Again in First Place
The Toronto Exhibition still have no old-time fiddlers that can equal Geo. E. Haw, of Swinton Park. For some years past he has taken first place in the class for fiddlers, Music Day, between 50 and 65 years of age. Mr Haw is 59 years of age. We think Swinton Park appreciates the prowess of this violinist's ability.

The matron and nurses of Durham Red Cross Hospital, surprised the retiring Assistant Superintendent, Miss Ethel Morrison, one evening recently, when they presented her with an eight day mantel clock. Miss Fettes was spokesman and in a few appreciative words, expressed their appreciation of her unselfish service during her four years of tenure here.

Police Magistrate III
Our Police Magistrate, Wm Laidlaw, came home from Toronto last Thursday, after consultation there with several doctors regarding his condition. Mr Laidlaw has not had good health for some time and is now in his bed in a weak condition. Rest and nourishing food are what the specialists ascribe for bringing him around and we also hope these have the desired effect.

New Teacher on Staff
Miss Mary Walker, of Oro, one of the members of Durham High School, was unable to return to teaching duties on Sept. 1, not having regained strength sufficiently for duties, following an operation in early July for appendicitis. Accordingly the Board advertised for the vacancy of uncertain duration, and secured Miss Mitchell, B. A., of Tilsonburg, who comes to them highly recommended.

Mrs J. Black Hostess to W. I.
The Women's Institute met in Durham, Thursday last at home of Mrs J. Black, Countess St., with 40 members and friends present. Mrs. Jas Mather presided and Miss M. J. McGill was secretary pro tem, as Mrs. Giles, Sec'y Treas., has been laid aside thru illness. Roll call was answered with individual methods of serving a favorite vegetable. Many new ideas were aired. Mrs. Glass gave an excellent paper on "Home Economics", showing that this subject was much more than just knowing how to cook and sew. Mrs. McElraith gave an interesting report of the 26th convention in Thornbury. Mrs. J. Lloyd read a poem, "A cheerful min's sermon" which contained many wise gems. The plans for program and lunch were under the direction of a group with Mrs W. A. Glass as convener.

Barquetted Winning Team
A pleasing wind-up to the softball season locally was a banquet tendered the winning Furniture Co. team at the Hahn House Tuesday night of last week by the management of the Durham Furniture Co. As well as the team, the League Executive, official umpires and Press were invited to share in the splendid spread provided. Mr. Z. B. Duffield, Sec'y Treas., of the Co., and a member of the executive, then presided over a program of toasts and speeches, in which Mayor Murdoch presented the Dufferin Cup to Alvin Snell, captain, who suitably voiced the thanks of the team. Toasts were given to the King, the team, to Sec'y Treas. P. Ramage and the press, and the umpires, those speaking in proposal and responses being D. M. Saunders, Albert Kress, R. L. Saunders, P. Ramage, M. H. Bailey, J. N. Murdoch, and Martin Lauder. At close the Furniture Co. management were tendered a hearty vote of thanks for the grand banquet.

Cold-Blooded Deed in Mississippi State

Rev. W. H. Smith was much surprised and grieved last week when word came of the death of his brother, Archibald Smith at Natchez, Mississippi, U. S. He was found dead in the ruins of the building located at Torras, near New Roads. Advice from New Roads state that Mr. Smith drove from Pointe Coupe on Tuesday, to inspect the cotton crops, which plantation he conducted on a large scale. He spent the night alone in his residence there. During the night, fire of undetermined origin destroyed the structure.

His manner of death has given rise to much speculation and concern and at last word received, the final verdict had not been held. The first inquest brought in the following: "Investigation into the death of Archibald Smith, prominent cotton planter and educator of Natchez, Miss., whose charred remains was found in the ruins of his plantation home, near Torras, will be resumed on Friday by a Pointe Coupe parish coroner's jury."

Later evidence points out that Mr. Smith was murdered and his home burned to conceal the crime. The late Mr. Smith established his residence in Natchez in 1920, when he acquired several large Louisiana properties. He was a leader in the movement to establish land owner's claims for compensation under federal flood control projects. His widow and one daughter Margaret survive.

Deceased was one of the organizers and leading spirits in the landowner's protective association, an organization formed for the purpose of securing compensation from the government for land damaged or made valueless under the federal flood protection program. In addition to agricultural interests, Mr. Smith was active in efforts to secure oil and gas developments in Concordia and Coupee parishes.

Ill at home of Mrs Banks
Mrs N. J. McArthur, Vancouver, who has been on an extended visit since June last with relatives and friends in Orono and Eastern Ontario, came Thursday last to the home of her sister-in-law, Mrs Thos. Banks and other relatives of her husband's people. Unfortunately her visit has been spoiled somewhat, becoming suddenly ill on Saturday evening with a severe attack of heart trouble. Mrs J. J. Sutherland, of Sarnia, is also with her cousin, Mrs Banks.

Varney Boys Enter Wedlock Same Day

On Saturday, Sept. 10th, three former graduates of Varney Academy will leave the ranks of single blessedness for life. The exact date was not planned by them, — in fact, we suppose they were not aware of each other's intentions. These young men are Cecil Barber, Victor Blythe and Campbell Grant, Walkerton's well known lawyer. The first named was to do with the land, the second with Ford cars, the third with people. The three are all interesting studies, out of which a profitable living should be made. They appear to be entering matrimony's ranks at about the same age and while we haven't discussed it with any of them, would judge they learned their A.B.C.s at about the same time. The thought of matrimonial ties holding them down to the same day, say 20 years ago, was the thought furthest from them and serves to show how little we know the future. Here's hoping they all see their 50th wedding anniversary.

75th Anniversary of Hampden Congregation

Two red-letter days in the history of Hampden congregation, will be Sunday and Monday, Sept. 18 and 19th, when the 75th anniversary of the church will be observed. An old Hampden boy, Rev. E. O. Young, of Magnetawan, will take the Sunday services at 11.00 a.m. and 7.30 p.m., and on Monday the reunion will be continued in an old-fashioned tea-meeting, when a real Hampden supper will be served and two former pastors, Rev's Budge and McLean, will be present with others to exchange reminiscences and greetings, in a program of song and story. Everyone is welcome to attend all the services and join with the members of the congregation in celebrating this milestone in its history.

Fatal Accident near Rockwood Monday

Returning home from Toronto on Monday evening, where they had attended the Exhibition, Mr and Mrs. J. A. Rowland met with an unfortunate accident near Rockwood, which resulted in a fatality.

Driving at a speed of 35 miles per hour in the heavy traffic that evening about 8 p.m., when about a mile west of the village, Mr Rowland suddenly noticed a man walking near the centre of the highway about 25 or 30 feet ahead of him. He quickly jammed on the brakes and endeavored to swerve past him, and almost did so. However the right end of the bumper struck him, throwing him backwards and his head collided with a headlight, breaking it and the man rolled off the fender onto the highway. Mr Rowland in a few seconds had his car stopped at side of highway and ran to pick up the victim, but was shocked to find him dead. The unfortunate pedestrian was a laborer of about 50 years of age, William Burgess by name, residing at Rockwood.

Immediately after the accident, another motorist who had just passed Mr Rowland, and narrowly missed hitting the same man, returned to the scene of the fatality. He had feared the latter's car could not avoid striking the victim and anticipated an accident.

The coroner from Guelph came out shortly to the scene, and after a couple of hours there seeing the remains taken care of, and interviewing officials, Mr and Mrs Rowland drove on home, both badly broken up over the sad mishap. An inquest will be held shortly.

Barber and Miss Ethel Morrison, who gathered at this home to give them a parting send-off. Showers of blessing, as well as wishes fell, in the form of rain, as the night proved to be one of the dampest on record.

But it takes more than a shower of rain to keep a party of this nature at home and they came from Toronto, Durham, Ayrton and Southampton.

At an appropriate time in the evening, the bride-to-be was placed in an easy chair and Miss Ada Morrison placed in front of her a large decorated wicker basket, filled with many beautiful and useful gifts. Miss June Morrison opened the gifts, and Miss Laura Henderson read the humorous verses accompanying. To further ensure her of their good-will, she was "jolly good-fellowed" by the crowd.
