Your Behavior Is Standard Behavior

Perhaps you like to think that your behavior-meaning the way you behave in regard to the effairs of every day life-differs from that of the multitude. Well, perhaps it does, but the chances are that it is the same as that of a great majority of persons. Thus:

You wear clothing and hats which conform to the prevailing fashions . , . The meals which you serve in your home are almost identical with those served in other homes. . . What offends others is pretty sure to offend you. Your views on books, novels, preachers, entertainers and radio programs are likely to be the same as the views of a great majority of your friends ... your taste in holidays and places is likely to be identical with that of most of your friends and acquaintances . . the books which you want to get at your Public Library are pretty certain to be "out"-showing that your reading taste corresponds with that of the great majority of men and women.

Now do not be offended when it is said that your behavior is standard behavior. Who wants to be 'different'? Why run counter to the practices of most men and women?

What you want to believe is that you have individuality and personality Eut, for goodness sake don't be out of step with the great majority of men and women.

Individuality and personality are not behavior. They are permissible and everyone should aim to have individuality and personality. Fut in the realm of behavior, to be 'different' is to be eccentric, uncouth. abnormal-perhaps offensive.

Very interesting, is it not?

Now, do you what standardizes human behavior? It is the reading of advertisements. Advertisements in newspapers influence the ways of millions-make most of us act in the same way. Advertisements simplify human conduct or behavior-by standardizing it. A simplified life gives us greater opportunity for the expression of individuality and personality.

A SUGGESTION

Cut out this advertisement (for it is an advertisement) and make it a subject of discussion-in your home, in a friend's home, in a literary society. Let the question be: Is it good for the world to have human behavior standardized.
