Manchus, Once Rulers of China, Now Pull Peking's Rickshaws

Shanghai.—The Manchus, once the ruling race of China, are now reduced to the position of rickshaw pullers. The Manchus, once the ruling race of China, are now reduced to the position of rickshaw pullers. The Manchus, once the ruling race of China, are now reduced to the position of rickshaw pullers.

Many other Manchus are employed as domestic servants in the homes of foreigners while still another large group find employment in the theatres of which the Manchus aristocracy were such generous patrons.

The Blue Snow Flower

In Switzerland next in impressiveness to the mountains are the flowers. They are unforgettable both in minute and exquisite beauty. A field of Alpine flowers is like nothing else we have ever seen.

The writer carries about with him two little pressed Soldanelles. The flower that often forms a blue border on the edge of the snows. It literally grows under the ice, melting a way for itself by its own internal heat.

Manner Not Matter

New York Herald-Tribune: There has been no disposition in this country to attempt to prejudice the merits of the Young Plan in detail. It should be said: The right of Great Britain to protest its terms and urge their revision has seemed to us unquestionable.

Solitude

Bear me, some God! oh, quickly bear me hence To wholesome Solitude, the nurse of Senses; Where Contemplation prunes her ruffled wings, And the free soul locks down to pity Kings!

Colton tells of Voltaire, who, on hearing the name of Haller mentioned by an English traveller, burst forth into impassioned praise. The traveller told him that such praise was certainly undeserved, as Haller by no means spoke so highly of Voltaire.

Mistaken is emptiness; the tree in which the sap is stagnant remains fruitless.—Hosae Ballou.

Courtesy Not a Lost Art

A man who has traveled far and wide across the country rises to remark that he has not found that courtesy has become a fading memory, an old-time gesture of hospitality and gentle breeding no longer practiced in these hurrying days.

On the contrary, he says courtesy has been shown him everywhere, particularly in New England, where formality and reserve have sometimes been advertised as among the typical products. The experience of many another wayfarer will doubtless prove the soundness of the conclusion that courtesy has not disappeared, but continues to thrive in most unexpected places.

A young woman in a politeness contest sponsored by a metropolitan newspaper visited offices and shops in search of likely candidates for the award of a $25 prize for courtesy.

A Garden

It lies beside the busy road a haven of rest and of beauty. So few of the pedestrians and motorists cross, when racing past on the Scottish highroads, the glories which lie just on the other side of the hedge.

Round the iris, tall and stiff, cuddles a patch of Virginia stock. Lilies, stately and beautiful, rise—

One might call it a democratic garden. For in it all things grow with equal fervor, from the green grass, interspersed with the reddest of clover, to the most fashionable and aristocratic of blooms.

SAVE THE CHILDREN

In Summer When Childhood Ailments Are Most Dangerous.
Mothers who keep a box of Baby's Own Tablets in the house may feel that the lives of their little ones are reasonably safe during the hot weather.

Lightning-Rods

The U.S. Bureau of Standards has recently published some interesting evidence of the value of lightning-rods. Deduct from reports of fire marshals and insurance companies in the United States and Canada, in which the losses on rodless and unrodged buildings have been separated.

"Why is the butcher taking it so hard because he's not selling much beef?"
"He says his living's at steak."

A Man's Hopes

If, invisible ourselves, we could follow a single human being through a day of his life and know all his secret thoughts and hopes and anxieties, his prayers and tears and good resolves, his passionate delights and struggles against temptation, we should have poetry enough to fill a volume.

After the birth of my baby—

To gain thirty pounds
In three months, and with health and strength was the happy experience of Mrs. Margaret Brethour of Corn
wall, Ont., who gives all the credit for it to Dr.
Williams' Pink Pills.

"After the birth of my baby, I was in the hospital four months," she wrote, "and came home weighing only sixty-five pounds. I began taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and it wasn't long until I weighed ninety-five pounds and my general health was of the best. Every Spring since then I take the pills as a tonic, and wouldn't be without them, no matter what they cost. I strongly recommend them to all mothers."

Woman Explorer Travels Miles Over Icy Wastes

Bombay.—From the frozen arctic to the sweltering heat of the tropics, is the experience of Mrs. Olivia Cressey-Marks, English explorer, who has visited every country except Australia.

Leaving Moscow and skirting the Crimea, she crossed the Caucasus into Persia. There her mode of travel changed and from the primitive Lapland "pink" she took to the modern motorcar, airplane and boat in Arabia.

Education

What sculpture is to a block of marble, education is to be human soul. The philosopher, the saint, and the hero—the wise, the good, or the great man—very often is hid and concealed in a plastic which a proper education would have disintegrated and brought to light.—Addison.

Wisdom

Whosoever thinks that he alone has wisdom, or a tongue, or a soul, such as no other, this man, when laid open, is seen to be empty.—Sophocles.

Value of Time

"Every moment lost," said Napoleon, on one occasion, "gives an opportunity for misfortune"; and he used to say that he beat the Austrians because they never knew the value of time; while they, dawning, he overthrew them.—Smiles.

How It's Done At Scotland Yard

The life of a Scotland Yard detective if one can judge by the remarks of Major T. H. Vitty, at the conference of the Chief Constables Association at Brighton, seems to be becoming quite exciting.

"This is entirely contrary to accepted news for we were always taught to smile tolerantly at the glances of romance wove round the detective profession by writers of fiction and to believe that the actual practice of the job is a very dull business."

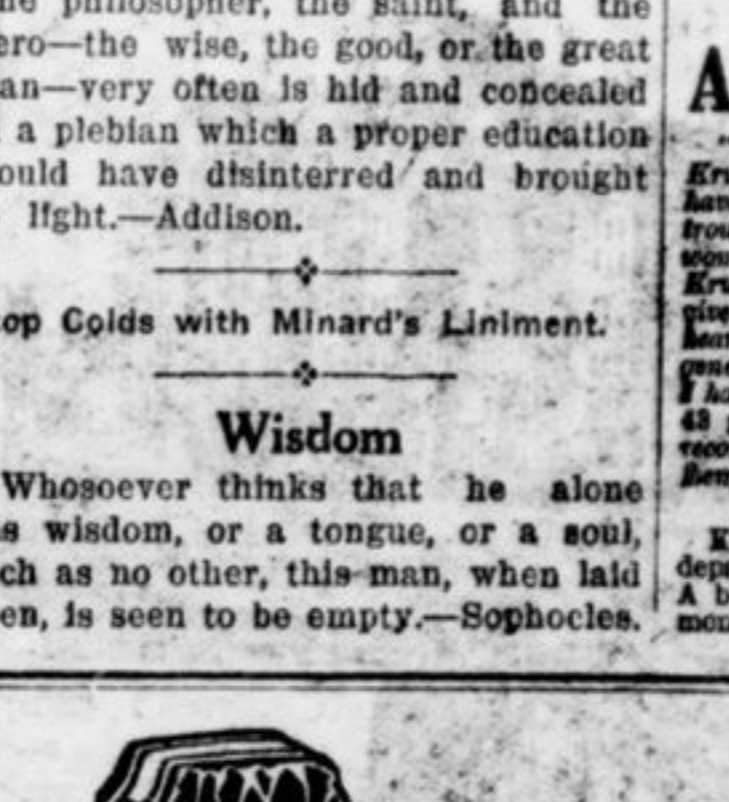

"A good deal has been heard in the Press about the failure of the Flying Squad hitherto to cope with what are known as 'smash and grab' raids," said Major T. H. Vitty, Engineer to the Metropolitan Police, in a speech at the Conference of Chief Constables at Brighton, reports the Sussex Daily News.

"Another interesting case was one in which information was telephoned to Scotland Yard to the effect that a number of well-known women shoplifters were drinking together in a public house."

How To Be Happy

If a happy life you'd live,
Learn the proper way to give,
For the happiest person living
Is the man who joys in giving.
Give your heart beside your gold,
Give your strength to help the old,
Give your comfort, give your smile,
Give your soul to work worth while,
Give your coat, your bed, your cup,
Give your all—but don't give up.

"From Now Onwards"
"Imperial commerce needs from now onwards men with character and vision, who can really fill the key positions in the new age of large-scale industries; who can, if necessary, impose and enforce order and progress; who can hold at bay the disruptive forces that make for uncertainty and chaos."

A Different Woman

"I have great pleasure in informing you that Mrs. S. has been cured of her long-standing headache and after trying one bottle I am a different woman. I had to give up my work, but after one bottle I am back at work again, and I feel my eyes are better every morning, and I don't have the little complaints which a child normally gets. I feel lighter and brighter. I have enclosed a snap-shot of my face and will be glad to send you any more I wish. I have always been a healthy, energetic woman, and I could not believe I was so tired in a hurry."—(Mrs.) H. F. Schulltz, 1234 Broadway, New York City.

Weak After Operation

"After having an operation, I was very miserable, weak, nervous and very near unto to work. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised and tried it and believe it helped me wonderfully. I have no weak spots any more, the pains have left me and my nerves are much better. I feel safe in saying Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine have helped me wonderfully."—Mrs. Wm. H.
