

"Best secretary we ever had"

This was the verdict of the Elm County Association members before Phil Burton had been in office six months. His minutes were always clear and he knew how to read them. But best of all was the way he lined the crowd up for each meeting.

The usual notice, quite apt to be forgotten in the stress of other matters, was not enough for Phil. The night before each meeting he would call each member on the telephone and remind him. The result was bumper meetings that got down to business and produced results.

The telephone is indispensable. It is so much part and parcel of your daily life that you cannot do without it.

For 30 cents you can telephone about 100 miles by making an "any-one" call (station-to-station) after 8.30 p.m. See list of rates in front of directory.

DOES ADVERTISING RAISE PRICES ?

When you hear of a manufacturer who spends $100,000 or more each year on advertising, you may feel like saying—"Terrible! What waste! and it is we—the public—who have to pay for it all!"

But stop! Before you make judgments, look at the facts.

Manufacturers who advertise spend from 2 to 5 per cent of their sales on advertising. Let us put it at 3 per cent of the price which you pay for their article on sale. So if you pay 25c for an advertised article, you are paying three-fourths of one cent to pay for making it known to and wanted by you. The price would not be less—indeed, it might easily be more—if the article had no money spent on it to make it known to and wanted by you.

It is economy, so far as you are concerned, to have manufacturers develop a huge demand for their product, by the agency of press advertising. YOU pay for the advertising, of course, but you pay a smaller price for the advertised article than would be necessary if the manufacturer's output were smaller!

Advertised articles have to be better than non-advertised articles, and since they are made in larger quantities, they can be made and sold at least as cheaply as imitative non-advertised articles.

If you are a thrifty and wise buyer, you will buy the article made known to you by faithfully maintained press advertising. The stranger product should be shunned.

Be very friendly, therefore, to nationally-advertised products—foods, toilet aids, motor cars, radio sets, and all else—which are locally advertised—in this newspaper.

THE ROLL CALL

JOHN RENTON

A useful life passed away Sunday, April 16, at his home at Dromore, when John Renton joined the great majority, in his 80th year. His wife and daughter were with him at the last, though anticipating no fatal results, having refused help from the neighbors to 'sit up' that night. For some years back he has been afflicted with rheumatism, but always able to chore around. Some time ago he had a fall and since has not been the same.

The Renton name will always be associated with the activities of Dromore and locality. They have been among its earliest residents. The parents of deceased came north from the Paisley Block, near Guelph, and with their family of young boys, settled on the farm which their son James occupies to-day, west of Dromore. The family received their education, the best there was at the time, at S.S. No 12, Egremont. Their native ability was their best asset and this was put to many uses. John learned the blacksmithing trade and for many years conducted a good business at Dromore, and later building a shop on the corner of the farm he had purchased from John Garson. He was a genius with tools, especially the jackknife, from which he fashioned many wonderful things. He had to his credit the making of several violins and which to-day rival many of the professional build.

He was a keen student of affairs at home and abroad and the Daily Globe never had a more ardent reader. He was also a man of good judgment and his summing up of a question or argument, generally found him to be on the right side.

Outwardly he may have appeared gruff at times, but a warm and kindly heart beat within, as neighbors and friends testify. He was proud of his family and of their successes and triumphs he shared with them.

Fifty two years ago in December last he was married to Jane Armstrong, who survives him with a family of three children, viz: Ella, Mrs. S. H. Lind, Steveston, B. C.; Arthur, on the home farm and Eva, Mrs. Alex Milne, near by. There is also one brother, James, surviving, who was present at the funeral on Wednesday.

The services on Wednesday were conducted by Rev. R. Honeyman of Amos Church and interment took place in the family plot. Many old friends and neighbors were present to give their last meed of respect.

Instead of writing that weekly letter to distant friends, why not have the Review tell them the news of the district. Save yourself the trouble of worrying over what to say each week for $2.00 for a whole year.

THE GRAND RIVER NOW CARRIES MAPLE SYRUP FLAVOR (Dundalk Herald)

To have about seven gallons of newly-made maple syrup splash out of a can and float down a stream near Dundalk a few days ago, was the experience of a farmer near Dundalk. He had boiled all day in the rain, and his son was driving home with the syrup on the stoneboat. In crossing a small stream, the nose of the stoneboat stuck on the opposite bank, precipitating can and contents into the stream. The young man did his best to save the day's toil but just didn't. It's tough to see about $12 floating away from a fellow nowadays, still there's no use crying over spilt maple syrup. As one local wag remarked "The fish ought to be sweet in the Grand this year."

KNOX CORNERS

An Easter message on Sunday on "Mary at the tomb" and her disappointment at finding the empty tomb and her joy at meeting the Master after He had risen from the dead. (Arrived too late for last week)

There were more out to the service on Sunday than usual, though the roads are still in a bad state.

The subject for the message was: "measured by the shadow" from the story of Job's life and experiences. Job was sorely tested by many trials and afflictions, but he came out victorious, with a stronger faith in God. God speaks to us in our race for pleasure and wealth and by our trials and bereavements, and in all of these like Job, we would rather that He would leave us alone, but we should be thankful that God does not let us alone, for how often we learn in adversity what we never would in prosperity!
