Sufferer Follows Good Advice -and Takes Kruschen

The writer of the following letter had a bad attack of rheumatism, and was advised to take Kruschen. He did so, and describes his experiences in the following words:-

"About two years ago I developed a severe attack of rheumatism in my left shoulder blade. I tried all sorts of remedies, but with no results, until one day my brother-in-law, on hearing of my suffering, exclaimed, There is only one thing for rheumatism! That is-Kruschen Salts!" I decided to purchase a bottle, and for the first week took a teaspoonful in a glass of hot water each morning. The pain gradually disappeared and has now gone entirely. I am still taking my early morning done, as I feel convinced that it is helving to keep me fit."-J.G.B.

Rheumat'e conditions are frequentby the result of an excess of uric and in the body. Two of the ingredients of Kruschen Salts are notable for their work in dissolving uric acid. Other ingredients of these Salts assist Nature to expel the dissolved acil from the system.

Bermuda Silver Band Entry for C. N. E.

Official entry has come to the Ontario Band Association, which conducts band tournament at the Canaevan National Exhibition, from the Imperial Silver Band of Hamilton, Bermuda, Secretary A. L. Robertson of the association says that not in the past fifteen years have there been as many entries at this date ..

Mer Henry Watlington, mayor of Hamilton, has arranged transportation for the band from Bermuda to New York. He has also concluded arrangements for a series of concerts in the Terrace Grill of the Hotel Hamilton for the purpose of raising additional funds with which to defray the expenses of the trip to the Exhibit on. The Imperial Silver Band is under the baton of S. Clayton Pye who has a wide reputation as a conductor and composer. Mr. Pye was at the "Ex" two years ago in the espacity of guest conductor at the band competition. The Bermudians will enter the brass section with an ensemble of twenty-seven men.

Cane Molasses For Pigs

A test carried on at the Minnesota Experimental Station showed that pigs weighing 165 pounds in weight, fed on ground corn alone, did not make as economical gains as when fed oats with 25 per cent. cane molasses was used, thus while you cannot get sugar-cured pork by feeding molasses to swine you can get feeding profits by using the cane molasses in place of part of the corn. Molasses is fed to all classes of live stock and besides being an excellent feed is also an appetizer and aids in conditioning the animals.

Hairy Chest No More Proof of a He-Man

Gradually, as they are attacked by scientific study, many so-called sex differences are melting away. It was a shock to many persons when the development of standardized intell'gence tests revealed that men are not superior mentally to their womenfolk. Is it possible that harry chest and "gorilla shoulders" will suffer a similar fate as criteria of masculinity? asks a Science Service

Dr. Howard Gilkinson, University of Minnesota psychologist, raises the question and provides a surprising partial answer.

If sex is a biological entity - a force which man or woman can be thought of as having in greater or less degree-and if this force finds outward expression in such items as beards or pitch of voice, then you might expect the heavily-bearded man to have also a deep masculine voice and bread shoulders, points out Dr. Gilkinson. Yet examination of more than 200 college men showed these "secondary sex characteristics" to exist quite independently of each other.

And only one of the physical measures, voice pitch, was found to have any significant relation to masculinity as revealed by test or by ratings of associates. Hair abundance and hip-shoulder measurements do not correlate with the masculinity test or with voice pitch. Hip measures do correlate positively with shoulder measures showing, perhaps, that the man with the gorilla shoulders might be expected to have "feminine" hips.

A Mean Advantage To Take Of A Cow

Omar Vinole, an Argenine poet, adopted a "sister"-a cow - with which he made public appearances in Buenos Aires to arouse support for his campaign of anti-mater'alism. He threw convention to the winds and was dubbed "eccentric" because the Argentines, he said, with their increasing prosperity, were drifting from culture and forgetting the "things of the spirit". Standing immaculately attired, by the side of the cow, the other day, in a city lecture hall, he declared: "I may, temporarily at least, have lost my dignity, but for twenty years I have been preaching the cause of culture, and society has ignored me-To attract public attention I had to adopt my 'sister'. I have had to cause a public commotion, almost a revolution, to interest my country-

"I stand for the reawakening of an old idea-the perfection of man. I am trying to create a philosophic temperament. My object is to establish open-air universities at which philosophical ideas will be taught, together with physical training."

Publicity succeeded with Senor Vinole, for which he has to thank his "sister". He chose the cow because it was illustrative of the Argentine people-a cattle-raising race. Outsiders laughed, but for this poet the cow is a wonderful animal, the only one, according to an Indian parable that does not let man starve.

He feels that he will soon have to let his "sister" go, but he will always feel indebted to her. For the cow has brought him sufficient attention to expound his gospel. "The rest is up to me-and the masses." says Senor Vinole.

Meaning of Peace

"When politicians in Geneva have been discussing peace, too often they meant by peace a vague word, the state of non-war. It is a state of international mind; it is a plan of national living, not passive inaction, declared M. Hambro, President of the Norwegian Parliament and head of the Norwegian delegates to the

It is essential to prepare peace. They must be made so much more romantic than actions of war, as creation is more romantic thay destruction. And this aim cannot be reached only by accepting gifts. Lack of Money Aid To True Smartness

If Extravagant Let It Be In Accessories

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—An unlimited clothes budget has nothing to do with being smartly attired, according to Adrian, famous M-G-M designer. As a matter of fact, he believes lack of money is a boon to those women who seek true smartness.

"With just so much money to spend,' Adrian says, "most women will get the simple frock suitable to many occasions. A woman who can spend as much as she desires will often buy too much jewelry, too many furs, and spoil the simplicity of the costume.

"Proper carriage of the head and body can give an inexpensive frock of good line the appearance of the smartest creation. Line of a garment should be the first consideration, and then fabric. Fabric is important to line. Inferior fabric stretches and loses shape. It is poor economy to conserve in this way.

Try Courtesy On Highways

Science Cannot Prevent Accidents Without Help of Courtesy - A Vita' Challenge

TORONTO. - Sounding a strong warning that the heavy traffic increase on Ontario highways expected this summer will inevitably result in more traffic accidents and deaths unless every motor vehicle operator exercises constant care in driving, Hon. T. B. McQuesten, Ontario highways minister, has announced that his department is launching, for a second year, a newspaper campaign urging every one of Ontario's 700,000 drivers to "Try Courtesy".

"The steady increase in motor traffic," Mr. McQuesten declared, "presents a vital challenge to every user of our streets and highways to aid in checking and reducing the horrible toll of lives which motor traffic costs us each year."

Travel is Faster Modern motoring, he pointed out, is geared higher than ever before and this influence of speedy travel is steadily increasing. "Every resource of science has been applied to make this faster pace a safe one. Shatterproof glass, improved four-wheel brakes, wider and smoother highways, more effective day and night road markers, new designs and construction in tires, better lighting equipment on automobiles and streets all these factors have made their contribution to safer motoring.

"But no scientific factor," Mr. Mc-Questen insisted, "no matter how efficient or fool-proof, can ever have the slightest chance of success unless the simplest and most fundamental principal of human relations is applied. This element can be expressed in many different ways. It can be called 'consideration for others' or 'do as you would be done by." "In our newspaper campaign this year, as last year, we are urging drivers to "try courtesy". The dictionary rays courtesy is "politeness of man ners combined with kindness" and we believe the sincere application of this simple idea by every driver in Ontario can eliminate death and destruc tion from our streets and highways and make them safe and useful servants of mankind they should be.

How Tourist Dollar Is Divided Up

We have been reading reports of the amount of money that tourists spend in Canada, the approximate number of visitors who come to Canada each holiday season, but who knows how, where and when the elusive dollar rolls around the country and who benefits the most, writes the Oshawa Times.

After travelling through some of the Canadian tourist resort areas for the past three years, one is impressed with the fact that thousands of visitors do come to our lakes and streams each year and they return year after year to enjoy the more favorable climate and scenery which Ontario offers.

Recently "Motor Magazine" has made a careful survey of the channels through which this much coveted dollar passes. Here it is:

Miscellaneous purchases at stores, 25 per cent. Transportation, 20 per cent.

Hotels and other lodgings, 20 per Restaurants and other eating houses, 21 per cent. Amusements, 8 per cent. Confectionery, 6 per cent.

The wide-spread benefits bestowed by these imported spengers, the tourists, are impressively significant. Scarcely any interest in the lucky tourist community that does not share the benefits brought by tourist expenditures. The fact that 66 cents of every dollar finds access to the tills of the local merchants, the hotels and the restaurants, should impress the obligation these various classes of business owe in encouraging and fostering the tourist trade.

How Population Grows

Letter in New York Times:- In May, 1927, the International Statistical Institute of the League of Nations estimated the world's population at 1,960,000,000, which shows a net gain over the figures of Professor Ernest George Ravenstein, geographer and statistician for the Royal Geographic Society, of 399,-100,000 since his estimate was made in 1890. Professor E. M. East of Harvard University says that 150,000 are born every day, and 100,000 die. At that rate the population of the earth will double itself in about sixtysix years. Medical science has just about perfected arrangements whereby man may live far beyond the age of sixty-six, though just why he should want to is becoming another problem. In view of our present-day labor troubles which continue to grow despite politicians' efforts to make the earth easier to live in and on, the patent increase in the globe's population does not seem to offer very many future Elysiums for the footsore and the weary.-Leighton Bonner Robinson, Mexico, D. Balancing the Books

In paying off a loan to the Home Owners Loan Corp., David M. Lloyd overpaid his bill 1 cent, according to H.O.L.C. accounts. To make the books of this corporation balance, a check for 1 cent was mailed to him.

Lloyd thought he would keep it as a souvenir. He later received an agitated letter from the United States' Treasury, asking why he hadn't cashed the check-that the books were out of balance to that extent.

When he started a search for the check, it was missing, and he had to sign an affidavit to get another check to straighten out the situation for Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau.-Wall Street Journal.
