REMEMBRANCE

Ten million spirits — restless and sighing,
Searched yet their bones are mingled with dust,
They died for peace — an all-glorious vision
"To end all wars," their sacred trust.

Little white crosses, what do they stand for?
Naught but an emblem of trust that's betrayed;
The "vision" is blurred, the war clouds have gathered,
And men have forgotten the promises made.

O! Men of the Cross, look down now in pity
On a world all bewildered with friction and hate;
Bring back the "vision" that ten million died for,
Raise up the Cross of Peace ere 'tis too late!

LESSON VII THE CHRISTIAN MINISTER

2 Timothy, Chap. 4; 2 Timothy 2: 1-4
Printed Text—1 Timothy 4: 6-16;
2 Timothy 2: 1-4
Golden Text—Neglect not the gift that is in thee, 1 Timothy 4: 14.
The Lesson in its Setting

Time—The first epistle of Paul to Timothy was probably written A.D. 65, and the second epistle about A.D. 67.

Place—Second Timothy was written from Rome, where Paul was a prisoner.

The first epistle of Paul to Timothy was probably written about A.D. 65, immediately before Paul's second imprisonment, while the second epistle to Timothy was written shortly before Paul's martyrdom, while he was a prisoner in Rome, A.D. 67.

Paul could not emphasize the importance of the truth which he teaches in the first three verses of this chapter more than to say that this matter had been expressly given by the Holy Spirit.

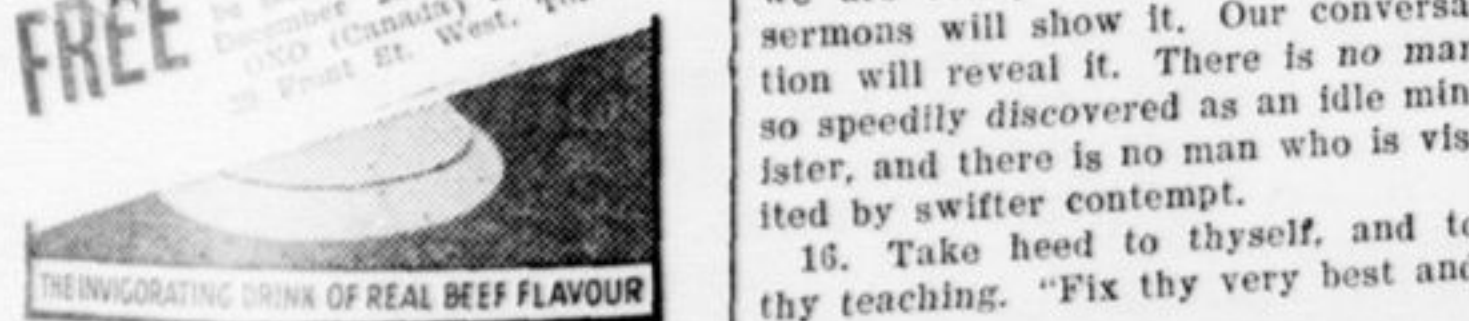

4. If thou put the brethren in mind of these things, thou shalt be a good minister of Christ Jesus. The word here translated "minister" means, literally, "a laborer," "one who serves." Stated in the words of the faith, these of course, refer to the Holy Spirit, and of the good doctrine which has been followed until now. People are bound to believe something, and if they are not instructed in a good truth, in the truth as God has given it to us, then they inevitably will receive error, the false teaching of men, partial truths which can never satisfy, and which so often lead to fanaticism, profane and wickedness.

Practice Godliness

And exercise thyself unto godliness. Christian people ought to train their minds at least as carefully as the soldier does his muscles. The self-control and persistence, and concentration which are expended in athletic pursuits are to be turned to the way in which Christians go about the task of doing their religion.

8. For bodily exercise is profitable to a little; but godliness is profitable for all things, having promise of the life which now is, and of that which is to come.

9. Faithful to the saying, and worthy of acceptance. What is promised thy very closest attention on thyself. This is thy main duty as a pastor. Continue in these things; for in doing this thou shalt save both thyself and them that hear thee. Salvation does not depend, of course, upon what one does, but what one does, and thinks, and plans will determine whether that person will waste his life or save it for great and glorious achievements. This likewise applies to the hearers of a gospel preacher—it has been shown in more than one historic incident that a minister whose own life is strong, and holy, and Christlike has been a tower of strength, encouragement, and help to his own people in hours when, otherwise, humanly speaking, they would have gone to pieces.

Soldier of Christ

1. Thou therefore, my child, Timothy was Paul's child by faith, not according to the flesh. Be strengthened in the grace that is in Christ Jesus. "Timothy was to retreat with those two concentric circles—grace and Christ—two circles which are, after all, but one, for grace is Christ in action and in presence. It is, after all, himself, as our secret, our refuge, our resource."

2. And the things which thou hast heard of me among many who witness the same commit thou to faithful men, who shall be able to teach others also. There is hardly anything more important in all the Christian church than the responsibility and the opportunity of older ministers and teachers depositing the riches of their learning, and faith, and experience in the hearts of their younger brethren, that the great treasures that are in the Scriptures and that are available in Christ may never be diminished because a generation arises ignorant of these holy and divine treasures.

3. Suffer hardship with me, as a good soldier of Christ Jesus. "The Christian man, above all, the Christian pastor, is to think of himself under this simile."

4. No soldier on service entangleth himself in the affairs of this life; that he may please him who enrolled him as a soldier. A soldier cannot be at the beck and call of noncombatants; he cannot be called on the telephone and asked to serve on this or that local committee for sponsoring every conceivable movement that has nothing to do with the great war in which he is engaged, or into which he expects soon to be called. So a minister of the gospel must not be so crowded with secular engagements, and civic movements, and certainly not with political causes, that his great task of witnessing for Jesus Christ and doing Christ's work is sadly neglected.

Surgery Makes New Scalps For Victims

Marvels of Medical Science Performed for Unfortunate Accident Sufferers

The Indians have stopped scalping, but machines have taken over where the Red Men left off, the American College of Surgeons, at Chicago was informed.

This fact was brought out by James A. Cahill, M.D., of Georgetown University School of Medicine, in telling how surgeons have devised operations to build new scalps, something which was not done much "in the good old days."

The moderns who lose their scalps to machines are exclusively women and Chinese, according to Dr. Cahill's records, which cover 96 cases. Long hair catching in wheels or belts is the cause, and since the Chinese cut their queues they have been exempt. But bobbed hair styles have not been a complete protection.

The most recent operation for giving a woman a new scalp was described by Dr. Cahill. The patient was a 25-year-old garment worker whose accident came as she stopped to pick up something under her machine.

A New Ear

The machine did about twice as much scalping in area, as a savage's knife, and it took off the right ear too. Yet today, said Dr. Cahill, the young woman has a new ear and a scalp. She wears a transformation, said

Family of Nations

The Family of Nations, a trans-Atlantic program will feature famous statesmen and educators from three continents. The program is to be broadcast between 3 and 4 p.m. November 11th, under the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace. All stations of the Columbia network will carry this program. Heard on the program will be Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, V. K. Wellington Koo, Ambassador of China to France; for Britain, the Marquis of Lothian, secretary of the Rhodes Trust; for Hungary, Count Paul Teleki, for Italy, Signora Margherita Sarfatti, and William E. Rappard for Switzerland.

The Audience Gues

The Pond's program "Ask Another" features a new novelty. At the back of the stage at C F R B a portrait of a famous person is covered. A member of the audience is asked to step forward, and a conversation takes place between Howard Lindsay, conductor of the program and Mr. or Miss Public. Out of the conversation, the rest of the audience are to guess the identity of the hidden one — and the person who does, receives a box of Pond's products — and so does the party who took part in the discussion. Wally Armour and his orchestra are heard on the program together with Rhoda Howe and George, the "Ask Another" boy. Program is heard on Fridays 10 to 10.30 p.m. Write to the station C F R B for tickets.

While rambling through C F R B's Studios, we caught Paul Berg rehearsing his 7.45 to 8.00 p.m. program heard every Monday, Wednesday and Friday. The program consists of the music played by Paul Berg on the Hammond Electric Organ — a bit of new equipment at the studios. The sound is quite a bit different from the regular pipe organ — and the tone is quite pleasing. Peeking through the glass windows we saw Samuel Herzenhorn and his New World Chamber Orchestra. Included in the many notable playing instruments on this program are Sidney Wells, John Duncan, Roland Todd, Marc Adeney and Harold Samberg.

8.45 to 9.00 p.m. nightly over CKCL brings to the radio Fireside Pictures, a program featuring Ed Goddard at the piano, Frank Gula and his violin and a variety of vocalists. Talking to Al Shea, the man behind the Sunday amateur shows, and he informs me that the final program, the winner of which is due for a trip to Hollywood and an opportunity to appear in pictures, will come off at the end of December. This will certainly give at least one amateur a lot of "Good Humor." There's still room for more — so if you think you have talent — write to Good Humor in care of the stations C F R B, CKCL, CHML or C F C F.

Cold Water Bathers Kidding Themselves

Scientists Tell of Tests With Pair of Nudists

Self-styled "polar bears" who break the ice to swim in December are only kidding themselves in thinking they have adapted themselves to unusual conditions, the National Academy of Sciences was told at its closing session at Rochester, N.Y.

Two Cornell college scientists, Dr. James D. Hardy and Dr. Eugene P. Dubois, said heat production and the heat loss of the human body is quite constant at various temperatures. And man cannot change those reactions and if he seems to, his ruggedness is only a quirk of his mind, they said.

The "Ideal" Range

The Cornell researchers men proved this was true by experimenting with two male nudists in a special room where the temperature could be closely controlled and the radiation and the water loss from the skin measured.

They found that temperatures from 53 degrees to 91 degrees Fahrenheit constituted the "ideal" range in which a person can live comfortably in the nude because the heat loss exactly balances heat production. This will be the neutral zone for future air conditioning of homes and office buildings.

Above 91 degrees, Dr. Hardy added, sweating and evaporation of moisture from the lungs increases to bring into balance the body's heat production since water evaporation from the body is the only way in which it can be cooled.

Why We Shiver

If the temperature drops below 72 degrees for any length of time, they added, shivering — which is the first muscular reaction of the body in order to exercise and keep warm — begins. Shortly thereafter the person must put on clothing or move into a warmer room.

This hard and fast rule of body heat regulation cannot be changed by the thinking differently. Dr. Hardy added, any more than the law of gravity could be repealed. No one actually likes any temperature above 91 or below 53, the Cornell scientists said, because "then the brain comes into play and the person must make a conscious effort to keep cool or get warm."

India Has Largest Irrigation System

Area Exceeds Total of Six Nations Next in Order, Including the United States

The value of the crops raised under irrigation in India is now about $75,000,000 annually.

Net statistical returns issued at Simla, by the Government, show India to have an irrigated acreage exceeding the combined total of the six nations which stand next to her in the list of the world's largest irrigation countries, including the United States of America. The great Sukkur Barrage scheme, in the province of Sind, commands an area one and a half times as large as the whole of Palestine. The Sutlej Valley scheme serves an area exceeding the total cultivable acreage of Egypt and the Sudan. The total irrigated acreage in India provides direct employment for 50,000,000 people or more than the total population of Great Britain and Ireland.

Vast Deserts Now Cultivated

This remarkable watering system has brought into rich cultivation vast deserts where not a blade of grass grew before. It secures regular crops where the annual rainfall is so uncertain that before irrigation came the inhabitants were perennially in dread of famine. No finer achievement now stands to the credit of British rule in India. The importance of irrigation in a land where the population is increasing by millions a year is incalculable.

Tubular Wells

There have been irrigation works in India from time immemorial, but when British rule was established the area under irrigation did not exceed 2,000,000 acres. The area under irrigation is now more than six times as much. There is a large system of tubular wells in the United Provinces. They are driven by electric pumps with electrical energy generated by hydro-electric installations on canals in the same provinces. The extension of the system is still progressing. Every year adds to the area of deserts made fruitful.

One of the problems of the transfer of political power from the British to the Indian people themselves is to assure that the administration of the irrigation system does not diminish in efficiency, for the successful management of the vast undertakings it contains is one requiring great care.
