

Placing the Unemployed

BY THE WATCHMAN
Toronto, August 14th. Premier Heppburn's sympathy and understanding of farm problems could not be better illustrated than by his actions with regard to the placing of unemployed men in farm jobs.

manding concessions from the government, but few showed any desire to go on the land. With characteristic energy, the premier tackled the problem. A farmer himself, he realized the seriousness of the situation, and the result to date, has been more than satisfactory, taking into consideration all the circumstances, chief of which is that farmers require only experienced help.

By the time this article appears in print, more than 1,000 men will have been placed in farm jobs, since August 1st. The grand total up to August 8th was 924 and the placements on this one day totalled 105. Continued cloudy weather has delayed ripening of crops and has resulted in a temporary falling off in farm orders. The placements have been scattered all over the province and farmers are breathing sighs of relief as they see their crops safely harvested. But more men are needed and Premier Heppburn has asked the farmers to co-operate by taking inexperienced men and training them.

At the very moment of an acute shortage of farm help, hunger-marchers and other unemployed were de-

WHAT MEAFORD MIRROR

Durham did well during Old Home Week to honor its founder, Archibald Hunter. It must have a matter of gratification to the towns people to have a descendant of the founder, Miss Margaret Hunter, a great-granddaughter and an estimable towns lady unveil the cairn in memory of her courageous forebear. All towns should pay similar honor to their founders.

These men who went bravely into the wilds of the Queen's bush and founded homes which were the start of towns and cities did as much in extending the Empire as the armies and navies. The names of the pioneers should be kept ever green by those who reap the fruits of their labors.

The Part the C. N. R. Plays in Marketing Canada's Crops.
So essential to the trade, commerce, and general welfare of Canada are the various classes of freight carried in the course of a year by Canadian National Railways that it is difficult to give pride of place to any particular one, but in their all-round importance to every section of the community, agricultural products must rank very high. They form the backbone of the nation's business activities and contribute directly and in large volume to its industry and employment everywhere.
During 1934 the C. N. R. carried over eight and a half million tons of agricultural produce, being an increase of 6.4% over 1933. In this total are included 134,700,000 bushels of wheat, 14,000,000 bushels of corn, 35,700,000 bushels of oats, and 15,500,000 bushels of barley; the aggregate of these commodities showing an increase of 4.1% when compared with the preceding year.
It is interesting to note that the average haul of each ton of wheat was approximately seven hundred and fifty miles.
Without the rail facilities of the C.N.R. no doubt some of this agricultural produce might still have reached a market, but it could only have done so at a much higher cost to the producer, and the quantity would necessarily have been negligible. For practically all the crops which enter into the figures above enumerated were placed in freight cars at points where the only rail transportation obtainable was that provided by Canadian National Railways.
These crops come from far scattered districts... in many cases from sparsely populated communities... but they are the result of the labours of men and women who each year create millions and millions of dollars of new wealth for Canada. In this work the C.N.R. is their partner and helper.
As is well known the crop movements of recent years have been much below normal... much below the standard of productivity of our prairies and agricultural areas, and much below the volume which the C. N. R. is equipped to handle. The figures quoted should, therefore, be considered in that light.
The carriage of agricultural produce is, of course, only one of the activities of the C.N.R. In every branch of rail transportation it is equipped to give the best of service... all the year round... under all conditions... economically, courteously, and competently. Your patronage is respectfully solicited.
During the present Summer season the C.N.R. is providing special fares and excursions between points throughout Canada. These are exceptional travel bargains. The nearest C.N.R. Agent will be glad to give full particulars.
