

A Quick Way

Restore
an Estate

ARE you among the thousands who have suffered from the great depression? Have you had to make a hurried survey of your financial position only to find that you are worth less by thousands of dollars than you were? Do you realize that death compels a liquidation of securities at current values?

How can that situation be met?

You can instantly restore your estate to a healthy basis by taking out more insurance. The same way is to insure to the point of safety... at least.

Over five hundred million dollars of life insurance was taken out in the Sun Life Company last year—much of it by level-headed men who balanced their accounts by this simple method.

CHESLEY ENTERPRISE STANDS CORRECTED

The Review's article of two weeks ago, replying to one in Chesley Enterprise the previous week, regarding paying of the uncompleted 15 mile stretch on No 6 highway north of Rocky Saugeen, was subjected to rather kindly criticism by that journal, both on its first and editorial pages. The Enterprise corrects us on the statement that we made that $150,000 debentures issued last year were for a legacy of war indebtedness, as well as County and Provincial highway expenditure and states by-law reads that it was for "defraying actual expenditure for construction and improvement of Provincial Highways." We accept the correction and acknowledge our mistake. What we quoted about "the accumulation of indebtedness for war expenditure and for County and Prov. roads" was what "boasted Grey's debenture debt previous to this $150,000."

But the Enterprise is out when it still claims the motion that no Prov. highway paving be done this year. It was unannouncedly carried in Grey Co. Council. When the motion was put, all could see that the majority of hands were raised in favor, and Warden Bell declared it carried without asking for the yeas. Still when a number refused to raise their hands in favor, one could term it "unanimous," which Webster's dictionary defines as "being of one mind."

Yes, the Review "stands corrected" on one statement made, and the Enterprise "stands corrected" on five. The Review is just as anxious to see the farmers relieved of excessive taxation as is the Enterprise, but the unemployment situation must be considered as well, and if industry is much more throttled in villages, towns and cities, where will the buying power come from to provide a market and good prices for the farmers' products? Almost all farmers are assured of a living at least on the farm, but the laboring man and those in business also in the towns, have no such assurance, and if a revival in industry is not forthcoming the coming summer, governments, cities and towns may prepare for much greater relief expenditure.

The Enterprise specially cites Sullivan and Bentinck ratepayers as being overburdened if the highway paving be continued and the uninformed might be led to believe they were going to bear the whole cost. Egerton and Collingwood, Durham and Hanover, and many other municipalities, would pay their full share of Grey's 20 per cent as well, in proportion to assessment. In fact Durham and Egerton and several others would pay a real liberal share, as they had their assessments raised at last Co. equalization, while Bentinck and Sullivan were not increased.

Taking Sullivan, the closest township to Chesley, for example, if the whole 15 miles were to be paved this year, at approximately same cost per mile as last year, it would cost each ratepayer of that township only $1.63 or $1000 of assessment, which would scarcely ruin any farmer. This would bring a lessened County rate for its provincial payment and it should also be lowered on account of the government assuming more of Old Age Pensions.

But why worry—the Review and Enterprise controversy will neither prevent nor bring about paving. There are other angles to the subject we have not time nor space to discuss at present, but as nothing has yet been heard of tenders being called by the government for this road, it looks as if no action or work upon it will be undertaken this year.

OPENING OF S. S. NO. 9 SCHOOL, GLENELG

(From an old scrap book)

The new school, Sec. No. 9, Glenelg, about one and a half miles from Durham, was opened by a soiree, in 1881. The building is of stone and is an excellent structure for the purpose for which it has been erected and reflects credit upon the contractor, Mr Wm. Laidlaw. The building was comfortably filled by half past seven o'clock. The Business choir under the leadership of Mr George Blaine, opened the proceedings by singing, after which a blessing was asked and in an incredibly short everyone was supplied with tea and rich cake, made up in every form and style. When thanks had been returned, R. Aljoe, Esq. was appointed chairman. After a brief address on the school-building, etc., the choir was called on for another piece. Wm Ferguson, Esq., P. S. I., gave us an interesting address, trying to impress upon the young the necessity of understanding what they read and to be careful in little things. J. Townsend, of the Review, congratulated the section on the excellence of the new building and tried to encourage the young to study. Rev Mr Dunlop, of Durham, spoke on the activity of the young mind and showed that they should be taught right principles. Rev Mr Wray spoke of cheerfulness, vivacity from the heart. As soon as variety of taste, etc., which elicited much mirth. Mr M. Armstrong, principal of Durham Model School, gave a reading "The Raven." Mr John Black gave a humorous recitation—kudly applauded. The choir sang pieces at intervals during the evening in good style. Votes of thanks were passed to the choir, to the speakers and other gentlemen who contributed to the entertainment; to the ladies who had made such abundant provision for the soiree and to the chairman. Proceeds $22.60, which will go towards purchasing apparatus for the school. We are pleased to learn that Mr. John D. McLean has been engaged for next year in an increased salary. The old school-house is to be sold on Friday afternoon at half past four.

Dr. Groves' Wonderful Feat

The day of miracles is not yet over as Dr W. A. Groves of Fergus, has proven. Possessing marvellous surgical skill, plus pluck and a big chance, this 84 year old doctor performed an operation in Fergus hospital last week upon a young mother, that has made Toronto surgeons sit up and take notice. Mrs. Hubert Mann gave birth to a baby a week previous which was followed by a clot of blood forming three inches down in the brain, paralyzing her body. The doctor after being delayed 48 hours before securing consent of the woman's relatives to operate, set to work and trephined the skull of his patient in an effort to dissipate the cerebral hemorrhage. The operation was never performed before, so far as is known.

Trephining the skull is the usual medical term for opening the brain for any kind of operation. When the skull was opened, Dr Groves took a small instrument like a large hypodermic needle and worked it slowly through the tissue, and cells into the capsule.

"I had to measure carefully to locate the place," Dr Groves said, "but the location of the internal capsule is difficult. The hard part of it, of course, was getting down to the clot without injuring the brain and to draw out the blood in the clot."

Dr Groves is modest about his wonderful skill and says no one can say whether the patient's improvement was due to the operation or to nature's healing power. This latest feat of this famous doctor, causes us to ask when is a person's usefulness over? In the natural state of affairs, we would place the limit at 75 years, but in the case of the Fergus doctor, he is like Tennyson's brook: "going on forever."

BRIDGE NO GAME FOR MARRIED FOLKS

The bridge experts fessed into a blunder when they invited Judge Joseph Sabath, famous divorce court jurist, to make a speech at a contract tournament.

"Bah, bridge," said the Judge. "That's the game that has caused nearly as many divorces as mother-in-laws."

Judge Sabath, who has issued more than 50,000 divorces, turned down the invitation and took the opportunity to issue the following statement concerning bridge tables, husbands and wives:

"If a husband and wife must play bridge, (although I can't see why they should ever want to) they should never play at the same table. If they do, there's bound to be fireworks. I have seen countless cases of jangled nerves and serious disagreements result over bridge table arguments. It is my advice to married people not to play the game at all if they want to be happy together."

SASKATCHEWAN TO SPEND $12,000,000 ON RELIEF

Before the 1932-crop is harvested in Saskatchewan, an additional $12,000,000 will be spent by the government for relief purposes. Premier J. T. M. Anderson stated that while speaking at a Young Men's Conservative Association banquet at Saskatoon. The premier denied that his government was contemplating holding an election.

Fergus Boys have Taking Ways Fergus News Record: Last week, Toronto police raided some of the fraternity houses at which some of the students of Toronto University live. This has caused a great deal of comment and speculation. It also reminds some of those interested in lacrosse in Fergus of the time when they took a team of boys up to Durham for a game and the players each walked away with one piece of silverware from the hotel. As soon as notice of souvenir hunting was received, the silver was gathered together and returned.

MACCAUL — JACKSON

The marriage took place in Old St. Paul's Church, Woodstock Friday, April 22, of Dorothy Clare Douglas, daughter of Mr and Mrs H. S. Jackson (Ada Limin) of Durham, to Flight Lieut. Donald Harvey MacCaul of Ottawa, son of Mr J. H. and the late Mrs MacCaul of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., the pastor, Rev. John Morris officiating. The church was decorated with spring flowers in profusion and the wedding march was played by the organist, Miss Vera Hawkins. She was attended by her cousin, Miss Marion Green, of Woodstock, who wore a gown of Honeydew silk net, with wide picture hat to match. She carried a bouquet of Anna Hill roses. The best man was Mr Wm Locks of Toronto. The latter wore a gown of powder blue Romaine with Milan hat in gray shades. She wore a bouquet of sunset roses. Mrs Morris wore a gown of black lace, and black hat of transparent braid and wore a bouquet of dark red roses. Mrs E. W. HAMPDEN

The farmers in this locality are busy on the land. Some have already sowed a few acres of grain and unless we are visited with a spell of wintry weather, in the shape of a small blizzard, the spring seeding will be well on its way by the end of the month.

The play "The Little Clodhopper," which our young people have been so busy practicing the past few weeks, drew the usual crowd and proved a decided success in the line of entertainment. Those taking part were Miss Priest, Lillian Horsburgh, Clara Maas, Nellie Anderson, Arnold Hickling, Thos Fulton and Geo Henderson with Wilfrid Anderson as dictator. An orchestra supplied delightful music between acts. Altogether it was a good night's outing.

Mr and Mrs John Henry, Durham, with Mr and Mrs Elmer Garland and sons James and Lloyd, also of Durham, visited with Mr and Mrs Hugh Fulton recently, also with Byers' of "Bonnie View Farm."

The cold weather lingers and as we write the snow is falling thickly, looking as if nature would be once more mantled in white. The farmers are busy on the land and longing for a nice warm rain that would mellow the ground and make it more workable.

There is still considerable flu in the neighborhood. We hope those who are suffering will soon be about again.

KNOX CORNERS

Glad to see so many out to our service Sunday. The message was on "The strength and beauty of the soul." We need both in our characters and the Master gave us a wonderful example and how the strength and beauty were both revealed in His life. How firm and even severe He was, when He drove the money-changers from the temple and also in condemning the Pharisees for their hypocrisy. Yet how kind He was to the sick and sorrowful and erring ones.

Our Sunday School will re-open on Sunday, May 1, and we hope to see a goodly number present. Also the sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be observed Sunday next, preparatory service Friday night.

Mrs Harry Caldwell and Milton returned home Sunday after a few days' visit with her parents in Hanover.

Thanksgiving and Young People's meeting were held together in the church last Friday evening, with a fair attendance. Miss L. Fisher, pres. of the W.M.S. occupied the chair and Rev Mr Heaney led in prayer. A special feature of the program was an Easter pageant "Faith is the Victory" and was admirably given. The speaker of the evening was Mrs Heaney, who in a splendid address gave a full report of the W.M.S. of the Toronto Conference, held in Bloor St. United Church, Toronto, early in March.

Miss Mildred Henderson gave a reading; solos were sung by Rev Mr Heaney and Mrs D. J. MacDonald and a dialogue "Stewardship of Thankfulness" was given by Mesdames E. Boyce and J. McDougall. At the close of program, a hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mrs Heaney for her interesting address and the meeting closed with benediction.

Institute Meets
The Crawford-Louise Institute held their April meeting last Wednesday, at the home of Mrs Edgar Boyce. 20 ladies were present. In the absence of the President, Mrs McCaslin presided. The roll call "Hints for house-keeping" was well responded to, many useful hints being given. The topic "Cockles and their recipes" was taken by Mrs David Hastie and she not only told how to make them but brought samples and treated the ladies present to them. Needless to say this act was appreciated. Miss L. Fisher gave an excellent paper on "Raising chickens or turkeys" and read an article on turkey-raising from a recent number of Maclean's magazine. This splendid meeting was closed with the National Anthem. Mrs. Boyce and assistants served a delicious lunch. The next meeting, the annual one, will be held at Mrs E. Sachs on May 18th.
