Brown and Mrs. J. T. Priest sang a duet. What a friend we have in Jesus; Mrs. Walter Ewing gave a paper on Grande Ligne; Mrs. W. G. Ritchie read the topic, the story of Madam Feller; Mrs. Archie Beaton read, 'A visit to Feller Institute'; Mrs. J. T. Priest gave an interesting talk on the above topic. QUEEN STREET W. M. S.

Friends and members of the Senior Auxiliary of Queen St. United Church W.M.S. gathered in the home of Mrs. Knechtel on Wednesday the 20th for their November meeting. Mrs. Halbert, president was in the chair and conducted the worship service. The theme "The Spirit's Gift of Power" was shown in the scripture reading. Rev. Mr. Halbert was present and led in prayer. The business period followed. Plans were made for Rally, Thanksgiving and regular collection. Mrs. McCrae in a few well chosen words presented Mrs. Twamley with a life membership certificate, the gift of her sister-in-law Mrs. Boyce, missionary on furlough from Smeaton, Sask. Mrs. then introduced the new study book The New Africa, also the map of Africa, that great continent, pointing out the mission stations of the United Church in Angola. Mr. Halbert was called on for a synopsis of the first chapter "The African in his setting" and drew us a wonderful word picture of his subject. We learned that until the last hundred years the natives lived in isolation. Since the last century the white races have disturbed the simple life of the Africans in business, industry commerce and agriculture, yet they still live in caves and mud huts, the men securing wives, one or more by capture, holding them in bondage until tamed. Even some of the women may have several husbands. They live in villages, the children all together the common property of all. They have no literature or monuments of the past, no property rights no clothing except tree bark or leaves, no family life except where the land is barren and only one family may raise enough food to sustain life. Cattle are their chief possessions and milk, maize and millet their diet. The grain must be pounded and cooked by the women, all sharing alike. Space will not permit further report but come and study with us this primitive people on whom Italian machine guns are being turned and bombs dropped.

Mrs W. D. Staples Addresses Knox Auxiliary

The Y.W.A. of Knox United Church were entertained for their Nov. meeting at the home of Mrs. R. Macfarlane. A goodly number of members were out, and two former members from Hanover, Mrs. Clifton Graff and Miss Elma Ball, were also welcomed.

The guest speaker was no stranger but rather a well-loved friend of the organization. Mrs. Staples' zeal for the missionary cause of the United Church, has increased with the years and there are few speakers on the missionary program of the church, can give a better or more vivid picture of first hand conditions in the work of the church. On this occasion Mrs. Staples enlarged on the organization of work of the three branches of the Christian church that entered Union ten years ago in 1925,—the Congregational, Methodist and Presbyterian. She told of the trials and disappointments of the early missionaries of each branch and of their great optimism and faith in their round of labors. She brought home in closing that in Great War days, a Hanover veteran wrote home that while he was sure of the ultimate success of the Allied forces, he was not so sure of himself. In case he did not return the cause was worth the sacrifice.

Is not the cause we are fighting for today in the enlightened knowledge the Bible brings, worthy of our sacrifice? Mrs. Clarence McGirr, president, and Mrs. H. C. McKeechie, secretary read the minutes of last meeting. Mrs. James Rutherford had the devotional topic of the evening on "Deborah the woman of Public Spirit." Mrs. W. G. Ritchie also read a literary work for women.

At the close of the meeting light refreshments were served. $30.00 was the thank offering.

At Queen's Park

By The Watchman

Toronto, November 27th. Last year the Milk Control Board, in its Annual Report estimated that as a result of efforts made to improve conditions among milk producers, at least $2,500,000 had been returned in actual cash to the milk producers and that their product was bringing in $500,000 per month more than it did before the Act was passed in the Legislature.

On this basis and taking these figures as being a conservative estimate, it is not too much to say that the operations of the Milk Control Board have improved the financial status of the producers by at least 50 per cent. The year 1936 has seen many changes in the milk industry. When the Board started in to regulate the business, the members discovered chaotic conditions. Cut-throat competition was rampant; there was no uniformity; no co-operation between the various elements, and the poor milk producers seemed to be getting it in the neck—as usual.

But today the situation is different. While it is true conditions are far from perfect, the work of the Milk Control Board has wrought tremendous changes. Milk wars, those disastrous episodes which have occurred with alarming frequency in past months, are almost a thing of the past. Producers and distributors have been brought together and agreements have been entered into with regard to price. The Board has held numerous meetings in various parts of the Province and the sympathetic understanding shown has resulted in the removal of obstacles standing in the path of the dairy industry.

The work of the Board with regard to enforcement of the Milk Control Act and its regulations has been a long four main lines. They are the licensing of milk distributors, the bonding of milk distributors who purchase their supplies of milk from milk producers, the approval of agreements arrived at between the producers and distributors, and the handling of certain miscellaneous problems that are constantly claiming attention. In starting its work, the Milk Board began the licensing of milk distributors as the initial move in the control of the industry. Their efforts were not received with the entire approval of certain elements. As stated in a previous article, there were cries that the Milk Board represented the worst features of a dictatorship and that the Act under which it operated was illegal and could not be sustained in a court of law. Experience has shown this last statement to be wrong. Several courts have upheld the Act in test cases brought by the Board, the last case being in Ottawa a short time ago.

The bonding of milk distributors was the next important step taken by the Board. Previous to the enactment of this regulation, milk producers over the whole Province have suffered very considerable loss every year when distributors to whom they shipped milk, failed to pay for these supplies. Under the regulation, no new milk distributor who purchases milk may secure a license until he has deposited security for at least $5,000. This regulation prevents a person starting in the milk business until he has sufficient financial backing to give a reasonable protection to farmers who supply him with milk.

The Milk Board is watching the industry closely. Its aim is to improve the lot of the producers without oppressing the other elements. Following articles will explain some of the difficulties confronting the Board at the present time and the methods adopted to overcome them.

Hundreds Attend Triple Funeral Service

right with God, and it matters not when that call shall come. God has a home ready for us; it is ours if we will take it." Mr. Smith told how well ready the members of the Brown family were when their call so suddenly came by virtue of lives lived in the service of Christ. In conclusion Mr. Smith read a favorite hymn of Mrs. Brown's entitled "In the city."

After the benediction had been pronounced the throngs of sorrowing friends filed past the three caskets to pay last respects to an honored family.

Three motor hearses conveyed the remains, accompanied by a large concourse of mourners and I.O.O.F. brethren to Amos church cemetery, Dromore, where interment was made, the three coffins side by side. Here many old friends who could not come to the service in Durham were given the opportunity to last view the sleepers. A write-up of the accident in the Hamilton Herald, furnishes new information. It says, in part: "Death had been instantaneous. The coupe had been practically demolished when its left side was struck by the rear end of the huge Highway police said it was apparent that the rear end of the trailer of the truck had skidded sideways on a curve near the Angus highway restaurant, and that this skid had occurred at the precise moment that the Durham coupe was passing.

John Hoover, Hagersville, driver of the truck, told police that he was proceeding at only 20 miles per hour and that he had no knowledge of danger until after the coupe had passed the cab of his truck and his line of vision. Then he felt a crash, as the left rear corner of the trailer collided with the coupe. Stopping immediately, he rendered assistance and called Oakville and Burlington physicians.

J. W. Watson, Hamilton, alderman candidate in Ward 7, was an eyewitness to the accident and afterwards examined the tires on double wheels at the rear of the trailer. He reported that the two left tires it's side to which the trailer swerved, were "balloons," or tires which had the treads worn away.

Of the tires on the rear right of the trailer, the outer one was practically new and the inner one was worn," he said.

Mr. Watson and a companion of Woodstock, were following the truck and trailer towards Hamilton. "I was going about 35 miles an hour and gaining slightly on the truck when it took the curve," he said. "When the truck was half way round the curve and before the car came in sight the rear end of the trailer swerved to the centre of the road. The impact lifted the rear wheels of the car right off the road. The car was thrown back about 15 feet. The truck pulled to the side of the road about 50 feet further on. The driver of the car couldn't have avoided the smash unless he got right off the road, and even then, I doubt if he had time to do so."

ANGUS MCKINNON (Castor, Alta., Advance)

Angus McKinnon, a well known and highly respected pioneer of the Castor district, passed away early Wednesday morning, Nov. 13. Mr McKinnon was born at Rocky Saugeen in Grey County, near Durham, Ont., on Dec. 9, 1859. He came West in 1907 and settled on a farm in the Rosetta district in 1899. In 1912 the family moved to Castor, where they have been residing ever since. Mr McKinnon was a worthy member of that group of pioneers who so carefully laid the foundation, upon which the life of our town and district rests today. His interests in the early years were largely bound up between the school and the Presbyterian (later the United) church. In both places he made a splendid contribution of service to the good of the district.

Funeral services were held from Knox United church on Friday, Nov. 15th and interment was made in Castor cemetery.

She has been afflicted with blindness for some years, but was wonderful in being able to get around her home. With the sorrowing husband there mourn the one daughter, living in Guelph. Two brothers also mourn, Nell McEachern, Ottawa and Archie from Waterloo. These two brothers are the sole survivors of a one-time family of five.
