

Tuning Tuning on the Heart

HOLSTEIN LEADER

A Trip Through the Southern States

Among other things the speech states: "You will be invited to enact measures designed to safeguard the consumer and primary producer against unfair trading practices and to regulate in the public interest concentrations in production and distribution. You will also be invited to enact measures to provide the investing public with means to protect itself against exploitation."

The speeches thus far made have thrown no additional light on the legislation foreshadowed in the speech from the throne, so we must be patient and wait the coming down of the legislation. The liberals have made way, but quite apparently the Government has not got its legislation ready, so on tactics the Liberals have scored a point.

Golden Wedding of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Ramage.

Many friends in Durham will want to convey congratulations in spirit to Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Ramage, Springfield, on the culmination of fifty years of married life, Wednesday, Feb. 6th. That is a long time at many changes have transpired during that period. But the genial characteristics of "W.W." or his estimable wife, have not changed one iota, that time. May they yet have many happy years together.

KNOX CORNERS

We noticed some interesting thoughts in a write-up on the Int. S. Lesson for Jan. 27th, the subject of which was "Peter's denial". If Peter had spent the time with his Master in the garden in prayer instead of being asleep, he would have been better fitted to withstand temptation. Then he warned himself at the fire in company with the enemies of Jesus. These are wonderful lessons for us, to watch and pray lest we enter into temptation, and not to be found anywhere where it would be hard for us to witness for the Master. Yet after all Peter loved his master and proved it by his whole-hearted life service.
