

...SMILES...

Why Dad's Nose Is Red
Two foreign-looking girls, evidently domestics, were discussing their employers. "The missus is fine," said one, "but her husband is very cross."
"He is?"
"Yeah. But I get even with him. Every time he scolds me, I put starch in his handkerchiefs."

And Mamma Was So Pleased
"You must be pretty strong," said Willie, aged six, to the pretty young widow who had come to call on his mother.
"Strong? What makes you think so?"
"Daddy said you can wrap any man in town around your little finger."

Massacre of the Innocents
A little girl, on seeing sawdust sprinkled on the floor of a meat store, remarked to her mother:
"Mummy, the man must have broken a lot of dolls!"

Boys are waiting until after Hal-lowe'en before starting to wear the hats which they will have—more or less—until after Christmas.

Man—"Quick, Doc, my wife has fainted!"
Doctor—"What's the trouble?"
Man—"She showed me her new hat and the bill at the same time, and I didn't say a word."

It may be possible to write a sensible love letter, but it would not be satisfying to the recipient.

I'd rather be a has-been
Than a might-have-been, by far.
For a might-have-been has never been;
But the has-been was an A. E.

Friendship that is merely an intermittent fever of fervor is not real friendship. Nor wild, nor tide, nor prosperity, nor adversity, nor joy, nor sorrow, nor any material consideration sways or alters genuine friendship, than which there is nothing nobler on earth.

Woman—"Before we were married you told me I would never want for anything."
Her Husband—"That shows how little I knew of you then."

Removing the teeth will cure some things, including the foolish belief that it will cure everything.

Woman—"Nora, did you sweep behind that door?"
The Maid—"Yes, mum. I sweep everything behind that door."

Obnoxious Annie opines: "A boy recovering from a heartache is like the intoxicated person nursing a headache—he swears never again till the next time."

Judge—"You say that your husband doesn't buy you any clothes?"
Woman—"No, Judge. If my tongue were coated it would have to be at my own expense."

Joybell—"I've no use for that fellow Robert Cummings."
Dorothy—"Oh—uh—what's the matter with him?"
Joybell—"He's the sort of chap that puts you on the back before your face and hits you in the eye behind your back."

Ever Try Cobble's Wax.
Actor—"Yes, my friends, usually my audiences are glued to their seats."
Friend—"What a quaint way of keeping them there!"

Girl—"I can never be yours. I will return your presents."
Her Sweetie—"All right, but who's going to return those cigars I bought your father and the dimes I gave your little brother?"

Most men confide their business troubles to their wives, especially when the latter want to buy something.

Tramp—"Miste, give me a quarter for a meal. I'm hungrier than a bear."
Rich Dyspeptic—"I'll give you $5.00 for your appetite, my man."

Jasper—"Tommy Heitman gets along with his wife very well."
Casper—"Why shouldn't he? His dad owns a millinery store."

Quite often the mother-in-law is blamed when what is wrong is a poor son-in-law.

Draws the Line When Robber Demands Kiss
Chicago.—It was all right when a robber took Miss Gladys Raymond's purse at the point of a pistol.
And she never objected when he removed a $250 diamond ring from her finger.
But when the same armed gunman asked for a kiss, she slapped him down.

COULD NOT DRESS HERSELF

"For neuritis I am using Kruschen Salts," writes a woman of 60 years. "And they are a real benefit, for I could not dress myself sometimes, my left arm was so painful. I take Kruschen every morning, and the pain has now gone. I was recommended by my doctor to take salts of some kind that suited me, and I find Kruschen is the best. In fact it is wonderful. I feel ever so much better, and I shall always take it. I am 60 years of age, and have not felt so well for years."—K. P.
"The pains of neuritis and sciatica are a symptom of deeper trouble—the same trouble that causes rheumatism, gout and lumbago. They are a sign of an impure blood-stream. They show that poisons have crept into the blood. Kruschen is a combination of six natural salts, which ensure internal cleanliness and keep the blood-stream pure. New and refreshed blood is sent coursing to every fibre of your being. Then, neuritis, sciatica and kindred ills all pass you by."

Voters' Lists
Although the cost will be slightly more, voters' lists in London and St. Thomas this year will be printed instead of mimeographed. Both municipalities had purchased machines for that purpose.

Unmourned
Unclaimed and unmourned, the body of an unidentified lad of about 15 years of age was buried at Chatham last week. All efforts at identification failed. The youngster was drowned in the Thames on Tuesday after falling from an old punt.

Another Vanished Custom
It is denied that people are keeping any large amount of money hidden away in socks. That method belonged to a bygone age. People used to hoard money in socks, but that was when they had two pairs of socks.—Sudbury Star.

Worms Evicted
Earthworms can be evicted by an application of electric current. They're doing that on the bowling green at the Ontario Hospital, Woodstock, in preparation for the Cnp doubles, when some of the competing rinks will use the Hospital lawns.
A couple of steel rods are run into the ground a couple of feet, and about a yard apart, then current is shot through them from a 100-watt socket.
In two or three minutes the worms begin to appear at the surface, and it is only necessary to gather them up. If they are present in great number their operations do a lot of damage to a bowling green.
The stunt sounds as if it might be of interest to anglers.

Stricken in Plane
Returning by aeroplane from Bayfield, Earl Collins, of London, flew the last fifty miles almost doubled with the agony of an acute appendicitis attack. He had to be lifted from the cockpit on his arrival at London.

Work For Boot Makers
An order for 15,000 pairs of army boots from the Department of National Defence, Ottawa, has been placed with E. A. Wry, Standard Ltd., Amherst. This Amherst factory has been making

Trade Facts
According to the bulletin of the Department of Trade and Commerce, the trade of Canada suffered less during the past year than did 31 other countries.

102 Years Old
Mrs. Katharine Devereaux recently celebrated her 102nd birthday at St. Catharines. She came here in 1863 from the United States after the slaves had been liberated. "Don't marry too young," she advised if longevity is desired.

Freak Calf
A freak calf possessing eight legs, one head and two fully matured bodies was born on the farm of Thomas Bodley near Bridgen. There is also an odd ear protruding from the otherwise normal head. It was born dead.

Monument Unveiled
A monument to the memory of St. Mon Girty, famed frontiersman and leader of Indian troops during the war of independence, was unveiled at Amherstburg recently by descendants of Girty.

Eleven Dogs Die
Stratford dog lovers are up in arms over the depredations of some fiend who in two days poisoned eleven animals. All but one of these were children's pets and police are keeping a close watch.

The Power of Mental Suggestion

"Dick, do eat your lunch."
"I'm not hungry."
"When your mother comes home she will find you all skin and bones, then she will think I've starved you."
Dick regarded his aunt for an instant. She did not know it, but instantly his young head had done some quick calculating. Something like this: "It could be very interesting if mother came home and found me pale and thin and sick looking. What a lot of attention and fussing I'd get then."
He folded his napkin and left the table without changing expression as children do—Sphinx faces they sometimes have—and his poor aunt never guessed that she had definitely started something that was to last through her stay.
Even Dick didn't know in so many words himself what he had decided to do. The power of suggestion works in riddles. But his mind had a plan drawn that would keep him occupied day and night from now on.
"Dick! Dick! Where are you? Get Harold and do an errand for me, will you? Oh, there you are. It's only down to the store. What's the matter? Swing sick?"
"I guess not. I'll go. I don't just feel very well, that's all." Dick got up off the swing like an old, old man and reached listlessly for the money.
"Heavens, Dick, if you take sick now your mother will never forgive me."

Child's Mind Works
Dick looked dismally at the petunias, although this was all cheering news. He likes his Aunt Frances well enough but he wasn't crazy about this idea of his mother and father going off on a vacation and leaving him at home with her.
"Aunt Fran, maybe a little ice-cream would cool me off and make me feel better."
"Yes, do get some. Here's some more money. You didn't eat your lunch and I can't have you starving."
Dick walked slowly over toward Harold's, but when he got out of sight he ran.
Now what followed may seem to be far beyond the ken of a child of nine, but that is just because we don't guess how children's minds often work.
Moreover, please remember that Dick did not deliberately do this—but his mind was determinedly seeking the means to an end. It had the impetus of suggestion from Aunt Fran and it was carrying on as hard as it could go.
Dick knew that iced drinks, gulped down, pickles and chocolate ice cream had once made him sick. And now he got all three and ate them.
He was sick. Doctor Wylie was called. Mother got a letter that Dick "hadn't been well" but was all right now.
She shortened her visit by three days and came home. Dick was perfectly all right but he didn't smile when she came in. He adopted the role of dying cat-fish and lay all over the place.
"My darling!" His mother held his head to her breast. "I'll never, never go away again. Fran, what did you do?"
Poor Fran had done nothing but suggest an interesting experiment by six simple words.
There is a sermon in this story. The power of mental suggestion is terrific. It never does to dramatize a child's condition or state of mind to him. It leads to things.

Told in Brief

Salt-water gnats, the smallest known flying insects, caused the descent of a giant American bombing plane by choking the screen filters of the carburetors.
Agriculture is still declining in Gt. Britain; 75,000 farm workers have left the land since 1923, and 45,000 fewer acres were actually under crops in 1932, as compared with 1931.
Beauty parlours for children are appearing in the West End of London (England). Here girls of nine can have their eyebrows plucked, their nails tinted, and their hair permanently waved.
Six of the British films already made this year have cost at least £50,000 each to make, the most expensive being "Bitter Sweet" and "The Private Life of Henry VIII," which cost £75,000 apiece.
British film producers are so handicapped by lack of suitable women stars that American principals, who are unemployed through the shortage of leading male actors, are here in search of work.
Three German villages have asked permission to become one town with the name of "Hitlerberg," in honour of the endeavours of the present Government to help the suffering industrial area.
Rabbits can be dangerous. In Lille, France, one of these animals, which suddenly turned rabid, killed ten fowls and three ducks, in addition to biting a man, his wife, and three children, a dog, and two cats.
Sport is to take second place to home duties among German girls, by order of the "Nazi" Sport Director, who says that women must only be allowed to take part in sport so long as their health is not endangered.
Plastic materials are revolutionizing industry. The first cost of the mould is the greatest expense; afterwards the cost of manufacture is small, it being almost as cheap to turn out a hundred thousand articles as one, after the mould is made.
Crime statistics are misleading in one respect. They do not differentiate between large and small offences. Out of 59,367 persons found guilty of indictable offences in 1931, the great majority had committed comparatively trivial offences.
Boiling water, red in color, has been found in a mysterious lake situated in a steep-sided basin in the Andes, South America. Animal and plant life does not exist near this basin, which is supposed to be the crater of a semi-extinct volcano, the gases of which agitate the water.
The uniform worn by British hospital nurses, consisting of black shoes and stockings, cotton dress, white starched apron, collars, cuffs, and belt is the same for summer and winter, and weighs about ten pounds, which is much heavier than the usual hot-weather garb worn by women.

Richest Farm Manure

Poultry manure is undoubtedly the richest produced on the farm. Poultry manure, however, ferments very quickly, losing, if left exposed, a large proportion of its nitrogen as ammonia. This fact, the Dominion Chemist points out, emphasizes the desirability of cleaning off the boards beneath the roosts, a plan that also conduces to the general good health and thrift of the fowl. In summer, the manure, previously mixed with loam to destroy stickiness and facilitate distribution, may be applied directly to the land and worked with the surface soil—its best preservative. In winter (and at other seasons when the manure cannot be used directly) it should be mixed with a fair proportion of loam, dried peat, muck sawdust, together with a little land plaster or superphosphate to fix the nitrogen. It should then be packed tightly in barrels or boxes and stored protected from rain until required in the spring. Lime and wood ashes should not be used for this purpose as they set free nitrogen. Poultry manure being essentially nitrogenous is particularly valuable for garden and leafy crops generally, and the majority of poultry keepers will no doubt do well to reserve it for this use. However, if the amount available permits, it can be profitably employed for the cereals, grasses, roots and corn.

English Radio Exhibition Reports Good Business

London.—During the first four days of the radio exhibition held here at Olympia, orders totalling nearly £12,000,000 were signed—£3,600,000 worth by overseas buyers.
This is a 50 per cent. increase over last year. At the present rate this year's exhibition will break all records for the British radio industry.

Sales of Motor Vehicles Show Increase in July

New passenger cars sold totalled 4,659, valued at $4,492,645 in July last, as against 3,473, valued at $3,261,756, in July, 1932, and the trucks and buses 552,586, as against 447,455 in the same month of last year.

Wheat Exports Much Increased

August Clearances 6,000,000 Bushels Over Same Month in 1932

Fort William.—Marked improvement in the movement of Canada's wheat to the market places of the world during August is shown in the report of the Board of Grain Commissioners, just issued.
Low freight rates on the Great Lakes, the report says, militated strongly against shipments from Churchill, in Northern Manitoba, but lake shipments increased. Production of North America wheat was estimated at 400,000,000 bushels less than last year.
Export clearances of wheat for the month of August totalled 48,604,583 bushels compared with 42,138,607 bushels during the same period last year. Considerable rye was moved for shipment to the United States and further business is anticipated, the report continues.

Pathetic Story of Child Lost in Woods

The Ottawa Citizen says editorially: The pathetic story of the little four-year-old lost in the woods around the Quebec village of St. Magloire is a tragic reminder of the dangers that still lurk in dark woods. And now, after two weeks, the search has been abandoned.
The days of childhood are surrounded, as a part of the loving care bestowed by devoted parents, with the stories that are told for their child's delight—tales of the "Babes in the Wood" and the other fairy tales where all ends happily despite the forest terrors, the witches and the giants. Here even the bears and the wolves are kind, and Mowgli and Remus remain to tell their legendary tale.
If not at bedtime in St. Magloire, the sad story of little Ghislaine Bail largeon will now be told, but in warning, to little minds that will perhaps profit by the tragedy of their little playmate. And in the country where legend and story have grown and been passed down ever since the first settler came over from the old to the new France, perhaps in time another strange tale will be added to the store. And in the belief of the villagers of St. Magloire that the little Ghislaine has been carried off by a wolf or a bear that abounds in the countryside, would that they could be kind. Perhaps legend will make it so.

New Zealand Has First Woman M.P.

Wellington, N.Z.—The first woman member to be returned to the New Zealand Parliament was elected recently in Lyttelton. She is Mrs. Elizabeth R. McCombs. She succeeded to the seat made vacant by the death of her husband.
Mrs. McCombs ran as a Labor candidate and received 6,680 votes. F. W. Freeman, Coalition nominee, obtained 3,480 votes and A. Hills, Independent Labor, 263.

Offers Solution For Surplus Weed Stock

Rock Hill, S.C.—At last a solution for your surplus weed crop—cross the weeds with tomatoes.
Wily Bigger, of the Government experimental station at Sand Hill near Columbia, exhibited evidence of the grafting here.
He showed a jumpson weed with several healthy tomatoes growing on the same stem with a thorny jumpson burr.
The two plants were grafted early this summer.
Although Gt. Britain has now fewer ships, employing infinitely fewer men, engaged in the fishing industry than before the War, they produce more fish.

Chicago.—The women are given credit for rescuing the bicycle business.
