

Trail Blue Goose

on Success- of Dominion Dr. J. Soper

... was all that Dr. Soper's good mystery of the goose but the discovery of the trail of this feathered more areatic rite. Ornitho-

... the trail of this feathered more areatic rite. Ornitho-

... the trail of this feathered more areatic rite. Ornitho-

... the trail of this feathered more areatic rite. Ornitho-

... the trail of this feathered more areatic rite. Ornitho-

... the trail of this feathered more areatic rite. Ornitho-

Sunday School Lesson

January 12. Lesson II, Baptism and Temptation of Jesus—Matthew 3: 13 to 4: 11. Golden Text—This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased.—Matthew 3: 17.

ANALYSIS.

I. THE BAPTISM, 3: 13-17. II. THE TEMPTATION, 4: 1-11.

INTRODUCTION.—The Gospels, are practically silent on the events of the life of Jesus between his birth and public ministry.

V. 12. The baptism of Jesus by John the Baptist had created a profound impression on the people of the land.

V. 14. However, John seems to feel that there was something about the man that made him different from all others.

V. 15. Jesus urges John to baptize him; but from this we must not infer that Jesus was conscious of sinfulness.

V. 16. At this moment of self-surrender, Jesus receives the recognition of divine favor.

V. 17. The voice from heaven expresses the entire satisfaction which God has with His Son.

Jewish officials, and work along with them. But this he rejects. Vs. 6, 7. In the last temptation Jesus is carried in vision to the top of a high mountain, and sees the glory of the Roman Empire, which has its soldiers in every land...

Prince of Wales Plans Lion Hunt

Jungle Adventure and Hunter's Life For Six Weeks

London.—Plans are now maturing for the Prince of Wales's African tour, which begins early in the New Year. Formalities are to be dispensed with as far as possible...

“The Prince's program will be a very elastic one,” said a member of the Prince's household recently, “and it is impossible now to say precisely what his movements will be.”

“Captain Deys Finch-Hatton, brother of the Earl of Winchilsea, who is a big-game hunter, and who conducted the Prince's big-game hunting last year, will again be in charge.”

At Capetown he will stay at Government House as the guest of the Earl of Athlone and Princess Alice, Countess of Athlone. This is a long overdue visit, as the Prince would have spent last Christmas with them had it not been for the King's illness.

He will remain about a fortnight in South Africa before proceeding to the lion country in East Africa.

Already Nairobi is anticipating the Prince's tour and the people of Kenya are speculating on how much of his journey from the Cape to Cairo he will do by air and how much by road.

“The most curious fact brought out by Mr. Mathieson is that after Great Britain had for several decades been carrying on her war against the slave trade a reaction developed and several prominent English politicians demanded that we should abandon the task.

“He is Mr. Mathieson's description of the condition of the slaves on board the ships that carried them across the Atlantic: “The slaves were always packed, often so closely that they sat between each other's legs; they were chained by the ankle in pairs, their fetters being not locked, but riveted; and the boarding above them was in many cases so low that they could not even sit upright.”

“In the smaller vessels most of the negroes were kept below during the whole voyage of a month or six weeks. The stench arising from bad air and the accumulation of filth was overpowering; the bruising of naked and manacled bodies with the rolling and pitching of the ship in a rough sea was an added torment.”

“Often there was an insufficient supply of water, and the slaves were driven almost mad by thirst. Nor was it only on board ship that the wretched slave had to suffer. In order to secure a supply of slaves on the West African coast it was necessary to stir up trouble in the interior; tribe fought against tribe, and the captive victims were driven by the lash down to the coast, there to be sold into slavery.”

“Those who survived the voyage across the Atlantic were condemned to a life of misery. One writer records that in provinces in Brazil a flagging for nine successive days is an ordinary punishment.”

“How much ammonia did de count done grant her?”

WHAT New York IS WEARING Illustrated Dressmaking Lesson Furnished with Every Pattern By Annabelle Worthington

2948 HOW TO ORDER PATTERNS. Write your name and address plainly, giving number and size of such patterns as you want. Enclose 20c in

A sports weight linen in lovely soft brown with maize dots adopts bolero treatment that is decidedly one-sided, with sash ends joined to underarm seams and tied in bow. The skirt sways so prettily cut circular and joined to diagonal yoke top. Shirring at left front shoulder provides decorative note and fullness. Long sleeves have perforations to be made short, if desired.

Great Britain and The Slave-Trade

“It was not until 1833 that the British Parliament reached the point of prohibiting slavery in British Possessions. Slavery continued, however, for many years in other countries; in the United States it was not finally abolished until 1863.”

“The most curious fact brought out by Mr. Mathieson is that after Great Britain had for several decades been carrying on her war against the slave trade a reaction developed and several prominent English politicians demanded that we should abandon the task.

“He is Mr. Mathieson's description of the condition of the slaves on board the ships that carried them across the Atlantic: “The slaves were always packed, often so closely that they sat between each other's legs; they were chained by the ankle in pairs, their fetters being not locked, but riveted; and the boarding above them was in many cases so low that they could not even sit upright.”

“In the smaller vessels most of the negroes were kept below during the whole voyage of a month or six weeks. The stench arising from bad air and the accumulation of filth was overpowering; the bruising of naked and manacled bodies with the rolling and pitching of the ship in a rough sea was an added torment.”

“Often there was an insufficient supply of water, and the slaves were driven almost mad by thirst. Nor was it only on board ship that the wretched slave had to suffer. In order to secure a supply of slaves on the West African coast it was necessary to stir up trouble in the interior; tribe fought against tribe, and the captive victims were driven by the lash down to the coast, there to be sold into slavery.”

“Those who survived the voyage across the Atlantic were condemned to a life of misery. One writer records that in provinces in Brazil a flagging for nine successive days is an ordinary punishment.”

“How much ammonia did de count done grant her?”

“How much ammonia did de count done grant her?”

“How much ammonia did de count done grant her?”

The Holiday Leftovers

After the holiday season is over, the home maker views the remains of the feast with an appraising eye. What can she make of what is left that will seem real treats to her household, instead of obvious means of getting rid of the leftovers?

Chicken Patties Make a cream sauce with 2 tablespoonfuls of butter, the same amount of flour and 1½ cupfuls of cream. When it is thick and smooth, add leftover chicken cut into dice and a can of mushrooms drained from their liquor and cut into halves.

Onions Stuffed With Chicken Select large onions, peel and scoop out the centers to form cups, and simmer 10 minutes, then drain. Make a thick white sauce as in the previous recipe and add 1 cupful of minced chicken, and salt and pepper to taste.

Turkey Balls Into a white sauce made from 2 tablespoonfuls each of butter and flour and 1 cupful of milk put the chopped meat available and a few mushrooms cut into thin-slices. Remove from the fire and add the yolks of 2 eggs.

Creamed Vegetables in Potato Shell To 2 cupfuls of leftover mashed potatoes add the yolks of 2 eggs, 3 tablespoonfuls of cream, a grating of onion and 1 tablespoonful of minced parsley.

Chicken Mousse Soak for five minutes 4 tablespoonfuls of gelatine in ¼ cupful of cold chicken stock, then dissolve it in ½ cupful of boiling stock, highly seasoned, and strain. Set aside to chill and when the mixture begins to thicken, beat it with the egg beater until it is frothy and add 1 cupful of cream that has been beaten stiff and 1 cupful of cold diced cooked chicken.

Turkey Tossles Melt 2 tablespoonfuls of butter and add 4 tablespoonfuls of stale bread crumbs from the soft part of the loaf and 2 ¾ cupful of milk; cook for 5 minutes, stirring constantly. Remove from the fire and add 1 cupful of finely chopped cold cooked turkey, ½ tablespoonful of minced parsley, 1 ½ teaspoonful of celery salt, 2 slightly beaten eggs, and salt and pepper to taste.

Turkey Soup When the bones are free from meat break the carcass in pieces, cover with cold water and bring slowly to the boiling point, with an onion cut into thin pieces, a few celery tops and a pint can of tomatoes. Simmer an hour, then strain and season to taste and add ½ cupful of cooked rice. Serve with toast cut into rings or with a bit of whipped cream on each portion.

HE.—“It's to be a battle of wits.” SHE.—“How brave of you, Gerald, to go unarmed.”

PERSONAL CHARACTER Personal character is all there is in this world that amounts to anything in the final resolution of things.

WESTMINSTER ABBEY enjoys a number of peculiar religious privileges. Although it comes within the diocese of the Bishop of London, it owes no allegiance to him, because it is an extra-diocesan.

PULMOTOR

Lipton's First Shop

He told his relation that he meant to start a shop, and asked them to lend him the money to do so. They were all poor folk, and surely it says something for the character and personality of this eighteen-year-old lad that he was able to persuade them to do so.

During his years in America young Lipton had come to realize the immense value of advertisement. At the period when he opened his first Glasgow shop, more than fifty years ago, shop-advertising was almost unknown in Britain.

When one shop succeeded Tommy Lipton promptly opened another. That sounds easy, but in practice it is nothing of the kind. Most young men, when they find success coming their way, begin to spend their earnings, to take things a bit more easily.

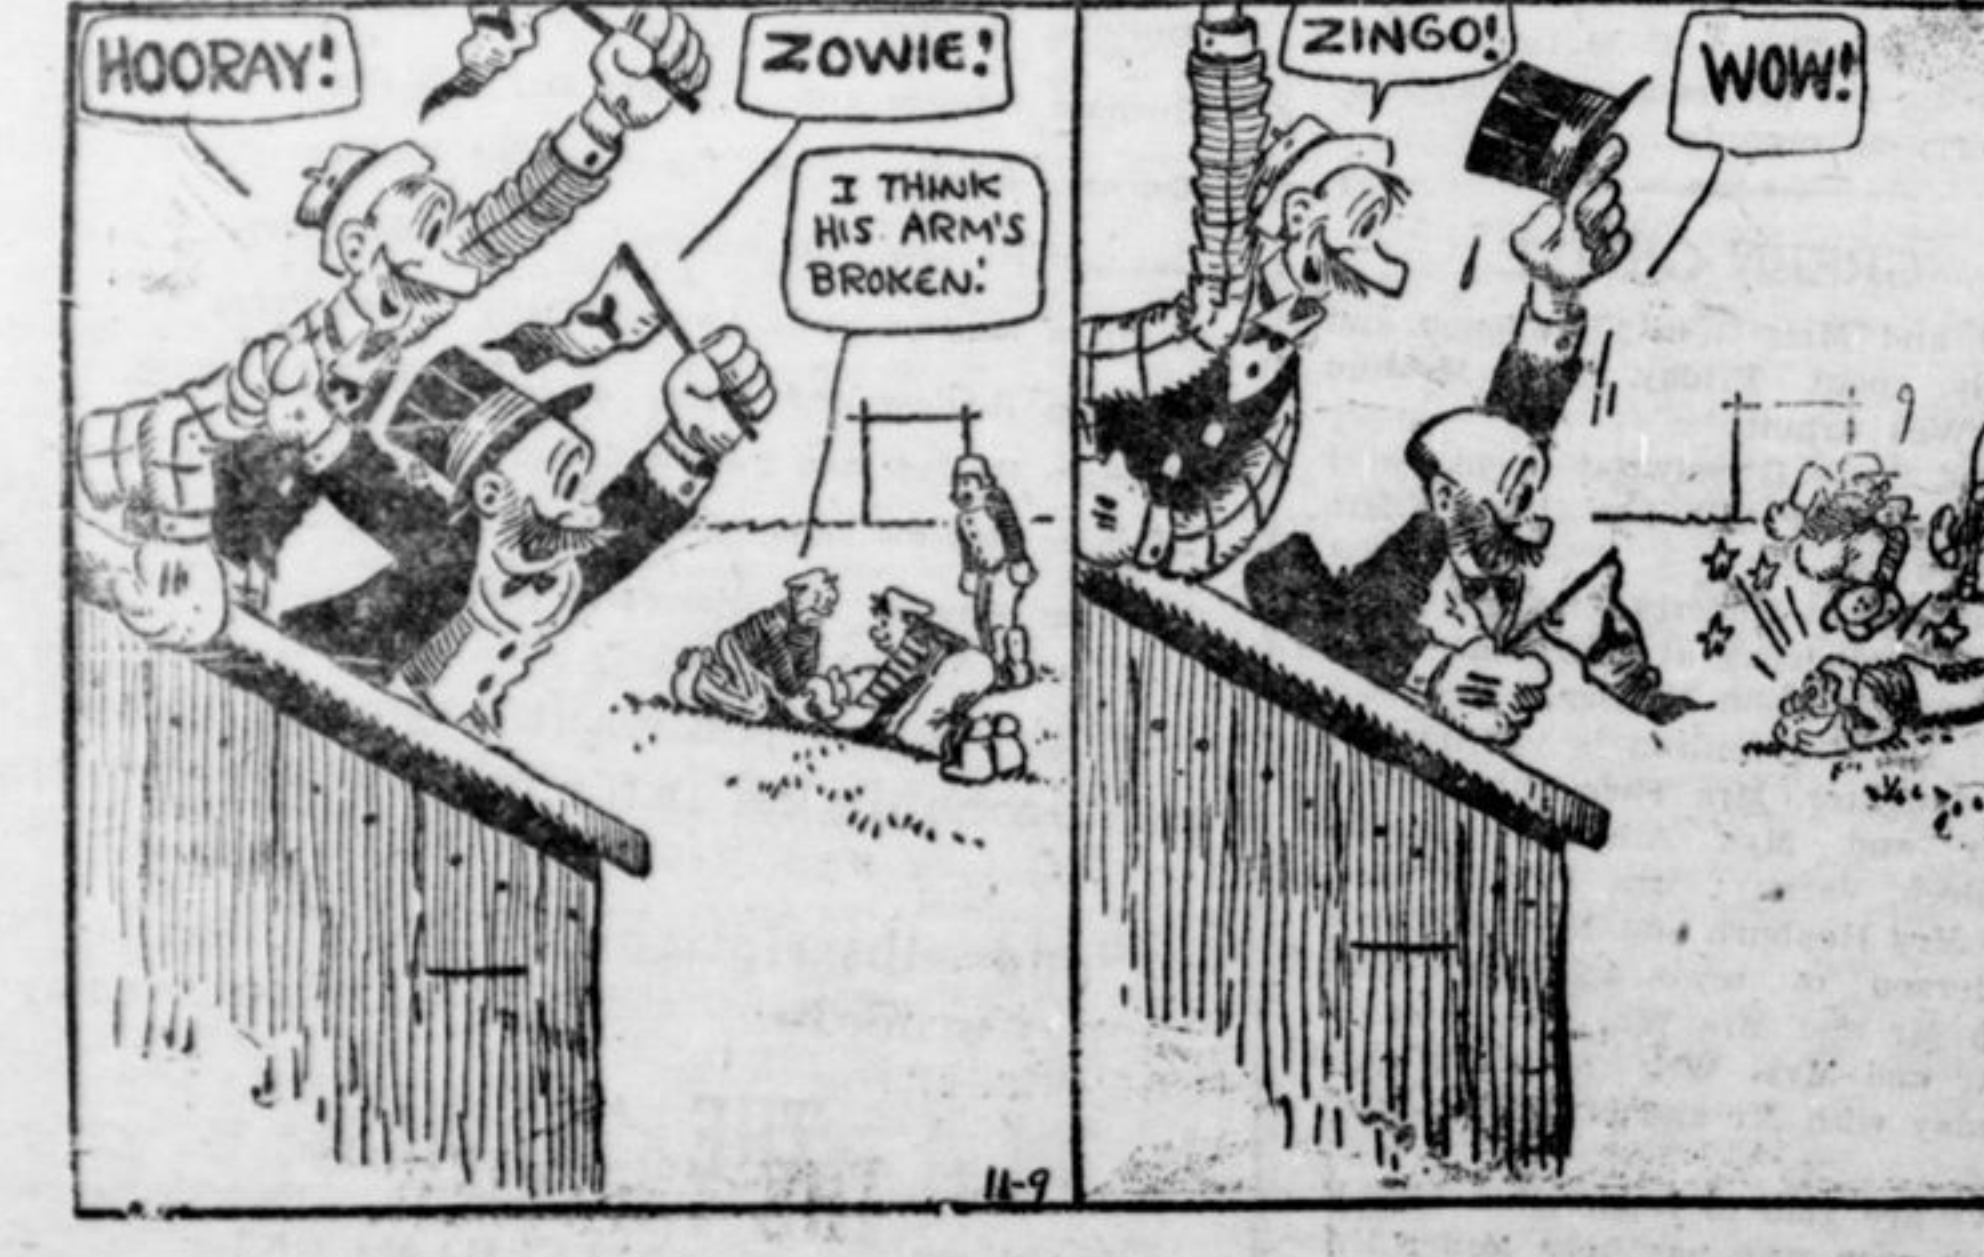

The young man had made his plan . . . he was not content with any ordinary success, for he had the definite intention of becoming one of the world's great merchant princes.

Each man and woman was sent in to the world not to be like someone else, but to do his own work, and to bear his own burden; precisely the one work which God has given him, and which never can be given to or done by any other.

When the angry man comes to himself, then he is angry with himself.—Syrus.

LOSS OF TIME Let him who regrets the loss of time make proper use of that which is to come in the future.—O'Connell.

MUTT AND JEFF— By BUD FISHER

Premier MacDonald Will Never Stop These Wars

