Read This Message

There are many people who are suffering from some disease or other, who hesitate, naturally, to resort to further treatment, on account of the past failures of previous treatments they have tried. Yet it is a most dangerous practise to allow any complaint to continue its course uncared for. To these people I would say: "RETURN TO MOTHER NATURE. She will do wonders for you, no matter how long standing the case may be. Nature's Herbs taken in a natural way will give results that are truly wonderful."

DURHAM'S HOSPITAL SITUATION

The action of the Ontario Nurses' Association in aiming to staff the smaller Ontario hospitals of under 50 bed capacity, with fully qualified staff, strikes home pretty hard. The idea that a small town, say for instance, Durham, can for a minute, cope with the large city hospital in paying its way by increased costs of upkeep, is absurd to think of. The Nurses' Association claim that they can. There is an overplus of nurses in the city, why, oh why, do they not appropriate a larger staff to each hospital there? We have had and also heard of a few experiences of city hospitals to know how understaffed they are and their object in keeping the present staffs run off their feet has always been a mystery to us.

Durham has had a nine year trial of a hospital and it is considered one of the town's great assets. It has had excellent management from the first, its pupil nurses all received their "Registered Nurse" degree at affiliated hospitals and it would be nothing short of a disastrous loss to the town to be without such an institution. It has proven itself invaluable.

But what town the size of Durham can afford to keep patients in the building at $6 and $7 per day, which would be the tariff should the new law go in force. We are not decrying the advantages of a "specialized age" but when it interferes with the liberty of "live and let live", we back our pupil nurse hospitals, such as Durham possesses.

THE GOLD STANDARD

Britain, despatches tell us, has abandoned the gold standard. If you don't quite comprehend all that this means, take comfort in the fact that most big money men in Britain, assert that Britain has done the right thing. The Toronto Star says: "Some men explain the operations of the Gold Standard and foreign exchange just about as lucidly as they would the Einstein theory."

We may be sure that Britain statesmen understand the import of the "gold standard." But in the meantime don't refuse any gold coins offered you.

AID THE LORD'S DAY ALLIANCE

"Our Canadian Sunday is our country's greatest national asset."

The Sunday lovers of Durham will have the opportunity of contributing to assist in the work of preserving this great national asset very shortly as a canvass will be made in the town under the auspices of the Lord's Day Alliance of Ontario for this work. Mr. C. Campbell, well-informed and trained canvasser, will carry on the canvass and all will be given the privilege of assisting.

Canada owes much to the Lord's Day Alliance and the preservation of our Canadian Sunday is due, in a large measure, to their efforts, ever since the organization of that society forty two years ago. Within a short time, a statement was made in the offices of the Alliance, by the President of one of the large retail associations of Toronto, that undoubtedly if it had not been for the Lords Day Alliance, Canada could not have had her Sunday as she has today. It was largely through the activities of the Alliance and the Trades and Labor Council of Canada that the present Dominion Lord's Day Act, the finest in the world, was passed in 1906.

The basis of this Act, namely, a non-commercial Sunday, with every possible securing a day of rest from their ordinary vocation, is also the basis of the work of the Alliance. While, to be sure, education is the great task of the Alliance, the second greatest task is to co-operate with employers and employees and the officers of the law in securing a clear understanding and willing observance of the law. Except where every other means fails, the Alliance never advises recourse to the law courts and, above everything else, the Alliance never acts as a prosecutor unless it is necessary to support a test case in order to secure a stated verdict.

With regard to the educative side of the work, the officials state that the chief work of the Alliance has been and is the development of public opinion and that it carry on an uninterrupted campaign of education by means of addresses, newspaper articles and the distribution of literature. They also believe that public opinion as expressed in the Canadian press, is increasingly in favor of the uncommercialized Sunday and that the Canadian Sunday is recognized generally to be a great national asset.

If everyone will do what they are able, even though that be a small amount, it will greatly assist in the good work which the Alliance is doing.

BAD COMPANY

The downfall of Jack Brockenshire should be a lesson to all young men to shun bad company. This lad bears the reputation of being a splendid fellow in his young days as the following from the Orillia Packet and Times shows: "Brockenshire was born in Orillia and received his early training here. He was an outstanding boy and was a wonderful swimmer, once taking part in a swim to Chief Island. He was also an all-round sport and before leaving Orillia was well thought of. Many remember going to school with him and were shocked to hear that it was he who had committed such a brutal murder. Even his former school-teachers spoke well of him. However, Ledlugham, Vancouver, had passed when his family moved to Toronto, and then to Windsor, the lad got into bad company and moved rapidly towards his doom. Like many other boys the fast life of the city led him away and he fell in with bad company and at the end of a short route of crime, he has come to the end of the road through the gallows. A sad story but a very real one."

WHAT COURTESY IS

Though I treat a customer like a rich uncle, so that I get his business; that's not courtesy, that's shrewdness.

Though I offer a seat to a man who enters my office; that's not courtesy, that's duty.

Though I listen to grumbings and groanings of a customer; that's not courtesy, that's forbearance.

Though I help a pretty girl across the street, holding her umbrella and fondling her poodle: That's not courtesy. The first is pleasant, the second politeness and the third hypocrisy. Courtesy is doing that which nothing under the sun but human kindness makes you do. Courtesy springs from the heart. Courtesy is good will and goodwill is prompted by a heart full of love to be kind.

When the mind prompts an action—there is reason. Where there is a reason there is no courtesy for courtesy has no reason. Only the generous man is truly courteous—he gives freely without a thought of anything in return.

SEEK TO SILENCE AMOS & ANDY

(St Marys Journal-Argus)

Petitions to silence Amos and Andy—popular radio team, are being circulated among Cleveland negroes. Sponsored by a Pittsburg newspaper, the petitioners charge that the "two white men have been exploiting the American negro for purely commercial gain." They allege negro womanhood has been broadcast to the world by indulging in bigamy, and "negro lawyers depicted as schemers and as crooks." According to representatives of the newspaper, who are circulating the petitions, more than 275,000 names have already been obtained in a nation-wide drive.

Miss Macphail on Honesty

(Collingwood Bulletin)

Miss Agnes Macphail, M. P., says some severe things. For example, when speaking in Toronto recently, before a meeting arranged by the committees of migration and citizenship of the National Council of Women, she said: "We all think we are honest, but there are very few of us who are really honest. Too often we think we don't need to be honest when we work for the government. We are apt to think we can work less hard and get more pay and still be honest. When I roads, the hydro and the railways, is there not a lot of truth in her words?"

OBITUARY

MRS W. J. LEDINGHAM

Tuesday of this week, Mrs John Morrison of town, received the sad word that her only sister, Mrs W. J. Ledlugham, Vancouver, had passed away that morning, after an illness of three months. She was 56 years of age. Two years ago she spent the summer months with relatives and former friends in the East and she then enjoyed perfect health.

Deceased was formerly Isabella Campbell, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs Geo. Campbell, Aberdeen. She was married to Mr Ledingham in 1902, and for a number of years they farmed on the 2nd con. Bentinck, moving to Vancouver in 1912. She is mourned by her husband and two sons, Campbell and Oliver, as well as five brothers and one sister: Peter G. of Saskatoon; Neil, Westhope, N.D.; George, Minot, N.D.; Dugald, Devil's Lake, N.D.; Dan W., Akron, Mich., and Mrs John Morrison, Durham.

The fact that we are using a cotton sheet on our bed, rather than a blanket this September, proclaims it an unusual month.

Excellent papers were given by Miss Charlotte Fletcher on 'Our Influence in the World' and Mrs John Grierson on 'Sugar-sack Knickknacks,' showing the many beautiful and useful articles which may be made from the jute sacks, after thoroughly washing and dyeing the material, — such as couch covers, table runners, cushions, bags, etc. An 'Alphabet' contest by Ada Chapman was much enjoyed. A feature of the afternoon was the presentation to Miss Mary Lamb, a bride elect, of "Hot oven China-ware" bake set, from the Institute, for which Miss Lamb expressed her thanks and appreciation. Community singing was enjoyed, and the National Anthem closed the meeting. The hostess and assistants served refreshments. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs Jno.
