Now we take that boy back to the time when Glenelg with its hills and hollows was in the state it came from the hands of the Creator. Some 80 or more years ago that boy only entering his 10th year, thought it fine to see his yet strong and rugged father come down heavily with blow after blow, soon levelling the mighty elms and maples to a resting place on old Mother Earth. The old cabin as a residence for the perhaps large family, was sheltered by being built in the centre of the woods. But by the passing of time the aged pioneer soon converted the humble cabin to a comfortable dwelling. And now in his fast declining years he has seen the forests of Glenelg in many instances turned to fine fields and covered with the prospects of plenty for man and

The heavy rain Sunday evening and this Monday forenoon was a welcome one. Crops are doing well: some heavy alfalfa is laying down. Some are yet busy putting in corn. We don't see much sign of fruit. No apples are seen forming and no promise of having many. We see no sign of wild strawberries. Weeds and thistles are growing fast and require no extra cultivating. Fall wheat is fairly good on some farms. The Anderson boys on the Atkinson farm had to plow theirs and put some other grain in. The many friends of Rev John Bell of Rivers, Man. will be pleased to attend his service during the month of August in Knox Ch., Durham.
