The blessedness of giving is not a far off promise but immediate and real in its fruits. Whoever gives wholeheartedly gains in return the satisfaction of obeying a generous impulse and the joy in sharing another's happiness. And if ever that good measure, pressed down and shaken together and running over is rendered to those who give, it is at Christmas children, and they, above all others, have the power of imparting gladness ance bush and pasture, with brick to others.

> "MUNICIPAL INDIFFERENCE Meaford to Vote Again

The above is a term applied to Meaford by the 'Mirror' of that town as it comments on the fact that only two members of about a dozen qualified for the election contest, for which nominations were held last week. A new nomination is called for Dec. 9th which may or may not remedy the situation. The 'Mirror' is careful to say "that there is no suggestion that all who failed to qualify did not have their taxes paid. There is doubt whether the two that did qualify, will have to run again The Review forwards subscriptions Certainly not! Why punish them because of indifference of others?,

An act recently done to an old couple living at Glassboro, New Jersey) by some citizen of the town who refuses to give his name, shows this old world still holds much of the milk of human kindness. This old couple through unfortunate circumstances, were about to be sheriffed out of their home, unable to meet the payments on a $1000 mortggae. Their plight attracted wide interest and many offers of homes were made to them. They were grateful but felt too old to move. Thursday last they were informed that they are to live in their house the rest of their days, tax, interest and rent free.
