Misses Ena, Gretta and Rebecca Nichol of London, Rev. Walter Nichol of Plymouth, Mich. Mr and Mrs. Will Legate and daughter Christina of Buffalo, are holidaying with the Nichol families—Thos. Jno. and David Mr John McFarlane, Toronto, spent the weekend with friends here.

Mrs Alex. Knox, Mrs Harry Pedlar and son, returned to Toronto Monday after spending the past week here. Mrs A. B. McDonald of O. Sound, Mr and Mrs H. Richardson and family, spent the weekend at Mrs D. G. McLean's.

Mr and Mrs Stanley Harrison and family, from breakfast to the after-theatre party and even have a place in the main course or dessert.

Rice waffles and creamed chicken or creamed fish, plain waffles and maple syrup or honey; waffles and crushed berries; chocolate waffles and ice cream, ginger waffles and whipped cream and later in the season, green corn waffles are just a few of the luscious combinations possible.

And most important, waffles may always be made at the last minute, so they hold first rank of emergency dishes.

Because waffle batter is a pour batter, it's much more convenient to mix it in a pitcher and pour it on the waffle iron rather than dip it with a spoon from a mixing bowl.

The lipped bowls are attractive and easier to beat in than a straight-sided pitcher.

WIPE, DON'T WASH The metal must be seasoned before using, but after that, even this material should not be washed.

Plain waffles with creamed salmon and fresh peas make a delicious luncheon for a summer noon when the weather suddenly turns cool.

PLAIN WAFFLES One and one-third cups flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1-1/2 cups soda, 2 eggs, 1 cup sour milk, 4 tablespoons melted butter.

Mix and sift flour, salt and baking powder. Add milk, stirring constantly to keep smooth.

For ginger waffles add 1/2 cup molasses, 1 teaspoon ginger and 1/4 cup sugar. Increase flour to 1 1/2 cups and soda to 2 1/2 teaspoon.

Pineapples always may be relied upon to furnish the perfect finishing touch to menus.

Before you use fresh pineapple in any way, be sure to give it a thorough scrubbing with a stiff brush.

SCISSORS IN KITCHEN Scissors have many uses in the kitchen. Fruit such as grapes and strawberries will not be bruised and lose juice if they are clipped instead of cut with a knife.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS When chopping mint sprinkle first with sugar, and your work will be completed in half the time.

The vitamin content is considered a good, comparing favorably with oranges. This is worth keeping in mind, because as oranges become scarce and high in price, pineapples make a good substitute.

To Prepare For Table There's one precaution about getting fruit ready for the table. Be sure that every bit of the skin and eyes are removed.

Another point to keep in mind regarding fresh pineapple is the necessity of scalding both the juice and the fruit before adding them to a gelatin mixture.

Pineapple Pudding Use 1/2 cup of quick-cooking tapioca, add to 3 cups of milk and cook in a double boiler until the tapioca becomes transparent.

Pineapple Meringue Cake 1/2 cup butter, 1/2 cup sugar, 4 egg yolks, 4 tablespoons milk, 1/2 cup cake flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, sift in last 2 tablespoons cake flour and 1/4 teaspoon salt.

Meringue Topping 4 egg whites, 3-4 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 3-4 cup chopped nut meats.

Pineapple Filling 1 cup whipping cream, 1 1/2 tablespoons powdered sugar, 1 cup crushed pineapple, drained, 1/4 teaspoon vanilla.

Grease To remove auto grease or any dark, heavy grease from washable fabric apply a small piece of butter and rub in well, and then wash with soap and rinse.

Another way to make a paste of Fuller's earth and turpentine, and rub it on the fabric until the turpentine has evaporated and a white powder produced.

After peeling onions wash your hands in cold water to rid them of the smell. If washed in hot water, the pores are opened, and the juice penetrates the skin.

STAINS Many common stains remain in garments and household linens through several washings just because the bit of knowledge required to take them out is not available at the right moment.

INK To remove ink stains place the article over a bowl, and cover the stain with borax. Then wet the borax thoroughly with peroxide, using plenty of peroxide, and the stain will almost immediately disappear.

MUD Mud stains can generally be removed by rubbing the spot with a mixture of equal parts of flour and common salt.

GREASE To remove auto grease or any dark, heavy grease from washable fabric apply a small piece of butter and rub in well, and then wash with soap and rinse.

TIME.—The revival under Josiah took place in B.C. 624, though Josiah's reign extended from 641 B.C. to 610 B.C.

PLACE.—Principally in the city of Jerusalem, and, particularly, in the temple.

"And the king sent, and they gathered unto him all the elders of Judah and of Jerusalem." Although the king had received an answer which was favorable only in its bearing on himself, his first care was to bring together the entire people, to make them acquainted with the law-book, to lead them to repent, and so to avert, as far as possible, the threatened punishment.

"And the king went up to the house of Jehovah." The most appropriate place for the reading of the law of God, and a place where great multitudes could easily be gathered together. "And all the men of Judah and all the inhabitants of Jerusalem with him, and the priests, and the prophets." That is, both high and low; cf. Ps. 49:2. "And he read in their ears all the words of the book of the covenant which was found in the house of Jehovah." For a similar occasion see Nehemiah 8.

"And the king stood by the pillar." Or, on a raised platform (cf. 11:14; 2 Chron. 6:13). "And made a covenant before Jehovah, to walk after Jehovah, and to keep his commandments, and his testimonies, and his statutes." He did not make a new covenant, but he renewed his determination to keep the covenant which, long before, his forefathers had entered into with God. "With all his heart, and all his soul." See, especially, Deut. 4:29; Matt. 22:37. With all your heart, and with all your soul, means the bringing of yourself together resolutely, in your endeavor to seek after God. That is the condition of getting back. "To confirm the words of this covenant that were written in this book; and all the people stood to the covenant." They all took the same pledge as the king.

"And the king commanded Hilkiah the high priest, and the priests of the second order." The younger and subordinate priests. "And the keepers of the threshold." The Levites whose duty it was to guard the temple. "To bring forth out of the temple of Jehovah all the vessels that were made for Baal." The symbol to whom human sacrifices were offered to appease his anger in time of plague (2 Kings 16: 3; 21:6). Baal worship had been revived by Manasseh, 2 Kings 21:3. "And for the Asherah." The name of a goddess whose worship was derived from Assyria, a goddess of fertility, whose symbol was the trunk of a tree, or a cone of stone. "And for all the host of heaven." The moon and stars, also objects of pagan worship. "And he burned them without Jerusalem in the fields of the Kidron, and carried the ashes of them unto Beth-el." While it need not be assumed that the king actually made the fire and burned them himself, he was the one whose order was responsible for their destruction, and he no doubt personally supervised such work.

Nothing could have been more thorough than the reformation which Josiah undertook, especially as regards external matters. Only God himself, by his Spirit, can change the human heart, but a man with great power can bring about a vast change in the external conditions prevailing among those people over whom he has jurisdiction.

"And the king commanded all the people, saying, Keep the passover unto Jehovah your God, as it is written in this book of the covenant." The ordinance of the passover is given in Deut. 16:1-8.

"Surely there was not kept such a passover from the days of the judges that judged Israel, nor in all the days of the kings of Israel, nor of the kings of Judah." Scripture records that the passover was kept the second year after the exodus (Numbers 9:1-5), and then not again until the Israelites had entered the Promised Land (Josh. 5:10). After that, special celebrations of the passover are only mentioned once during the reign of Solomon (2 Chron. 8:13), again under that of Hezekiah (2 Chron. 30:15), at the time of Josiah (as here), and once more after the return from Babylon under Ezra (Ezra 6:19).

"But in the eighteenth year of king Josiah was this passover kept to Jehovah in Jerusalem." It was in the eighteenth year that the temple and the land were cleansed from all symbols of idolatry, and that the great passover was held.

THE DIVINE SONG Little songs come from the stillness To rest in the heart, Stillness that lies beneath living Serene and apart.

Joy beyond rapture of Springtime,— The scent of the rose,— Glorious fragrance, white magic The frost flower blows.

Thus to take song out of silence,— To feel in the soul Equivocal echoes of beauty Surrounding life's who! Colors—with richness unworthy To mirror that sky; Voices—where music transcendent May flutter or die; Sculpture—whose lines of perfection No sequence prolong. — These, in the soul of the poet, Must show forth the song. —Minnie Hallowell Bowen.

Pauline Johnson Memorial Urged

Wilson MacDonald, Devotee of Shadow River, Would Erect It There

Wilson MacDonald, the eminent Canadian poet, is spending a holiday at Rosseau, revisiting the scenes which have served as the inspiration for some of his best work. He is particularly attracted to Shadow River, immortalized by the late Pauline Johnson in the following lines:

"A stream of tender gladness Of filmy sun opal-tinted skies Of warm midsummer air that light-ly lies In mystic rings where softly swings The music of a thousand wings That almost tones to sadness. The far fir trees that cover The brownish hills with needless green and gold, The arching elms overhead, vine-grown and old, Re-pictured are beneath me far across not a ripple moves to mar Shadows underneath." — Wilson MacDonald.

Mr. MacDonald returns year after year to paddle in Shadow River. On one occasion he brought Sir Charles Roberts and the late Bliss Carman and on another the late Sir Gilbert Parker, all admirers of the work of the gifted Indian poetess. He suggests this year that a tablet at the mouth of Shadow River be erected to the memory of Pauline Johnson in recognition of her genius and contribution to Canadian literature.

In discussing the Canadian attitude towards men of letters, Mr. MacDonald expressed himself as delighted with the honoring of Charles G. D. Roberts with a knighthood. Such a gesture justified the whole system of title-giving, he said. "England is England," in the opinion of the poet, "because of her writers. Canadian writers," he added, "not politicians, are creating Canada."

Sun-Back Bolero Dress

Here's a clever little jacket dress. It can be made with high neck at the back or with halter-like sun-back. Delightful schemes in plain and novelty prints in cottons, linens, tub silk, etc., can be worked out with most pleasing results in this easily made model. Style No. 3360 is designed for sizes 11, 13, 15 and 17 years. Size 15 requires 4 yards of 39-inch material for sun-back dress and bolero.

Says Eyes Do All the Tricks

Carole Lombard Thinks They're Most Important of All

Hollywood—It's the eyes that turn the trick, whether it be winning a man's heart or a place in the movies. This is the contention of Carole Lombard, Hollywood star.

"The romance a woman inspires, the passion she engenders, the havoc of hearts she wrecks, is always accomplished chiefly with her eyes," Carole insists. "Lovey hands, lovely looks are important, but pretty eyes are most important. All the laws, not only of coquetry, but charm and sincerity, are dependent upon them."

"And let me tell you that you may have a distinguished voice, a fetching accent, an adorable figure, but a beautiful pair of eyes will do to get you a chance in 'JUSUAL' that no other feature can give you."

Not only herself, but Marlene Dietrich, Gail Patrick, Rosalind Russell, and effective eyes. "Even when IRLTON, A. A. C. M.; to face," she says, "I'm sure you'll find that using 'A. A. C. M.' charm is something to be proud of. If affected it is 'phony', but it has to be instinctive, and fortunately, with most women it is."

The eyes of Lombard and Dietrich are china blue; Claudette Colbert's are a rich dark brown and Rosalind Kelso's are the same; Frances Drake's are a hazel gray, while Gail Patrick's are dark brown.

Miss Patrick won her first screen role as the Panther Woman in "Island of Lost Souls," because of the odd slant of her eyes, and Katherine De Mille succeeded in finding a place on the screen because of the sumptuous quality of her gaze.

These are two known instances. Just how large a part the eyes of the others have played in putting them on the screen, and keeping them there is harder to estimate, but it's easy enough to agree with Carole that their eyes are and always have been a tremendous asset.

Woman Head of Adult Education

Project in New York Is Run by Miriam Finn Scott

Perhaps a good many fathers and mothers in New York City have not yet learned that Father Knickerbocker, through what is known as the Adult Education Project, is actually attempting to show them how to straighten out some of the vexing problems that arise when children are not growing up to be the good little boys and girls—or big girls and boys—parents want them to be.

This means, in practical working out, that when mother is worried because Susie tells fibs or Johnnie has spasms of temper or when she is at her wit's end to decide what best to do to cure Joseph of playing hooky or to make him stop teasing the cat or even to break him of the slyness that makes it a bother to take him anywhere away from home, New York City has set in motion a sort of clinic to which this perplexed parent may go for expert—and free—advice.

The expert who has been chosen for this seemingly stupendous task is Miriam Finn Scott, who has been guiding parents and children around New York for a good many years, and who has shown her skill in practical fashion by training three somewhat unusual children of her own.

Women Won't State Their Ages

Hundreds of Iowa Driving Licenses Returned — Montreal Has Trouble Too

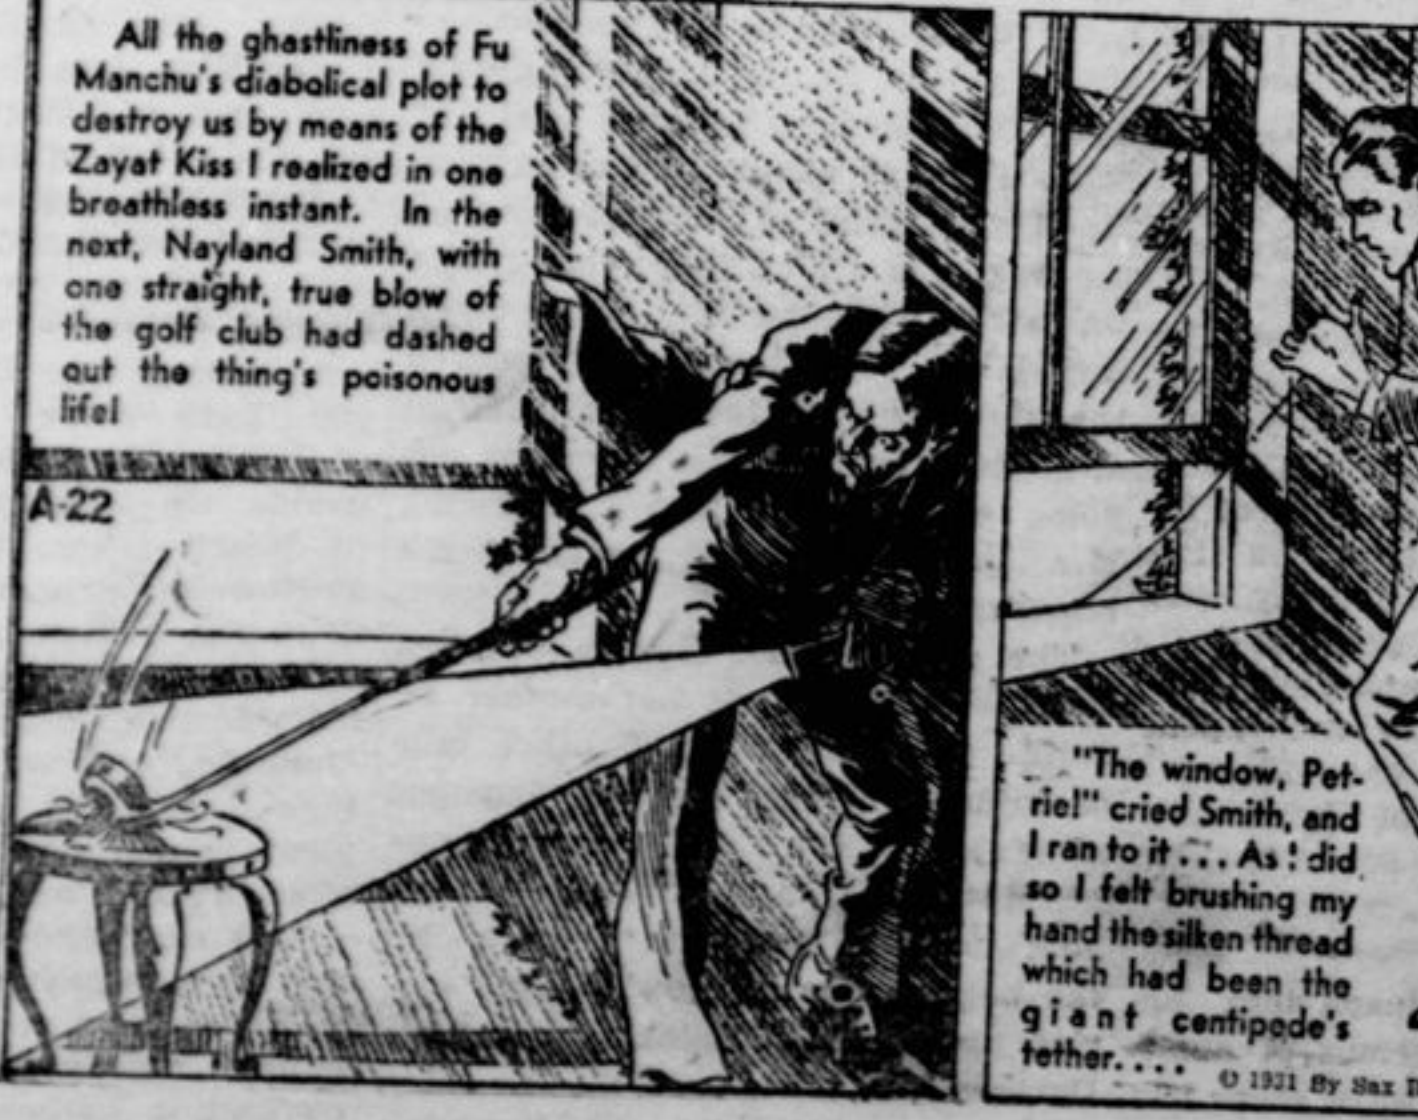

Des Moines. — The Iowa motor vehicle department has returned hundreds of applications for drivers licenses of Iowa women because the forms were improperly filled out.

The women, as usual, refused to insert their ages. Inquiry at one of the big automobile associations elicited the information that Montreal has its troubles too.

"The young women give their ages readily," said an official, "but after middle age it becomes increasingly difficult to get a definite reply. Some of the ladies seem to think we want to know for our own personal reasons and become quite indignant at our 'curiosity.' As a matter of fact, it is, of course, the law that the age must be given on application for both registration and driving licenses.
