Six Young Nurses Receive their Diplomas on Graduation Night

DURHAM TOWN HALL OVERCROWDED WITH FRIENDS AND WELL-WISHERS OF THE GRADUATING CLASS—STAGE WAS A BEAUTIFUL BACKGROUND OF FLOWERS.

Surrounded by floral bloom and facing a sea of eager and interested faces, six graduates of Durham Hospital received their coveted diplomas on Friday last from the President of the Red Cross Society, Mrs. Edward Kress. These diplomats represent four years' hard work and study and are something they will always regard as almost value to them. The Town Hall was filled, and more than filled on many previous memorable occasions, but never, we think, has just the same poignant interest been to the fore, as on this occasion. Each of the six nurses had their coteries of friends and relatives present and as well many of the previous graduates of the institution returned for the event. The night was a warm one, but nevertheless, the attendance was highly satisfactory.

These qualified nurses start out to battle against suffering and pain and perchance to take the mean out of matrimony. Seated and speaking on the platform were the great trio, medical ministers and nurses, which play important parts in the leading epochs of a man's life—the Cradle, the Altar and the Tomb. The nurses and doctors are the first he sees on coming into the world and often the last he looks upon in going out. The altar and is called upon to say a last few kind words as he is gathered to his fathers. Thus man, who comes into the world without his consent and ceases out against his wish, should return thanks that the above combine are not a mercenary crowd or he would have less left for the few hilarious moments in his history than he has now.

Hon. Dr. David Jamieson was chairman of ceremonies. He related the story of the inauguration of the hospital here, and in which he felt, his wife was given much of the credit. She was much the better of the two, anyway, the Doctor modestly suggested. The Hospital Board had contended with many difficulties, in the past few years, and were bravely surmounting them. In the early days the ideas of a hospital were practically the same as of a sentence of death and the wonder is that the patients survived in his day. Now public opinion has changed. The smaller hospital had better facilities for service than the large city institution and got nearer the hearts of the people.

Mayor Kress was called upon and in a neat speech congratulated the graduating class, on behalf of the Durham Council. He also hoped legislation would yet see the need to rescind the Act whereby the small bed-capacity hospital was no longer required as a nursing centre.

Rev. J. Bellingsley on appearing on the platform, congratulated the "bevy of beauties" in front of him on the attainment of their life's desire. He paid tribute to those responsible for the hospital and to those unfortunate (?) enough to be in the care of the staff.

Rev. B. D. Armstrong was chosen to address the graduating class. Twice he had been an inmate during their training period and could personally testify as to their qualifications. Nurses are under great mental strain and those of the Great War underwent trials that will really never be divulged. Theirs is the work of lending the natives of heathen lands may learn Christianity yet through the gentle ministry of the nurse.

Miss C. Fettes, matron, at this juncture, had the class arise and in unison repeat the Florence Nightingale pledge, which is practically an oath to stand true to the principles of the nursing profession. Mrs. E. Kress then presented the diplomas and Mrs. P. Gagnon the Hospital pins.

Mr. J. A. Graham, Secy-Treas. of the Hospital Board, felt there was more sadness than gladness over the thought of this being the last graduating class from Durham Hospital. Nobody will ever know what the institution has cost in time and sacrifice.

His first holidays after the buying of the building for hospital purposes, were spent in tearing off wallpaper. The matron performed many tasks that she should not have been allowed (Continued on page 8)

THE ROLL CALL

MRS. NICHOLAS MELOSH

A death that has brought much sorrow to the community of Rocky Mountain and west, was that of Mrs. Nicholas Melosh, who died in London on Saturday. Born, brought up and married in the same community, Mrs. Melosh was well-known and as highly regarded for her sterling qualities as wife, mother and friend. Deceased had been unwell for some months back and in May last was removed to Durham hospital, where she received medical treatment for several weeks. In June she returned to her home and while not entirely better, felt somewhat improved and able to go round the home. However things were not well with her and two weeks ago it was decided to have her removed to London hospital, where she would receive the benefit of X-ray treatments. She was there scarcely two weeks when she passed away.

Mrs. Melosh was the eldest daughter of the late William Kenny, of cont. 2, Glenelg. She was married about 20 years ago to her bereaved husband, who survives with a family of three daughters and four sons, viz: Mary, Mrs. Colin McArthur of Pricewille, and Rita and Ivy at home; Edward, Thomas, Francis and Wilfred at home.

The remains were conveyed to her residence, Sunday, and the funeral held Tuesday to St. Paul's church, Dornoch, at 9 a. m.

Mourning her as well, are her mother, Mrs. Kenny, brothers, Will and Joe, two sisters, Mrs. John Casey, west of Dornoch and Mrs. Mike Casey, also near Dornoch.

Guests of Miss Mable Moore, one of the recent graduate nurses, at graduation exercises on Friday evening last were: her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hector Moore, Southampton; Mr. and Mrs. J. Wallace, Shelburne; Mr. and Mrs. Spanghouse, Creemore; Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Stewart, Maple Valley; Mrs. D. Macphail, Mr. and Mrs. A. Sinclair and daughter, Margaret, of Ceylon. Guests of Miss Betty Donaldson for the same event were: Mrs. John Donaldson and daughter, Lorna, Bruce and Marshall Donaldson, Calder; John Donaldson, Jr., Belleville; Mr. Arthur Sealey, Belleville; Miss B. Douglas, Toronto.

Guests of Miss Marjorie McLeod were her parents: Mr. and Mrs. Neil McLeod, Proton; Mr. and Mrs. W. J. McLeod, Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Gordon McLeod, Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Harrison, Proton.

Durham Fall Fair held in Fair Weather Wednesday

Exhibits of a High Quality — New Secretary, Wm. R. Wallace on the Job

Durham Fair, the past few years back has not enjoyed prosperity in the way of good weather and this surely was in his best September mood and the Autumn tang was a great factor in the success of the 1933 Fair. True, the exhibits were not as heavy or numerous in some classes, as in former years, but this may be largely accounted for by the decision of the directors, whereby they have curtailed the territory of the exhibitor. Durham Fair is now eligible to receive entrants from South Grey only. President John McElrath feels however, it's a rather strict code to follow as regards showing of good live stock. He has had several entrants from points outside of South Grey wishing to enter their high grade farm stock. This, he feels, is the object of an agricultural fair, and should be encouraged rather than discouraged.

Durham Fair has again passed into history and 1933 exhibition on Wednesday was recorded as another successful event. On both days the weather was fine, though a trifle cool. (Continued on page 8.)

Paving to be Continued North of Dornoch

The contract for paving between 3 and 4 miles of No. 6 Prov. Highway has been given to the Standard Paving Co., we learn on good authority, to be completed this fall, if the weather remains open sufficiently in October. This is in addition to the five miles already under contract, and nearing completion from Dornoch south.

This will leave only 6 or 7 miles from Chatsworth south, to be paved next year, and No. 5 will then be an all-paved Highway from Owen Sound to Lake Erie.

PERSONAL MENTION

Miss Annie Burns who has been a visitor in town, was also in Markdale to see her brother, Walter, at the House of Industry. Upon reaching there, to her surprise, she found him removed to Owen Sound General and Marine Hospital, where he successfully underwent an operation for hernia. He will be a patient in the hospital for a couple of weeks at least.

Miss Louise Jamieson left Wednesday to attend school at Branksome Hall in Toronto. Her sister, Miss Isabel, who has been attending Bishop Strachan School, Toronto, the past two years, will complete her high school studies in Durham School this year.

An old Durhamite blew into Durham on Thursday last in the person of John Barclay, with his wife, now of Niagara, N. Y. John is a former school-pupil of the editor and announced his presence in our business office by saying "Come down here chalk thrower." It seems he carries a vivid recollection of our throwing a stick of chalk at a girl pupil from the front of the room open at this psychological moment, the chalk landed clear in her mouth. We do not recollect being such a sharp-shooter, but evidently records say so. John is now a taxi-driver in Niagara and was accompanied here by his wife, who is a stranger to this part. They were making a motoring trip to "Holywood" as Mrs. Barclay termed Colingwood.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Arrowsmith, Michigan, were guests of his mother, Mrs. Helen Arrowsmith, in town last week.

Mr. Sandy Moody and son, of Dakota, were guests of Durham citizens over the week end. Sandy was a school-boy of Durham some 50 years ago and married an old Durham girl, Miss Annie Johnston, daughter of the late Wm. Johnston. His removal to Western States many years ago now was a fortunate day for him in business and political circles. He eventually became a Senator in his state for Uncle Sam's government and served his term with distinction.

Mr. Ralph Henry and Miss Jean Garbutt, of Drayton, called on W. E. Loucks, the first of the week.

Mr. John Meyers, of Weston, spent a few days visiting his sister, Mrs. Wm. Derby of Benlinc.

Mr. Donald Graham of Sault Ste Marie, is a visitor at home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Graham. Donald motored to Chicago with friends and visited the Century of Progress Exposition en route.

Mrs. Jno. Moody of town, underwent a serious operation in Durham Hospital since last issue. She is making satisfactory progress.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Dane and niece, Miss Jean Henry, have returned to their Florida home, after the summer spent among their relatives in Durham and district.

The 160th (Bruce) Battalion, C. E. F., are planning a reunion of their number in Walkerton next summer.

Editor MacDonald of Chesley attended a reunion of his clan at Chesley last week at Stanley Park, Caleton, when over 200 of the "Mac" fraternity heard all about their forebears.

The MacDonald name is associated with much that is historical in history and how one of Sir John A.'s calibre went astray in the political faith is beyond our ken.

Deprievd of Ten Geese.
While Miss T. E. Byers of North East Normanby, was in attendance at a meeting at R. R. Watson's on Tuesday night some sneak thief entered her poultry house and departed with ten of her fine fat geese. The invader must be a local person that knows well the lay of the farm buildings of Miss Byers, or they could never have got away with them so nicely. Ten geese are a considerable loss to any poultry stock this time of year.

Appointed Deputy Game Warden.
Mr. Jas. Gilby, of Woodland, has been appointed a provincial Deputy Game Warden by the Game and Fisheries Department.

HYMENEAL

BURNETT—KEARNEY
A wedding of interest took place on Saturday, Sept. 9, at 10 a. m. at the home of the bride's mother when Annie Elsie Kearney, youngest daughter of Mrs. A. Beggs and the late G. E. Kearney, was united in marriage to Mr. Robert Burnett of Durham.

The bride who was given away by her brother, Mr. Guy Kearney, looked beautiful in her gown of grey silk crepe trimmed with lace with hat and shoes to match and carried a bouquet of roses. Mrs. Alex Kearney of Whitby played the wedding music and the Rev. W. H. Smith of Knox Church performed the ceremony.

After congratulations a buffet luncheon was served. The Rev. Mr. Smith proposing a toast to the bride and groom and short congratulatory addresses were given by Mr. Alex Kearney, Mr. Guy Kearney and Dr. Royden Burnett. Mr. Burnett replied on behalf of himself and bride. The bride's travelling gown was of grey and they left for a short trip through Muskoka. On their return they will reside on Lambton street.

Friends from a distance were: Mr. and Mrs. Alex Kearney, R. N., from Western Hospital, Toronto, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Graham, of Toronto, and Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Ballachay and daughter, Mary, of Paisley.

WILSON — MCKENZIE
Congratulations are extended to Mr. Harold Wilson, second son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Wilson of Durham, and Miss Elizabeth E. McKenzie, who were wedded at the United Church mane, Walkerton, on July 16th, by Rev. Mr. Schofield. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce McKenzie formerly of Holstein and is a recent graduate of Durham Red Cross Hospital. They have commenced housekeeping in the Nichol cottage on Garafaxa st. south.

Mr. Albert Middleton had an operation performed on his hand on Monday, in Durham hospital. Commencing from a simple blister, the hand became so infected to become extremely painful and an operation upon the member was the only relief.

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Henderson, Mr. Alex Hay and Mrs. Jessie McIntyre formed a rink attending the masquerade bowling tournament in Walkerton on Tuesday evening. The party represented wooden soldiers and won first prize for their costumes. They were also one point off the prize in the play.
