

THE MORTGAGE AND THE MAN

This is the tale of a mortgage and a dead man and his son. A father who left to his only child a duty that must be done. And the neighbors said as they gathered round in the neighbor's curious way: "Too bad, too bad, that he left his boy so heavy a debt to pay. Day by day through the years that came, the mortgage held him fast. Straight and true to his task he went and he paid the debt at last: And his arm grew strong and his eye kept bright, and although he never knew, The thing that fashioned a man of him was the task he had to do. Honour and fortune crowned his brow till the day he came to die. But he said: "My boy shall never work against such odds as I. I have planned his years, I have made them safe, I have paid his journey through." And the boy looked out on a world wherein there was nothing for him to do.

His hands grew soft and his eyes went dull, and his cheeks turned ashy pale, For his strength which isn't employed by day, with idleness grows stale. "He is not the man that his father was" the neighbors often said. "And better for him had he been left to work for his meat and bread." Oh, the race dies out and the clan departs, and feeble grows the son When they come at last to the dreadful day when all of the work is done. For manhood dies on the roads of ease, where the skies are ever blue And each of needs, if we shall grow strong, some difficult thing to do.

KNOX CORNERS

A good message on Sunday from the Bible story of the man who sold all to purchase the greater treasures. Our pastor related the story of a man saying to his friend that he would give everything to have an experience like his who replied saying that was just what it had cost him. Many would like to have the joy and peace of a consecrated Christian, but are not willing to pay the price. We may be members of churches and S. S. teachers, and have done many wonderful works yet without the surrender of our hearts in full allegiance to Jesus, we will still be lacking.

Mr and Mrs A. C. Marshall and children, visited Sunday with Mr and Mrs Frank Hopkins of Egremont.

A pretty wedding took place at home of Mr and Mrs Robt. Christie, at high noon, Saturday, June 16th, when their elder daughter Matilda, R. N., of Toronto, was married to Mr Earl Chalmers, also of Toronto. The bride was dressed in open blue georgette crepe and carried Talsman roses and baby's breath. They were unattended. Rev. Mr Melroy officiated. Miss Margaret Christie played the wedding march and the bride came in on her father's arm. After a sumptuous wedding breakfast, they left for a motor trip to Kingston and other points east.

There were about thirty guests present, mostly relatives. Those from a distance were the groom's mother, Mrs. Chalmers, who was dressed in blue flowered chiffon and carried Richmond roses; the Misses Chalmers, the groom's aunt Mrs Marshall Mr and Mrs Moses, all from Toronto, and Mr and Mrs Henderson, of Durham. Mrs. Christie, the bride's mother, was dressed in navy blue georgette and carried butterfly roses and lilies of the valley.

NOTICE

There will be a dance in the Agricultural Hall, Holstein, on Tuesday June 25. Music furnished by the Clifford Orchestra. Under the auspices of the Boosters' Club.

"JUNE"

In at my window the sunbeams creep I should get up, for I'm not asleep; A bluebird sings in the hedge without, A scent of roses is all about, Sunshine and fragrance and carolled tune And all the beauty and grace of June.

In at my window the breezes blow: They're calling me lazy, well I know; A squirrel chatters a bold reproach: Though I left the nuts he found on the roof; I've always wanted to lie till noon Some lazy, wonderful day in June.

In at the window there comes to me The drone of bees in the locust tree; I watch a butterfly 'till I doubt If butterflies know what they're about: Twin to the moths that follow the moon And both beloved of the lovely June.

In at the window the sunbeams glide, Who'd miss a world like the world outside? A thousand blossoms of every shade, A thousand voices in glen and glade, Up and away, for they pass so soon, The miracle-working days of June!

SASKATCHEWAN'S SWING

Returns from Saskatchewan show the Western province playing their part in turning the Cons. government from office. The C.C.F. or Farmer-Labor party as it is called in Sask, made a determined bid for support, as it did in British Columbia, adding to the complexities of the campaign. The Anderson Gov't, though in main Conservative, depended on its existence on the support of nine so-called Independents and Progressives. The standing of the old parties in the last Legislature were Liberals 26 Conservatives 24. The Liberal leader and former premier, Jas G. Gardner, forced the fighting all over the province. As in Ontario, there was manifest dissatisfaction with policies of drift, in respect of public outlays at a time that called for, caution and economy.
