

Twelve-Ounce Baby Died Eight Days

Prematurely, She Made Brave Struggle For Life

LADELFEIA—A baby weighing twelve ounces was born to a Philadelphia couple recently, and was kept by feedings through an eye every hour-and-a-half.

The mother of the girl became known when attending physicians for assistance for Mrs. Clara on, practical nurse, who was to stand the strain longer of the baby's care for the feeding of the child.

The child was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Marta, both 33, of 2825 E. 12th St., Philadelphia. She was named Elizabeth.

In response to the call for assistance, the Delaware County Hospital sent an incubator to the home, where the baby was kept.

The baby was born, Dr. V. Dick and Mr. and Mrs. Robb, who had a home-made "incubator" consisting of a cardboard box with two hot-water bottles being condensed milk, water and syrup.

Best Nurse, baby specialist, called into the case by Dr. Dick, he had "never seen anything like it."

Other small babies, who had so much publicity, were kept in hospitals with all modern facilities. This baby was kept in a small two-story house.

She never had handled a birth case before. She and the incubator out of cardboard carton, placed hot water on it, and covered them with a blanket.

The child died a few days after being placed in a regular bed.

Five Miles Run For Health

Sears, Famous Woman, Completes This

Eleonora Sears, a sixty-year-old woman and one of the most famous athletes in the world, has just completed a five-mile run in a record time of 24 minutes.

New High Reached In British Trade

The Annual Review, published by the London Times, this week justifies everything that has heretofore been said about the economic recovery lately achieved by the Mother Country. The year 1935, recorded steady progress in her export trade, which has grown uninterruptedly for the past three years—that is to say, since the signing of the Ottawa trade treaties at the conference summoned by the Bennett Government late in 1932. Expansion in trade between Great Britain and the rest of the Empire continues to be accelerated. The Times says:

"The automobile industry, now the third largest manufacturing industry in Great Britain claims to have out-distanced all rivals in a year of rising prosperity. For British aircraft manufacture 1935 was even better than 1932. But, because of its predominant importance, progress in the iron and steel trade was more remarkable. Steel production reached an unprecedented total; the output of iron and steel together surpassed that of 1932 by 80 per cent. Both wool and rayon had a good experience, and the only major industries to lag behind were coal, cotton, shipping and ship building."

According to the same newspaper the economic advance was more decisive in Great Britain and throughout the Empire than any previous year since the National Government came into office in 1931. Bank deposits and note circulation rose to the highest figure on record, the volume of new capital issues expanded for the fourth year in succession, and profits of industry increased about 16 per cent, stock exchange business was very active, especially in the shares of industrial concerns, and almost the last of the frozen credits were thawed, thanks to the widespread rise in securities and commodity prices, which closed at the highest level for five years.

Here we have a long series of new high records in industrial, financial and business achievements. The Times Review should do much to inspire fresh confidence in the Empire trade treaties and in the future of Empire and world business. — The Toronto Mail and Empire.

Pigs In Cover

The winter care of pigs causes no anxiety to the farmer who has adopted the all-year-round cabin. These portable cabins are useful for 365 days in the year and are efficient and economical. They are cool in summer and provide adequate shelter in winter. Built of rough lumber with securely fastened sides and hinged sections, each cabin has room enough for four or five brood sows, and breeding stock of all ages will thrive in the semi-outdoor life, for the cabins on the advent of winter can be moved to fresh ground or to wherever convenient. Hogs fed in cabins will rarely become crippled, but for this class of stock an open shed with a low, straw-covered sleeping berth is better. Both types of cabins are fully described in the "All-year Hog Cabin" pamphlet issued by the Dominion Department of Agriculture. The average piggery is difficult to ventilate and therefore damp. Dampness, impure air, lack of exercise, and over-feeding make a combination that will soon discourage the hog-feeder and relieve him of his stock. Not so with the all-year hog cabin.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up in your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sick and the world looks sour.

A more bowel movement doesn't always get the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely, and you feel the work done for Carter's Little Liver Pills by those who have used them.

Trinity Students Show High Rating

1934-35 Report Reveals Many Awards in Addition to Rhodes Scholarship.

The report of the Provost of Trinity College, Toronto, for the session of 1934-35 shows that Trinity College students ranked highly among the students of the University of Toronto. In addition to the award of a Rhodes Scholarship to Mr. George Ignatieff, the following scholarships were given to students of Trinity College: The Dent McCrae Scholarship in Law to Mr. W. D. Macdonald; the Anna Howe Revere prize in Household Science to Miss W. M. Howitt of Guelph; the George M. Wrong Scholarship in Modern History to Mr. R. C. Scriven; the First Alexander Mackenzie Scholarship in the Second Year in Political Science and the Banker's Scholarship to Mr. J. H. A'Court; the Riddell Scholarship in Law to J. F. Isard, of Oakville; the G. H. Armstrong Scholarship in Canadian History to Miss A. M. Saunders. Other distinctions included the award in the autumn of a scholarship by the Maurice Cody Research Fellowship and Scholarship Committee to Mr. G. Ignatieff for a free trip to Italy to Miss M. E. Dignam by the Italian Government and the selection of Miss Edith Ardagh of Orillia, as President of the Canadian students at the McGill University Summer School in French. Mr. J. K. Thomas, a graduate of the year 1934, was given one of its Fellowships by the Royal Society of Canada and is engaged in study in Paris.

Trinity College has also awarded many valuable scholarships to its own students who have gained high standing in the First Class in Honour Courses in the University of Toronto. This year for the first time, the

MARRIAGES CHANCES!

When and how, do they begin and end? When does that elusive personal charm of the older woman, dominant, or supplant, the fleeting physical attraction of the younger? Actually, the duration of both phases of feminine appeal depends entirely upon the presence, or lack, of nervous vitality. Marriage chances, which recede with waning charms and attractions, soon reappear when nervous vitality is restored to its normal level by Phosferine.

When appearances may shape one's destiny, naturally the desire "to feel at one's best" is the ambition of every woman, and all experience and authorities confirm that personal fascinations acquire a more captivating vivacity and sparkle, when Phosferine is occasionally employed to renew and maintain vitality.

More About Danish Schools and Education

Editor's Note: This is the fifth of a series of articles which were published recently in the Harriston "Review". While written specially for the "Review" and addressed to residents of Minto Township particularly, we believe they will be found interesting to many of the readers of this paper because the problems of the farm folk of Minto Township are the same problems that confront rural people throughout the province.

In my previous article I introduced you to the Danish Folk High School. Let me tell you a little more of the Small Holders' Folk High School on Funen Island. A Small Holder is a farmer working from about 10 to 17 acres. A 15-acre Small Holder will keep six cows.

The school does not confine its instructional service to the unmarried young farmers and farm women in 6-month courses. They hold several one-week and two-week courses for married couples as well, and accommodate them in a beautiful Community House built for them on the grounds. Education even permeates holiday honeymooning for Danish Farm Folk. Many of these Folk High Schools are open in the summer also to City Folk for recreation and instruction. Numcikers too, visit the school during the summer season. There is an attractive museum on the grounds containing all sorts of interesting objects pertaining to old-time farm life and far-off Viking days. The Danes do not allow their inherited traditions and folk lore to be forgotten. Their agriculture is deeply imbedded in the wholesome and inspiring feelings of the past.

Nor does the Funen School confine its services to those who come to it. The teachers take a leading part in the numerous reading and lecture circles that abound throughout rural Denmark. No wonder the influence of these schools is great. They are part of the very life of the people. It is a veritable community centre and university for the small holding farmers of Funen. No wonder they are unitedly and co-operatively in big business for themselves. No wonder they are adequately and efficiently represented in Parliament. No wonder they are able to make 15-acre farming pay. For they have a school to lead them. The Small Holders of Denmark have three other Folk High Schools serving them in the same way as this one.

The Danes set a high value on the young people going away from home to learn about life amongst strangers.

A Man's Triumph

Some five million persons danced recently in the United States at benefit functions of a unique kind. There were the more modest affairs; there were lavish and glittering displays in New York's palatial hotels; there were inexpensive tickets and there were costly ones. But it was all for the same cause and occasion—the fight against infantile paralysis in celebration of President Roosevelt's fifty-fourth birthday.

It is sometimes forgotten, in the present political storm centering around the President of the United States, the alleged collapse of the N.R.A., the veterans' bonus controversy and the supreme court's rejection of some of the most important legislation, that here at least the bravest personal fights in history. Condemned to the life of a cripple, Roosevelt set his course to overcome a handicap which would have dismayed the average man. Left almost helpless by infantile paralysis, he might have written finis, at a comparatively early age, to a career now made illustrious to many millions.

It is to be wondered if Mr. Roosevelt on that Thursday night did not look back over those years of his battle to overcome a dread ailment, remembering the fears and struggles in his inner soul, and feel that his final conquest was a greater achievement than the attainment of the highest post in the richest nation of the world. It was a fitting celebration of his birthday that his own triumph should help to alleviate the sufferings of many others in his country.—Hamilton Spectator.

If Your Ears Ring With Head Noises

If you have catarrhal deafness or head noises go to your druggist and get 1 oz. of Parmitin (double strength) and add to it 1/4 pint of hot water and a little sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucous stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has catarrhal deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial.

New George V Silver Dollar Will Be Issued In Canada

A new silver dollar, the last to bear the portrait of King George V, will be in circulation soon. Inquiry at the state department last week elicited the information that the necessary proclamation will appear in the near future. The machinery of the Royal Canadian Mint will then proceed to turn out the new coin.

Canada's last silver dollar was struck specifically to celebrate the Jubilee of the late king. The new coin will be issued to supply the general demand for silver dollars. As arrangements were made for its issuance some little time ago, and as King George was alive in 1936, the year of its issue, the new dollar will bear his portrait and not that of the present King. Coins issued after the close of this year, however, must bear the portrait of King Edward VIII.

When coins bearing the portrait of the present king are struck the head will be facing right and not left as is the custom of the late King. That is the custom. On the coinage the monarch's head always faces the opposite direction to that of his predecessor. In this way they are always facing each other. The head of Queen Victoria faced left, that of King Edward VII right, that of King George V left, and when it appears on Canadian coins, that of King Edward VIII will face right.

Infant Mortality Rate Reduced

Mothercraft Society Reports
Noteworthy Results. — Established in 1931.

TORONTO — Canadians have for a great number of years been accustomed to hear of the disproportionately low death rate of New Zealand, and to explain it with climatic comparisons. A visit to the headquarters of the Canadian Mothercraft Society, of 112 College St., Toronto, and the little Mothercraft hospital at 84 Wellesley St., is revealing and points a definite objective for all the prospective mothers of Canada.

Prior to 1907, we learn, the sister dominion of New Zealand did lead the world in its low death rate for infants. In 1905 the challenging statement that a life a day could be saved was advanced by Dr. Truby King. Whereupon he drew upon his experienced knowledge of plant and animal life, and built the Mothercraft Society.

poorer pupils — a total of $4,000.00 a year.

For the 81 Folk and Agricultural High Schools scattered about in all parts of rural Denmark and yearly instructing 10,000 students, the Danish Department of Education expended in 1933 about $175,000 towards teachers' salaries and equipment and another $175,000 towards the students' scholarships. And the schools are free and independent — not government controlled! This is what they mean by the support of self-support. I suppose our Agricultural College costs that much a year, and it is a Government School and not a Peoples' School. There is a difference.

It is commonly agreed that these Folk High Schools have been the chief influence in establishing Danish farmers in their remarkably successful co-operative undertakings. They are not technical schools primarily, but they do fit the Danish mind for putting into practical effect the teachings of science. One of the things that the Danes are famous for is their ready and wise use of new scientific discoveries whether it is a better sort of churn, an improved way of feeding hogs or the use of improved sugar beets in the place of mangels for milk production. They move forward quickly and together. Their minds are open and alert. They work together and not so individually as we do. They have a saying "I cannot prosper unless my neighbor also prospers." And this disposition, it is commonly agreed, springs from the experience of living together in their Folk schools under the inspiring influence of devoted and country-minded teachers.

There are no examinations, no prizes, no contests, no honors in these schools. "All who do their best do equal."

I should like to tell you more about Danish rural education; about the splendid schools for country boys and girls especially. But the limitations of the articles forbid this. Next week I shall tell you of some things learned in Sweden.
