KEEP FRONT STREET CLEAN AND TIDY

Arrangements are being made by the Council for keeping the new pavement swept, and in endeavoring to maintain a neat and attractive highway, the citizens can lend material assistance. Everyone should take a pride in the town's appearance, and a great aid to a clean street would be for all to refrain from throwing waste paper or circulars upon it. Through the circulars which regularly flood the Post Office from other towns are but little valued, the place for them is in the waste paper basket in the post office, not on the post office floor or outside upon the pavement. Waste paper in gutters is, most untidy, and in any quantity, will clog up the catch basins and sewers. The co-operation of everyone will dispense with much unnecessary work. Any stones lying upon pavement should also be removed, as a benefit both to traffic and general appearance.

THOSE CHICKEN THIEVES

The country surrounding Durham has been more than annoyed the past year back with chicken thieves. To say this is a despicable form of vandalism is putting it mildly. To have one's entire flock cleaned out in a night, is enough to wonder why the law doesn't make itself more felt. Evidently around Lucknow similar tactics are going on and the editor of that paper, in commenting on the matter, suspects that the chicken thief and the temporary dealer is one and the same person. "At this time of the year quite a number of dealers move out from the cities, set up temporary quarters in a village or unoccupied farm house and announce themselves as prepared to buy all kinds of poultry at highest prices, etc. These dealers usually are equipped with one or more motor trucks and forth- with begin to scour the country in quest of poultry. They make some purchases but quite often leave with the promise soon to be around again. There is reason to suspect that these visits are nothing more than scouting trips during which the location of good lots of fowl are noticed and the lay-out of the premises observed with a view to a nocturnal visit. It may be co- incidence, but it has been observed that the arrival of the transient poultry buyer and the disappearance by night of bunches of chickens and ducks occur about the same time."

"The world of the past is really a great world and cannot be neglected by us without heavy loss. Historians, poets, essayists, humorists, theologians, story tellers, scientists, their names form a galaxy in the gallery of thought which will never fade or perish. With these great ones of former days we can hold communion for a comparatively small investment. And it will pay wonderfully well. It may be objected that few are doing this, and we are afraid that this is all too true, but even if this is so, there is the added consideration that the man or woman who does what others are not doing is fitting himself or herself better than their fellows for what the future may bring. The knowledge that they will acquire cannot be other than useful to them, no matter what walk of life they may be in. And there is no question that when we know that a person possesses certain funds of knowledge which we do not enjoy, we are certain to accord them a respect which we do not accord to others. But, beyond all this, there is the value of this study for ourselves and our own mental horizon. There is the satisfaction in pushing that horizon farther away, and there is joy in holding communion with great minds which is reward in itself for the time we spend in reading. With winter months ahead of us, plan on a series of educative reading and if done, compare yourself next Spring with the creature you are now. The mercury should rise as your sum total of knowledge mounts up."

DURHAM SAVES ITS RATE.

PAYERS BY NO INSURANCE
Walkerton paid the Globe Indemnity Co. $193.00 the past year for protecting their citizens against accidents and in the end this Co. were out $45 on the agreement. The Walkerton Herald Times has this to say on the matter: "The Globe Indemnity Co. which last year were paid a premium of $193 to guarantee Walkerton against accidents for damages on our streets, didn't increase their dividends to any showy extent by taking this town under their wing. In fact they were out $45 on the year's turnover here, they settling claims $150 to Mrs. John Clancy for injuries to her hip when she fell on the ice near the Hospital; $62 to Magistrate Walker when his Majesty slipped and injured himself on the Post Office steps and $25 to County Engineer Stephenson for damages to his car on Bilkie's Hill. The Town Council on Monday night passed the business for the coming year over to another concern, The Canadian General Accident Co., who offered to protect Walkerton for $170 against all actions for damages on our streets. We are not going to say that Walkerton is foolish to expend money to protect themselves, but we know at the same time, Durham is mighty fortunate in not having to settle many accidents for damages in the past 20 years. A doctor's bill was paid for one broken arm but that was all, as far as our memory goes back. What the future will be with Durham now having paved streets to glide over, is hard to say. By not expending over $150 annually the past twenty years or more, this town has saved $3150.00. Of course on the other hand they may have been out that much and more. The only conclusion we can come to is that Durham citizens are sure footed and walk with a view to "safety first." While we say, "one never knows", it has paid Durham to give the town protection in this matter "go by."

KEEP CATTLE AND HORSES OFF THE HIGHWAY
In the second division court in Toronto, a judgment was given dismissing an appeal which is of interest to motorists and to owners of cattle. While driving at night on a highway, the motorist turned aside to pass a couple of calves when a third bobbed up from the ditch and was struck by the car, the latter being damaged to the extent of $300. The motorist sued the owner of the calf and secured judgment for the full amount. On appeal the judgment was sustained. The Court held that the plaintiff was not guilty of negligence and the sole cause of the accident was the negligence and disobedience of a statutory duty owed by the defendant. By the Highway Improvement Act, R.S.O., 1927, Chapter 54, Section 73, (3) it was pointed out that, permitting one's cattle to run at large is forbidden; consequently the presence of these calves on the road was unlawful—quite as much so as if forbidden by a municipal law. A number of horses and cattle are running at large on some of the roads in this neighborhood and car owners report that on several occasions they narrowly averted accidents when the animals unexpectedly crossed the road in front of them. The owners of same would be well advised to keep them off the roads.
