County Women's Institute Convention at Ravenna

MRS. W. DINGWALL, HOPEVILLE THE NEW PRESIDENT

The little village of Ravenna nestling among Euphrasia Township hills was the centre of bustle on Wednesday last, when the county convention of Women's Institutes was held with a record attendance.

Excellent speakers were present, among them H. C. Jennings, Inspector of Libraries; Miss Slicker, Kitchener, of the W. I. Branch Dept. of Agriculture; Miss Agnes Macphail, M.P., Ceylon. The election of officers took place in the afternoon session. Mrs Harold Wilson, Clavering, conducted the election, which resulted in Mrs Wm. Dingwall, Hopeville, becoming the new County President.

The other new officers are Vice President, Mrs Jno. McMurdo, Dromore; Sec'y-Treas., Miss Florence Smith of Meaford, (re-elected.)

Miss Winnie Blyth, Pres. of Durham Branch contributed two solos, as well as leading in community singing. Mrs. S. H. Pearce, Owen Sound, also contributed two solos.

Of considerable interest were the reports of the districts. Mrs. J. S. McIlraith of Durham gave the report for South Grey, which has 15 senior and 5 junior branches. Mrs W. A. Hawkins of Centre Grey reported 21 branches, and Mrs Wm. Laycock of Woodford reported 26 senior and two junior branches in North Grey.

Mrs R. E. Brown of Meaford gave a talk on "Poetry in every day". Her address was fresh and lulling with the music of poetry, presented by one richly endowed to interpret the beauty of verse. The real things in life are not external, but are within, said Mrs Brown and in enunciating the precious spiritual things of life she included poetry. Poetry, she said, should be taught in the schools in a way to awaken the senses to its beauty. It can help us to live imaginatively above the hum drum of every day. The delight of poetry gives us escape from dullness and helps us young. Mrs. Brown illustrated her talk with selections of lovely dancing verses, most of them descriptive of nature.

Substituting for Miss Isabella Firth of the Edge Hill Juniors, Miss G. Firth gave a brief account of the work of that junior branch. The junior branches help the girls to be good homemakers. The Edge Hill Juniors have held both garden and sewing classes recently and an "Achievement Day" was held in Markdale. A member of the Edge Hill Juniors will go to the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto to act as a judge.

Mrs. C. Penton of Holstein took as her topic "Health" in relation to the rural public school. Health is all too often neglected in the rural public school, said the speaker. She urged her hearers to take advantage of public health protective measures in the schools.

In response to the many enthusiastic demands for even a brief message Miss Macphail, M.P. spoke towards the close of the session. Taking the W. I. motto "Home and Country" she gave her hearers a stirring challenge to change the emphasis from 'home' to 'country'. Home today is the size of the whole of Canada, she said, in her ringing tones, rousing her hearers to a new sense of responsibility. There is no solution for home problems today, she said, which is not as wide as this who's, richly endowed country of ours. She urged women to take a more active responsibility in working in partnership with the men to solve their common problems of today.

While commending women, particularly rural women for the use they have made of their energies in conserving and making the most of the things at their hand, she struck a new and more vital note than any heard throughout the day for application of the same energies to solve all the problems of the distribution of all the splendid and beautiful things which were meant to enrich life.
