North Grey for some years. Tiring of that, he apprenticed himself to a blacksmith and after a month threw up the job and set up for himself as a blacksmith and carpenter at "Bobtown", Egremont. Last, he set up a sawmill at Dundalk for some years and still later, sawmill and foundry man at Ceylon.

While here he saw an advertisement for a man to go to Chill, South America, a condition being that he must be able to build a saw mill and run it when built. Easy for Bob! He applied, was accepted, bought some machinery and went by Portugal to Brazil, crossed the continent to Chill and, for some time ran it successfully out and he had to quit, strapped as he was, having sent his last remittance home to Dundalk. He beat his way somehow to Isthmus of Panama, crossed it and took ship to Orangeville to make his way.

After many years sawmill at Ceylon he went West, where his friends learned he was putting his mind on Aviation, having invented something to enable a plane to rise vertically, but which for some reason was not successful and so the years passed.

Long ago, we should have mentioned, he married Elizabeth, the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Coleridge, North Egremont, and to them were born a family of nine sons and daughters, of whom six survive.

These are Annie, Mrs. R. Wright, Edmonton; Irene, Mrs. N. Gray, Wilkie, Sask.; Lena, Mrs. L. Smith, Toronto; and Muriel, Mrs. J. Cadogan, Alta. and Murray, Detroit. Also surviving are two brothers, John of Durham and Rev. Thos. of near Chicago.

No Blame Attached
The inquest at Maxwell on Wednesday last, conducted by Crown Attorney Dyre, Owen Sound, relative to the accident near Flesherton recently, whereby Wm. Gloeking, Toronto, was killed while driving in the Thurston car, relieved all parties concerned of any blame. It will be recalled that the Thurston family, with deceased young man, on returning home from Wassaga, ran against a car on road, owned by Ernest Morrison, who had left his car in charge of three ladies to warn others of its inability to go on, while Mr. Morrison went for repairs. This the ladies failed to do and in a short time the Thurston car came along at a fair speed, hit the stalled car, overturning it in the ditch, planning Gloeking underneath.

The jury after careful consideration and listening to the remarks of the coroner and the Crown Attorney, brought in a verdict attaching no blame whatever to any one in either car, but that death was due to an accident which appeared to be unavoidable.

I.O.O.F. 8, BENEDICTS 4

Last Friday night saw the most thrilling finish of any game this season, when the Oddfellows, after trailing the whole game, shot 4 runs across the final inning and finished one run up, 5-4. The win tied the I.O.O.F. with their opponents Benedict's, for third-place in the league standings, and necessitated a play-off Tuesday to decide which team would meet the second placers (High School) for the right to contest the championship with the leaders, the Bachelors.

Hugill took up pitching duties for the Benedicts, as Aljoe is recuperating from illness, and held the I.O.O.F. hitters safely till the 7th, when 3 safe hits, with 3 errors by Benedict's gave Oddfellows 4 runs and game.

The married men counted their 4 runs in first three innings and it looked a safe lead. It was the best played game of the summer, both sides exhibiting snappy fielding. A wonderful catch by Snell, and Near's fly-gobbling were features.

Benedicts 2 1 0 0 0 4 5 7

HIGH SCHOOL 12, BACHELORS 6

The High School sprung the surprise of the season Monday, when in the last scheduled game (a postponed one), they doubled the score on the hitherto unbeaten Bachelors. Hopkins and Murdoch, taking turns pitching for H. S., had the Bachelors well in hand, and aided by sharp fielding, held the leaders to not over 2 runs in any inning. It was a tight, even game till the 4th when the Bachelors fell behind. The students were strengthened by McCulloch's return to the line-up, after his injury, who counted a triple, double and a single in 3 times up. The Bachelors missed Schutz, Millard and R. McGirr of their regular line-up; nevertheless they fielded a strong team.

It was the High School again and gave them undisturbed possession of second place in the final standing.

Score by innings:
1 2 3 4 5 6 7 total
High School 2 0 1 1 4 0 4 12

Benedicts took first play off

Tuesday night saw the tie for third place broken, when Benedict's were too strong for I.O.O.F., winning 20-8. Unlike Friday night's great game, when I.O.O.F. won 5-4, the Oddfellows were lax in fielding, while the Westlake battery was not nearly so effective. The married men ran up 7 runs the first inning, and always held a safe lead, scoring in every inning.

Three double plays featured the contest, two by Benedict's and one by I.O.O.F. The latter by Roy Matthews unassisted, was the snappiest of the night, when he caught a sizzler near third, and ran over the bag before McDonald could get back to it.

The Benedict's now meet High School Friday night in the last semi-final.

Canton, Illinois, July 27, 1929

Today I visited the town of Hannibal, Missouri. Its chief distinction lies in the fact that there once lived Mark Twain, the great humorist, in one of its plain two-story houses, crowded close to the sidewalk. From the time he was four, until he was twenty four, he grew up in this humble home. It is to-day, open to the public. Many pictures of his line the walls. His famous corn cob pipe and fannel coat are there, and one of his favorite chairs and the desk. The coat and the chair belong to a later and more prosperous time. The queer little typewriter on which he did most of his writing, has a place of honor. How little the citizens of that town knew that in their midst was living one of the greatest personages of his time.

The place is taken care of by a kindly but wholly illiterate woman, who when showing me the pictures of the cabin in which he was born, the Hannibal house and then the palatial residence in the Eastern States, where he died, said: "It shows how he 'clim' up."

While Mark Twain did not begin to write for some years after he left Hannibal, the characters in his two best known books 'Tom Sawyer' and 'Huckleberry Finn' were drawn from real life in his native town. A statue of 'Tom' and 'Huckleberry' has been erected at the foot of Cardiff hill. They stand together on a high base. 'Huckleberry', the town drunkard's son, dressed in tattered clothes too large for him, a torn brimmed hat and one suspender. Tom wears a cap and clothes a shade better. He has a bundle slung over his back in true tramp fashion and has the distinction of having two suspenders. Both are in their bare feet and their faces are alive with the promise of adventure. The artist symbolized in the bronze figures the joy and hope of care free youth.

A drive of a mile took me to Riverside Park high on the banks of the Mississippi, and here stood the statue of Mark Twain. The face of the figure gazes wistfully across the river and far away beyond to the wide world. Underneath on a simple tablet, is inscribed this beautiful tribute: 'His religion was humanity, and the whole world mourned for him when he died.' The State paid fitting tribute to its most famous son.

It is a piece of rare good luck that I should have the privilege of a trade to the Republic in the four farm states of Illinois, Missouri, Nebraska and Iowa, just now. In the big tents on the campus of the college, or on the high school grounds, are good crowds gather. They are friendly, questioning crowds. These same tents in the past have heard the deep tones of Chief Justice Taft, and the silver tongue of William Jennings Bryan. I feel all unworthy. This year Ruth Bryan Owen is on another part of the circuit but I fear I shall not have the opportunity of meeting her.

A Chief of the Sioux tribe, Red Fox, cooked a supper for us the other night. He built a fire and over it baked bacon and omelet, and with that he served brown bread and milk. It was a fascinating picture to see the Chief in his buckskin vest and trousers, lavishly embroidered, bending over the fire absorbed in his work. Behind him lay a quiet lake with woods fringing its other side, and this against the sky, made brilliant by the setting sun.

Haying has been delayed by much rain and now in the heat, the farmers have been stook threshing, cutting grain and hay all at one time. The land in the part of Missouri we visited is not comparable to the land in Illinois. The corn looks wonderful.

I find the sentiment of the people who attend the Chatauqua meetings, strongly in support of the dry law. They would appreciate help from Canada in this matter.

I shall write again.

Yours sincerely,
Agnes C. Macphail
