

Have You Heard?

It is doing the little "extras," the things we're not asked to do. The favors that help one's brother to trust in God and you; It is doing, I say, the "extras," the things not looked for, you know that will bring us our King's kind notice—a "well done," as our we go.

THE COLORS OF A MAN He's blue when loyal. He's purple when angry. He's yellow when cowardly. He's red when embarrassed. He's white when he's straight. He's green when he's ignorant. He's colorless when he's uninteresting.

Hubby—Well, dear, how are you getting on with your golf lessons? Wifey—Pretty well, but when the professional told me to address the ball I just couldn't think of a word to say.

The way to judge your ideas and methods is to look around and see how far they have brought you.

Youth—Darling, do you think you could manage to live on $29 a week? Sweet Young Thing—Yes, a week—but not much longer.

Responsibility is put on the shoulders of one who can bear it.

Man—Lend me $5, old man. I promise you, on the word of a gentleman, to pay you back tomorrow. Friend—Bring the gentleman around and let me see him.

In trying to improve, one may become discouraged by attempting to do too much at one time.

Druggist (to farmer's wife)—Do you have a hog caller on your farm? Farmer's Wife—Yes, the dinner bell.

Sometimes we would like to hear the officiating clergyman vary the form by announcing: "I now pronounce you man and wife—and may the best man win."

Mrs. Smathers—When you have a quarrel with your husband do you threaten to go home to your mother? Mrs. Kramer—No, indeed, I threaten to have Mother come here.

Aunt Mary Fielderthrus of Pea Ridge says that many a girl is single because she couldn't stay awake while a man talks about himself.

Young man—She certainly is polished, doncha think so? Girl Friend—Yeah, Everything she says casts a reflection on someone.

When a girl gets a proposal of marriage nowadays, she wants to know if her young man can support her parents in the manner in which they are accustomed.

Little Norman (as he saw his mother sterilizing the dishes that came from the sick room)—What are you doing that for, mother dear? Mother—Because, darling, your daddy has flu and the germs get on the dishes, I boil the dishes and that kills the germs.

Little Norman (silent for a few minutes)—Mother, why don't you kill daddy?

If anybody is getting out an edition of Who is Who in Germany, at this time, it should be issued in loose-leaf form.

Grimm—I like cheerfulness. I admire anyone who sings at his work. Barrett—How you must love a mosquito.

"The human race need work but an hour a day to supply all its needs."—Clarence Darrow.

"As a nation we are amazingly skillful at circumventing the spirit of our own rules while obeying the letter of them."—James P. Warburg.

Kindness and Cruelty

Kindness and cruelty appear to be relative terms, and wholly dependent on habit. One hears no complaint on the part of Chinese wives, because their husbands never kiss them. Doubtless they would complain if their husbands did. Sir Richard Burton, the famous English linguist and traveller, relates that he once met a dusky maiden, in one of his expeditions, who bewailed with bitter sobs the loss of her husband's love. He wished to know why she thought it was lost. Well, it had been a long time since her husband had given her a beating.

BROKE HER LEG AGAINST A STAIR

Whist Hampered by Rheumatism

"Two years ago," writes a woman, "I was suffering with rheumatism in my legs, and when walking upstairs one day just kicked my right foot against the stairs, and broke my leg just below the knee. I was in hospital for four months, and when I came out someone advised me to try Kruschen Salts. I did so, and now I have no trace of rheumatism. I would not be without my daily dose of Kruschen, which I take every morning—half a teaspoonful in warm water."—Mrs. P. B.

Car Loadings Off Sharply

For End of Year—Decrease Of 11,780 Noted In Ottawa Figures

Ottawa—Car loadings on Canadian railroads for the week ended December 29 amounted to 29,334 cars, as against 29,360 cars for the last week of 1933 and 41,114 cars for the previous week, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reports. This decrease of 11,780 cars was considerably greater than the normal and the index number dropped from 71.29 to 63.98. It is possible that the Christmas holiday falling on Tuesday had a greater reducing effect than in 1933 when the holiday was on Monday.

A Law Every Mother Should Know and Observe

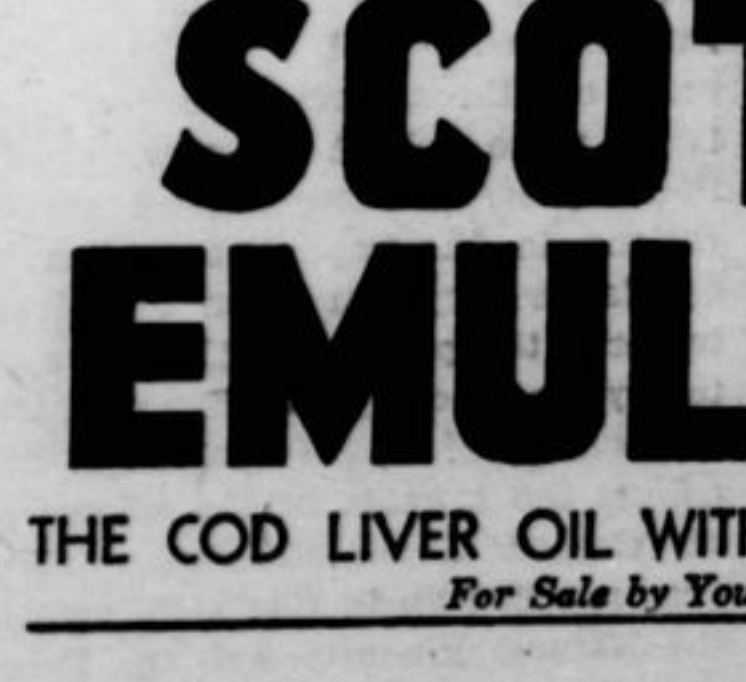

Never Give Your Child An Unknown Remedy without Asking Your Doctor First

According to any doctor you ask, the only safe way is never to give your child a remedy you don't know all about, without asking him first. When it comes to "milk of magnesia," that you know everywhere, for over 60 years, doctors have said "PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia for your child."

Guard against Rickets with Cod Liver Oil

PLUS ADDED DIGESTIBILITY. All babies need the anti-rachitic value of Vitamins A and D, found in pure cod liver oil. Scott's Emulsion is rich in these vitamins, PLUS the easy digestibility that results from Emulsification. PLUS the body-building aid of hypophosphites of lime and soda. Pleasant to take, Scott's Emulsion is tremendously more effective.

Sees Great Wealth In Arctic Circle

Canadian Club Speaker Paints Vivid Picture Of Far North

Toronto.—Smashing the popular illusion that the North Pole is nothing but a barren waste of ice and snow and prophesying that Canada's dream of a rich and powerful Empire in the far north is going to come true, Richard Finnie, F.R.G.S., spoke at a recent meeting of the Canadian Club.

Paralysis Its Control Or Prevention Is Still Believed Far Away

No means of controlling or preventing infantile paralysis or poliomyelitis has yet been found, Dr. W. Lloyd Aycock of Harvard reports. He thinks little of protective vaccination. Even with an effective vaccine there is no satisfactory method of determining which children should be vaccinated.

General Manager's Address

In his remarks, Mr. S. G. Dobson, newly appointed General Manager, referred to the very satisfactory nature of the Annual Report and Balance Sheet presented. He said in part: "After several years of declining figures, due to general conditions, I am glad to say the trend has not only been arrested, but under most headings has been reversed, in some instances to a substantial degree."

One Exception

Spells "Olibanum" And Wins Contest

(New York Times.)

High school teachers, economists, business executives and an editor were spelled down in Town Hall by Sam Pope Brewer, a reporter on the New York Herald Tribune, in a spelling bee between college and non-college teams.

John H. Cowie of the Town Hall Club, which has been staging the contests annually for three years, gave words from Phyre's "5,000 Words Often Misspelled," and after a special list culled from Webster's unabridged dictionary.

There were about twenty contestants on each side, about the same number of men as women. "Apparel" tripped a woman on the non-college side as the first victim. Then Miss Mabel Goodrich, an editor at Macmillan's, went down on "beleaguer."

"I'd have sworn there were two 'ts' just as in 'vellum,'" she said as she came out of line. "Chevron" eliminated another woman. She spelled it "cheveron."

Then Ted Brannigan, an engineer for the Public Service Company of New Jersey, blushed and said "pass" when he got "dioecese." He was out.

In the audience women trying to be helpful were making signs with their mouths in attempts to save floundering contestants, but they gave the wrong letters as often as they gave the right ones.

Mrs. Doris Webster, who wrote "I've Got Your Number," a book on self-analysis, and whose husband is a grandnephew of Mark Twain, went out on "aberration"; she spelled it with two "b's". A. E. Goodhue, vice president of the Chicago Pneumatic Tool Company, put an "e" in luxuriant and went to the sidelines.

The New York Times reporter spelled "dominoes" without an "e" and was counted out. Mrs. Maud Nathan, a cousin of Justice Benjamin N. Cardozo of the United States Supreme Courts, who had stayed through a long list of the more difficult words, stumbled on "bivouac" but she recovered in time to pull through. She went down eventually though, on "xylophone."

Joseph Alsop, who was reporting the match for the Herald Tribune, slipped on "dyeing"; he left out the "e." "Frolicking" eliminated Victor Whitlock, a lawyer—he left out the "k"—and "myrmidon" eliminated another contestant on the college side.

By this time only college entries were in the bee—Mr. Brewer, representing Yale; Miss Lou Helmuth of the University of California, who teaches in a New York high school; Miss C. R. Trowbridge, a graduate of Smith College, who teaches at George Washington High School and wrote, "Constructive Spelling," a school textbook; Miss Martha Allen, a graduate of Syracuse University who teaches English at Julia Richman High School, and O. P. Pearson, an economist employed by the Automobile Manufacturers Association.

They took some staggering words without a quiver, but after a while Miss Trowbridge went out for omitting the second "i" in vinaigrette." Mr. Pearson misspelled "vivisepul-
