PRICEVILLE AND VICINITY

A fine St. Valentine social was held on Friday evening last in St. Columba schoolroom, when seventy or more gathered together to celebrate the goodly saint, so full of love and affection. After the opening devotional exercises, led by the popular president, Miss Edna McHugh, a short program was called off, with an orchestral number by Jack McKechnie on violin and Miss Alice Reiley on piano. A trio by Miss McHugh, soprano; Mrs. H. B. McLean, alto; W. W. Ramage, tenor; "Silver threads among the gold"; a duet by the two latter, "Life's dream is over"; and in solo by the latter one again, "My love is like a red, red rose". Mrs. Huston (nee Mae Muir) accompanied on the piano to the vocal selections most creditably and efficiently.

In between, Rev. W. H. Bartlett gave a fine descriptive address on St. Valentine's Day, its origin, its observance through the ages and the use made of the day by loversick swains, in sending their lady love symbols of affection and love in a red heart, pierced by an arrow, fired by the young nude rascal, Cupid. Mr. Shackleton also spoke, expressing his appreciation of the attendance and the fine work of preparation and arranging by Miss McHugh, who well deserved all the praise expressed. The room was festooned with hearts galore of various sizes and lights shaded. A fine lunch was served at the close by willing, winsome waiters. $19.30 has been raised by the young people in their efforts for the church.

We are pleased to know that Mrs. James Weir this Monday morning is much improved in health, as is also Mrs. Earl McLeod, who experiences better health now than she has done for a year back.

Mrs. Donald McMillan is now very much improved in health and has been lovingly waited upon by her dutiful daughters, Tena, Becca and Bella and sometimes Vicky from Sheburne. Her good man, Donald, and son Angus, are not without their mead of praise as well.

The United Women's Day of Prayer for the two churches here, was held Friday in the Hall and Mrs. Rev. Sutherland presided, Mrs. Muir being invited to a seat on the dais. The lecture provided was followed by singing in responsive reading and singing of hymns. Prayers set forth, were given by Mrs. (Rev.) Sutherland, Mrs. Hinks, Mrs. McConkey, Mrs. Alie Muir, Mrs. (Rev.) Bartlett. "In the secret of His Presence" was sung by Mrs. Hinks. Mrs. H. B. McLean, Mrs. Huston presiding at the piano throughout. There were 26 earnest women at the meeting, who joined in devotionally.

Mr. Andy Ford has been under the weather lately with a touch of something akin to the flu.

Rev. W. H. Bartlett had a narrow escape when his car turned turtle on the icy road in the long swamp, coming home from Flesherston. A damaged wheel was one result.

Rev. Mr. Bartlett's morning sermon was taken from John 10:18, Mark 15:31. The crucified Christ is not in the midst of the church for religious effect, nor even to impress them. He is there to measure the world's sin, to lead into the consciences of men the righteousness of God, the unflinching mercy and love of the Father.

In the evening he spoke of the productive department (the youth) of the church—profitable not alone in membership but in work for the church. Resources of supplies of talent in our youth should not be overlooked and with abundance of this wealth of talent on hand should be sufficient to carry on God's work. The courage and daring of our young men on the field of battle is what is needed in the Church to-day and if used aright, will step out for Christ.

The annual day of Prayer was observed in the Presbyterian Hall on Friday, Feb. 12, when a good attendance from both congregations were present. A piano selection by Mrs. Harry Houston (Mae Muir) opened the meeting, followed by a call to worship by the leader, Mrs. (Rev.) Sutherland. The hymn "Lord speak to me that I may speak" was sung and Mrs. Sutherland led in prayer. Mrs. H. McLean sang very sweetly "In the secret of His presence" and was a factor in making the service more sacred. Mrs. A. L. Hinks then led in prayer for China, Japan, Korea and Russia, after which silent prayer for one minute, following the naming of each country by leader, was observed.

Prayer for the near East, India, Africa, was given. Mrs. Alie Muir, at so a leader, gave a reading, after which offering was taken. Prayer was then offered for Europe, North and South America by Mrs. Sutherland. Mrs. Robt. McConkey led in prayer for his majesty, the King and the Empire, Canada and the Peace Disarmament Conference, after which Mrs. (Rev.) Bartlett led in prayer. The dismissal prayer was then re-

Miss Macphail's Weekly Letter

Last year it took over five weeks to dispose of the King's speech; this year it was cleared away in less than two days. "Rigid economy" of time seems to be the watchword, for already many questions of importance have been dealt with.

The first opposition to the speech came from Mr. King, whose own speech was as notable for the abundance of destructive criticisms as for the entire absence of any constructive ideas. Paragraph by paragraph he attacked the speech, using perhaps, more force than was necessary for the destruction of such a weak pro-nouncement. And then he drew forth his well-known collection of Mr. Bennett's pre-election promises made in various Canadian cities. For the third session, Mr. King put them on record, fairly revelling in them as a mild s.d. Perhaps he neglected to notice that he, the leader of the Liberal party, gave not one good reason for which the people of Canada should put him and his party in power again.

Mr. Bennett observed that Mr. King's blue outlook was due, no doubt to the fact that he and his party were "militating" and wished to drag others down with them. He justifies his tariff policy as the only one which could cause Canada to emerge from world-wide depression. As an example of his respect for the past, he pointed out that which there are 15 in Canada—1,973 employees as against 1,888 before the tariff. Unfortunately no one cannot forget that over against this increase of 85 must be set the 500,000 unemployed for whom Mr. Bennett promises to provide work. In the face of this situation it seems a bit academic to talk of having established a favorable balance of trade.

In sharp contrast to Mr. Bennett's self-congratulatory speech was that of Mr. Gardiner. He pointed out that farm relief, at least in the dried-out areas of Saskatchewan had been entirely inadequate. The western farmers are becoming more and more insolvent; unless drastic steps are taken to meet the situation the matter will become hopelessly insolvent. Canada's position cannot be called "fundamentally sound" if she has no proposals for dealing with it.

Mr. Woodsworth tried to arouse the government to the realization that desperate diseases need desperate remedies. In his usual trenchant style he gave a brief review of world conditions as they are viewed by leading bankers and economists. Mr. Bennett asserts that conditions are improving; the presidents of two leading Canadian banks hold just the opposite view. Mr. Bennett severely related that, due to tariff, a button factory is employing 30 more men; Mr. Woodsworth stated that in Winnipeg alone the total number of persons on the dole at January 2, totalled 11,177. Favorable balance of trade? Favorable because Canada can no longer borrow in New York and is having to pay her debts. Characterizing the speech as revealing an absolute bankruptcy of ideas, Mr. Woodsworth stated that he was introducing a socialist resolution for the superseding of the present competitive system by one based on co-operation and the needs of the people.

Members of parliament, senators and city employees are to take a ten per cent salary cut this year. The higher paid ones can possibly stand it, but what about those who are already receiving less in wages than is paid in relief to the unemployed of at least one Canadian city? And what about the example set to industry? Employers are bound to cut wages, thus still further decreasing the purchasing power of the workers and still further aggravating the depression. If economic relief must be made, why exempt the bond holders and mortgage holders? If to secure money is the object of the government's policy of "rigid economy" why not look where the money is?

The question of the administration of unemployment relief in British Columbia was raised by Mr. Reid, liberal from New Westminster. Four Labour members, independent and one Labour member, all from B. C., claimed that the administration of the relief had been wasteful in its methods and that opportunity had been given for government supporters to profit by furnishing supplies which were often unnecessary and too costly.

Mr. Speakman's proposal for an Economic Research Council was discussed again this year. In view of the chaotic state of world affairs, Mr. Speakman urged that the government establish a council to go into the whole question of a planned economy. Certainly he did not believe it is either possible or desirable to transplant the Russian system entire into Canada. But the Soviets had certainly found something that was working, and Mr. Speakman saw no reason why we should not take ideas from that source as well as any other. He protested against the belief that "if we only endure long enough, if we only tighten our belts a little more or eat or drink or use a little less, in some mysterious, miraculous way things will right themselves."

Things don't; intelligence is the only way of righting them.

Mr. Stevens still protested that he could not find one practical suggestion in the resolution. Planned economy in an individualistic country like Canada would not work; human selfishness would prevent any such course being taken. Mr. Stevens does not take account of the fact that it was precisely human selfishness which brought affairs to a head in Russia and which ushered in the new regime and its planned economy. And then, having mentioned some original stumbling blocks, Mr. Stevens stated that the government would take peated in unison. Mrs. H. Houston presided at the piano throughout the service.

Miss Elsie McCannel returned home on Monday after spending the past week with her sister, Mrs. Hinks.

Mrs. Livingstone of Townsend's Lake, spent the past week visiting at Mrs. McMeekin's.

Mr. David Hinks spent the past week visiting at Mr. Stanley Harrison's, assisting them to move to their new farm purchased recently.

On Thursday night the Valentine Social was held in the Hall, despite the bad weather and roads. Much of talent couldn't get there. However, those that were there enjoyed themselves. Mr. Bill McKenzie acted as chairman; Kenneth and Donald Nichol sang and these two little boys showed themselves to be fine singers.

A play entitled "Striking for Higher Wages" was good, each character taking his or her part well. A couple of splendid contests caused lots of fun, and a beautiful lunch was served. The silver collection amounted to $8.40.

Miss Mary McEachern's many friends were sorry to hear she had the misfortune to fall off a chair and break her leg. Dr. Sneath was called in and put the limb in a cast. She is getting along as well as can be expected.

A social evening under the auspices of the Willing Helpers, will be on Friday, March 4, to give those a chance to hear the entertainers who were to put on the program at the Valentine Social and failed to get along with other program. Hope the weather man will be better to us than the last time.

PROTON CHURCH COLLECTION ROBBED BY TWO LOCALS

Collection amounted to $12.65. When officers were searching for the money in a barn, they allege, they discovered an unused still in a straw mow. The box containing the money and church papers, the officers allege, were disposed in a box for holding chop, Bert Middaugh and Chas. Murcor, constables of Dundalk, effected the arrests.

Hockey Game a free-for-all

The hockey game between the Maple Leafs of Toronto and the Maroons of Montreal in the Maple Leaf Gardens, Toronto, on Saturday night, ended in a grand fight among the players, resulting in two Maple Leafs and three Maroons being fined. Post-game Hewitt, the radio announcer of the game, truly said, "Japan and China can show them nothing in scrapping."

the resolution into consideration. Rather more enthusiastic was Mr. MacNicol, Conservative member from Toronto. He had made a study of depression. Since 1790 there had been 24 such great wars had been followed by two. Although he felt that the world was grappling with one, he better than with preceding ones, he knew conditions were bad. Such an economic council is no new idea, there being one in both Germany and France. Mr. MacNicol welcomed the idea of one in Canada.

Mr. Lucas seconded the resolution, saying that paradoxically enough, the one bright spot he saw was the depression itself. Its magnitude might force a solution. Mr. Irvine also made an able speech in support of the resolution, saying that the way to avoid future depressions was to plan our economic life now in such a way to make impossible the recurrence of the present chaos. He gave many illustrations of the wastefulness of the present capitalist system. Mr. Woodsworth dealt at some length with the new economic system of Russia, as being the only existing example of a state with a planned economy. Here in Canada we already have plenty of capital equipment for our present needs; Russia had to create that before she could hope for any measure of success. But she came through her many difficulties and now she is beginning to get results. We would do well to watch her methods. Mr. Speakman's resolution was accepted by the government.

Another issue of importance was raised by Mr. Donnelly, Liberal member from Sask. He claimed that, due to the raising of the tariff, the price of gasoline in Canada was 25 per cent much higher than in United States. In his present financial straits the farmer cannot afford the increased price. Mr. Neil said the same thing was true of the west coast fishermen. The matter was referred to the committee of banking and commerce.

An event of interest was the maiden speech of Mr. Humphrey Mitchell, Labor victor in Hamilton. He brought up the question of election funds with special reference to the Beauharnois scandal. Observing that both Liberal and Conservative parties were implicated in the affair, he pressed for an investigation into the whole matter. Mr. King and Mr. Bennett indulged for a few moments in mutual recriminations. And Mr. Bennett again showed himself a master in the gentle art of stalling for time. Mr. Cahan, Sec'y of State, revealed the rather interesting information that he had been greatly hampered in his own election in Montreal by both civic and provincial police! Finally the House decided that the matter should be investigated by a committee during this present session.

DIAMOND RING FOUND AMONG FIRE DEBRIS

Dever Bros. of Proton Station recently suffered a disastrous loss by fire, of their store, dwelling and contents, at an early morning hour. They were fortunate to escape with their lives. The Proton correspondent of the Flesherston Advance as this further to say:

"Recently Mr. Wes Dever and some friends climbed into the ruins of the burnt store purposely to search for Mrs. Dever's diamond ring. As they sussed up the debris of brick mortar, ashes and all the charred remains of a little ring must have seemed as impossible as the finding of a proverbial needle in the hay stack. Locating the spot where it might possibly fall from the second story, they had not searched long, before Stanley Lyons picked up the ring. The band is blackened but the stone is unharmed. Mrs. Dever was certainly surprised and happy when her engagement ring was restored to her, tried by fire."
