SYMPTOMS OF INFANTILE PARALYSIS

The following description of the symptoms of infantile paralysis was taken from the Canadian Public Health Journal, and in these days, with the disease so highly prevalent, it is wise and expedient to know how it acts in its first stages:

The onset is sudden and abrupt with a rapid rise in temperature which is usually under 102 degrees F. The degree of prostration is greater than would seem justified by the temperature. Vomiting may occur, usually only once, and that shortly after the onset. The child may complain of frontal headache, sore neck or lumbar pain. Pain in the limbs is common. The child is irritable and restless—or may be drowsy. A fine tremor of the hands or a muscular twitching has been noted. The face is flushed, the expression anxious and there is often a peculiar dazed expression somewhat similar to that observed in a slight cerebral concussion. The pulse is usually rapid, out of proportion to the temperature. The respirations are at times increased in rate. There is a distinct rigidity of the neck. The head can be brought about half way forward when resistance is encountered and the child complains of pain. The spine sign is usually positive. The most characteristic sign of the case is stiffness of the neck and

SOUTH GREY HAS ONLY U.F.O. MEMBER IN NEW HOUSE

It is all over. The pre-election heat which never assumed the boiling stage this 1920 campaign, will in a few days be as cold as an Arctic iceberg. One can only stand back to get a proper perspective of this 1920 Ontario election in the effect it will have upon Ontario citizens and whether in three years time the people will be as willing to give Hon. Howard Ferguson as large a majority as he now presides over.

His victory is surely convincing that Ontario is willing to give the Ontario Liquor Act a further test. We mention this phase of the election program because we think it is the uppermost topic in the campaign. The Educational program of the Premier, the Auto License Reduction etc, were all put in the background by the liquor argument.

We are much surprised if Premier Ferguson cares for such a large majority over all. A House too one-sided does not call for good government and the sessions will lack that zest and pep that a vigorous opposition can give. That "Opposition is the life of trade" will apply to Parliamentary halls as well as business lines.

The old Liberal regime of Hon G. W. Ross ran 32 years, previous to 1905, when the Conservative party came into power. With the exception of four years of U.F.O. rule under Hon. E. C. Drury, the Province has since had Conservative rule. Judging by the vote on Wednesday, the people are not yet ready to hand it over to another.

Our local member, F. R. Oliver, M.P.P., will plow a lone furrow in U.F.O. circles, being the only member elected of his platform and will thus be his own leader, as well as the leader's lieutenant. Truly it was a wonderful landslide.

SUDDEN DEATH OF A. P. MEWHINNEY OF NORTH BRUCE

On Eve of Election Day

Alex P. Mewhinney, Liberal Candidate in North Bruce, died on Tuesday night last, and his sudden death suits in deep sorrow among his many friends, who had hoped to see him elected to day.

The Returning Officer at once called off the election and a new date will be proclaimed in a few weeks, when a new Liberal candidate will be placed in the field. Both leaders in Ontario paid tribute to worth of deceased, lamenting his sudden taking. He was Liberal Whip in the last Legislature, was 56 years of age and a native of Bruce Tp.

He was prominent in Masonic circles and took a great interest in the affairs of the United Church. His wife and six children mourn. Amongst possible candidates for the vacancy the name of Wm McDonald of the Chesley Enterprise, is mentioned.

AFTER THE FIRE CAME THE CROWDS

On Sunday, Oct. 27th, Durham had one of the largest crowds ever in her borders—all bent on seeing the wreckage, resulting from the disastrous fire Thursday night previous. There were two policemen to guide the traffic and the line up of cars on Garafraza St. during the afternoon extended from the top of Durham hill to the Stone & Sand plant corner. It is estimated several thousand visitors were in Durham that day.

Half a league, half a league. Twice a league onward. All to the scene of fire. Rode the six hundred. Forward to Durham, they sped. Saw the razed ruins lie dead. Near to the valley of fire, Rode the six hundred.

Forward the motor parade. Oh! the wild rush they made. The ruins to spy. Some one had blundered. But not the six hundred. Thers to ask why?

Debris to west of them, Debris to north to north of them, Desolation in front of them, Told the red story. Fireman at beck and call. Bravely they worked and well. Covered with glory. Flashed all the steel beams bare. Flashed in the red hot air. As walls fell asunder. Ruins now to right of them. In front and to the left of them. Saw the six hundred.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTES GROWING

The Women's Institutes of Canada have now a total membership of 68, 950, with 2310 branches. In addition to this, there are 123 French-Canadian Women's Institutes with a membership of 7600. Ontario leads with 1125 branches and a membership of 30,000. Alberta is second with 5500 members.

WOMEN'S RESIDENCE ROBBED AT TORONTO UNIVERSITY

Miss Bessie Smith of Durham, one of the Victims

A daring thief, thought to be a woman, swept through about a dozen rooms Tuesday night while the "coeds" were at supper and secured about $45.00. Among those robbed was Miss Bessie Smith, daughter of Rev. W. H. and Mrs Smith of Durham, but a large sum of money comprising class fees, was overlooked in her room. Miss Norma Bateman, of Mt Forest, was another of those robbed. The police have no clue except a trace of tobacco smoke which may have been a rub to throw blame on some male robber.

GREY COUNTY CLUB IN DETROIT AGAIN ACTIVE

The Grey County Club in Detroit is again active and are planning on a winter of much activity. There are a sufficient number of ex-Durhamites in Detroit and vicinity to form the nucleus of a well populated village. What this energetic committee would like to see is to have every ex-resident of Durham and community enrolled in that Club.

They have opened the season by inviting their friends to an informal masquerade dance at McColister Hall, Detroit, on-Friday evening, Nov 1st. Masks will be furnished for those without costume. Activities start at 8.30 sharp and if you make it a point to be there you will be treated to a pleasant surprise.

They purpose putting on a dance every two weeks this winter instead of monthly, so the Grey Club spirit will not be lost or forgotten. A big theatre party to one of Detroit's largest theatres is also planned for shortly.

But if you want further information in detail, you'll have to write to Dr. C. J. Towner, 4120 Fenkell Ave., Detroit, who will be pleased to put you right.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Richard Barber who passed away one year ago, Nov. 5th, 1919.

Some may think we have forgotten, When at times they see us smile, But they little know the heartache, That the smile hides all the while. Years may wipe out many things, But this they wipe out never; The memory of those happy days, When we were all together.

Two Rare Lectures in Knox Church

Rev's S. H. Soper, China and S. H. Martin, Churchhill, Ont., Graphically relate Conditions in their respective fields of work

Those who attended Knox Church Friday evening last were surely gratified to hear from the lips of men who had been in close touch with the story and life and conditions in China and our own Great West.

It was a Group Missionary Meeting, a new idea of the United Church to bring more vividly to the notice of the people the great work being done in foreign countries as well as in our own wide new spaces.

Rev. S. H. Soper talked on China which was "Cribbed, Cribbed and Confined" in superstition, but gave credit to the people for their ability as farmers who had their soil in in as good or better condition than thousands of years ago, a condition due to the advice of a sage who lived 2200 years ago. He illustrated his remarks by stories of courage in meeting difficulties and heroism in many ways.

He stressed what Christianity was doing for this people. It tended to make life better, to rise out of silt, to see that child life was not made the cheapest thing on earth. In China there was antagonism for anything Christian and the missionary had to use caution and depend on the Grace of God for Christian progress. It was important that Christian Missions should hold the land in force was one of his earnest pleas.

A land teeming with heroic adventures and stories and it was easy to see that the speaker was filled with his subject and at intervals his speech rose into eloquence. He has a touch of humor also which captivates his audience.

Rev. Mr Martin is the man who is popularly known as 'the man who put the church in Churchhill' and with thrilling force he told of life along the Hudson Bay Railway, the steel for which has now reached Churchhill. Missions there run back to the time when the whole territory was owned by the Hudson Bay Co.

Copper, Silver, Gold are found in the Fin Fion area. This country is also noted for its grain growing possibilities and the business of the church was to see that spiritual possibilities kept pace with material progress.

Rev. W. H. Smith as chairman, made an impassioned appeal for wisdom and generous attention to missionary activities in the new land—and elsewhere.

The meeting was greatly enjoyed.

HYMENEAL

MCGOWAN — WILLIS

A wedding took place on July 6th last, but which only now has become known of two popular Durham young people—the groom being Mr Wallace McGowan, youngest son of Mr and Mrs John McGowan, to Miss Elsie Willis, daughter of Mr and Mrs Bert Willis. The marriage took place in Hanover by the Presbyterian pastor, Rev. J. C. Little and there were no attendants. Mrs Little and daughter were witnesses of the ceremony.

The young couple will continue to reside in town, making their home with the groom's parents, where the best wishes of their many friends follow them in their new relationship. Durham's biggest fire wipes out Mc B

The Public a Quick Forgetter

To the business man who thinks the public does not need to be constantly reminded of who he is and what he sells, the often told story of Pyle's Pearlina will bear repeating. In 1904, Pearlina, a cleaning material, was used by a large percentage of the housewives in the country, and the company spent $500,000 in advertising that year. Later the advertising was curtailed and about 1907 it was discontinued altogether, as the company thought the product so well known that it did not require advertising. Sales fell off rapidly but the owners persisted in their non advertising policy until 1915, when the whole concern, including Pearlina was sold for $12,000.

Some of those whose names were household words a few years ago, are not heard of to-day because they failed to keep up their advertising and consequently the public forgot them. Business men must remember that new generations are coming along all the time, and these new buyers must be personally sold on the product of a store as their fathers and mothers were sold before them. The only time it is safe to stop advertising is when it is ready to go out of business.

Durham's Biggest Fire

however, they made their work count playing two strong streams on the flames from Garafraza St. while the Durham boys were fighting them from the rear. It was generally conceded that it was this timely aid from our neighboring city which saved the day and prevented Whitmore's barbed shop, Noble's garage and stores north from being fuel flames.

In the Bank of Commerce, Manager Kent and the clerks had carried out the ledgers, and placed all other valuables, including adding machine and typewriters in the vault, so their only loss was the fixtures and some odd stationery. When the vault was opened on Monday, everything was found unscorched and in perfect condition, despite the intense heat it had passed through. The vault now stands out among the ruins, with a guard on duty at night.

Alex. Aljoe managed to remove quite a quantity of goods from his store, some of which were burned in front, but the greater part removed from Queen St. Church basement. Fine's stock, Vollett's and that of the Misses Truax was a total loss.

A car and several other articles were removed from the Pontiac garage and no contents of value were destroyed there.

The flames ate their way to the front of Aljoe's and Fine's stores, and the Bank and by two o'clock they were entirely enveloped. Then they worked westerly into the Pontiac garage also, and it was doomed, though the Durham Brigade prevented the blaze catching on the frame from garage. It was hoped to confine the holocaust to the north side of Aljoe's store, where a fire wall separates it from Burnett's. However the joists ran through the wall at the top into Burnett's side and these burned through and ignited between ceiling and tin roof over Burnett's store and Masonic rooms, where the firemen could not attack the blaze.

Tons of water were poured on the flat tin roof on these buildings, but it ran off uselessly and the firemen found it impossible to quell the fire until it broke through ceiling and had destroyed the furniture, walls, decorations and ceiling upstairs in these two buildings.

Hanover and Mt Forest also sent firemen and hose to assist, while Harrison sent men and their engine by a special train. It arrived shortly after 4 a.m. but was not used or even unloaded, as by that time the Durham and Owen Sound engines and equipment, with that from other towns, were sufficient to cope with the blaze and had it in control. From 1.30 o'clock on, floors and walls came crashing down at intervals until by 5 or 6 a.m., only the gaunt, bleak firewalls and tall chimneys raised their heads amid the blazing ruins.

All phone connections, switch boards etc, were destroyed when the office went, though books were rescued. The hydro was shut off throughout the town also shortly after the fire commenced. The flames provided all necessary illumination in fighting the fire and next morning the hydro service was connected up.

While the fire was at its height, telephone officials arrived here from Stratford and equipment for a new office was arriving that day.

A week or two previous a carload of coal—over 60 tons—had been placed in cellar, and this with other debris, was burning all day and for several days thereafter.

The heaviest loser is N. P. McIntyre, owner of the fine McIntyre block erected in 1900 at a cost of $80,000. He owned all the devastated area with exception of building containing Harding's store and Masonic lodge rooms, which the McIntyre estate sold to Durham Lodge A.F. & A.M. a few years ago. Insurance of about $40,000 was carried, but to replace the burned block would now require $150,000 at least. The residential apartment upstairs over bank, and nothing saved.

The business places destroyed carried more or less insurance. R. Burnett, whose stock was saved but much of it water soaked, carried $8000, and made a good settlement with the adjusters for his damaged stock. We understand A. A. Aljoe is to receive all insurance $7000, and stock saved, as he is yet a heavy loser. The Bell Telephone Co. lost almost $10,000 worth of equipment and furniture and W. J. Vollett a $11,000 stock well covered by insurance. The I.O.D.E. lost tables and chairs in their room behind Bank of Commerce and Misses Truax their entire millinery stock without any insurance.

The Masonic Lodge rooms were entirely destroyed, only the charter being taken out beforehand. Next day it was found a picture of Bro. James unscathed, only the glass being broken, also as one or two other pictures. Some tables and chairs in dining room may be fitted up for use, being but little blackened, but nothing else. Considerable insurance was carried.

Friday noon following the blaze, a reporter from the Toronto Telegram plane, secured a couple snap shots of the devastated area from the air and a write up of disaster, then flew back to Toronto. The pictures were reproduced in that evening's Telegram. The Star Tuesday also published a couple of views of the ruins.

CRAWFORD

Miss McPherson, Detroit, has been a guest at the home of her friend, Mrs Jas McDougall the past two weeks.

Mr and Mrs And Hastie and daughters of Habermehl and Irvine and daughters of Chatsworth, O. Sound and Lions Head friends.

Mr and Mrs Arch McDougall, with Mr and Mrs H. McDougall of Durham, and children, spent the week end with relatives near Barrie.

Debate held by Y.P.S. The regular meeting of the C.Y. P.S. which had been postponed from Thursday to Monday, took the form of a debate. Miss E Petty and Mr. Gordon Krauter had charge of the meeting. The latter presided over a varied program of song and reading. A duet by Misses Petty and Dolphie solo, Miss Vera McCaslin; a reading, Miss Margaret White. Sentences prayers were offered by Miss Laura Kaufman, Miss Grace McCaslin and Jas Stinson.

The subject of the debate was "Resolved that the drift of population from the farm to the city has not been thus far a detriment to Agriculture." The affirmative was upheld by Miss Dolphie and G. Krauter while Miss E Petty and K. McCaslin defended the negative. The four debaters had the material well in hand and the judges had difficulty in giving the decision. They finally gave their decision in favor of the affirmative.

We hope that more young boys and girls will take part in debates this winter and if they do as well as the two young inexperienced debaters did on Monday evening, they need not be ashamed to try again. The judges were D. J. McDonald, Mrs G Hastie and Mrs Edgar Boyce.

A Halloween song by the school children was given and loudly applauded. Prayer closed the meeting and apples and candy were enjoyed at the close, also a good contest.

ROCKY SAUGEN

Miss Beth McGillivray, Bunnessan, was a week end visitor with Miss Catherine McLean.

Mr T. Brown, Durham, is busy cementing Mr Malcolm McKechnie's stables this week.

Mr and Mrs Myers are visitors this week with their daughter, Mrs. John Molson.

Mr and Mrs Jas Miller and family, spent a day this week with her parents, Mr and Mrs H. Trafford.

Mrs And. Hastie and Mrs Sarah McKechnie were recent visitors with Mrs L. McLean.

Mr and Mrs Roy Thompson and little daughter, Pittsburg, with Mr. and Mrs O J Swyers, were guests for a few days with his mother and brothers here.

A start has been made by a few volunteer workers at shingling the south side of the church. We hope for a few days of good weather to get it finished.
