Last year there was a great scarcity of apples and most of us had practically to do without them for a year. Now there is such an abundance of summer and fall apples that they are going to waste by the ton. What a pity there is not some quick and cheap way of gathering them up and distributing them among the poor.
 L. Hopeville corr.: The company threshing outfit arrived on the scene Monday and commenced operations at Mr. D. McInnes'. Mr. H. Scott has been engaged as engineer.
 North Egremont corr.: The new bridge at Ramage's is now completed and reflects credit on the builders, Messrs Carl Harrison and Herbert Hooper. It was repaired none too soon, as one of the old stringers broke in two on being pulled out, while another was badly decayed at one end. It is nearly 25 years since it was built.
 Pricerville corr.: It was Professor Knold that introduced the first binder to this locality. It was something like the old fashioned weavers loom and it would almost take a span of elephants to work it. This was about 42 years ago and he will remember that he could run in old fashioned binder then as well as he could teach the rudiments of music.
 It is said that the grain is turning out well. H. McKinnon & Sons on their Egremont farm of 25 acres had over 1600 bushels of oats and others accordingly.

Pricerville Corr.: We have been silent for the last couple of weeks but we will try and make up for lost opportunities in the future. Our town has a different appearance for now we have beautiful sidewalks which will compete with any town or city in Ontario, and all the business places in town have their platforms made now of cement which is quite an improvement on the old rickety platforms in use since the days of olden times.
 Dornoch corr.: A popular youth is Mr. Bryce Dargavel who is rusticiating at his home south of the burg after an eighteen months' absence in Sunny Alberta and other parts of the Great West. The fine mammoth barn belonging to Mr. H. R. Riddell of the 2nd. con., Bentinck, and erected only in June last, was burned to the ground, Friday night together with all this season's crop and over fifty ton of hay. Mr. Riddell had only retired a short time when he noticed the reflection of a light and on investigating was horrified to see his barn a seething mass of flames.
