Remembrance Day Essays

But as we look back on the four tragic years, from nineteen fourteen to eighteen, and think of those valiant men who lost their lives for the freedom of their country, we realize the horrible side of war—men lying bleeding and torn, riddled by bullets, and some pale and stark, on the bloody fields of Flanders. It makes us wonder what is the sense of war?

About six hundred thousand Canadian soldiers went overseas, most of them in the prime of life, and about fifty-five thousand never came back, while many of those returning were maimed for life.

Those battles, as Ypres, Vimy Ridge, and Passchendaele, are scarred across their minds like a nightmare. To look on the faces of men who have been poisoned by gas, and others minus an arm or leg, we think of the errors they have come through.

In every city and town, poppies will be sold to the public. These are a symbol of Remembrance to the loved ones who lost their lives, fighting for their king and country.

We must not forget the practical side of the selling of these poppies, because the money received, goes to a worthy cause. The maintenance of the crippled soldiers, or for the unfortunate families of veterans.

We should try to give as generously as possible when purchasing this little flower of Remembrance.

The eleventh of November is a day which we should keep in mind. Let us hope there will never be another war. Friends and enemies should unite and sing, "Peace on earth, good will to ward men".

REMEMBRANCE DAY

(By Florence Eccles, first winner Third Form, Holstein Cent. School.)

We each year celebrating Remembrance Day, the anniversary of the Armistice by which the Great War came to a close on November 11, 1918, once more find ourselves living under the shadow of the terror of war.

Greet was the rejoicing on the part of the allies to win the war to end end war; but great the disappointment now to find that war is again brewing around the corner; that Italy and Japan are both making war on other countries; that there was a civil war in Spain; that almost all countries are preparing armies and navies for their protection, for the greater war that men are dreading has not come upon us.

In some places Remembrance Day is held as a whole holiday; in others as a half holiday; in others there is only an hour or two; and in some only the two minutes pause. Only two minutes the people of the nation pause in noise and tumult of the day to pay silent tribute, but those two minutes are long; there is time to think of those who lost their lives, which were filled with glorious promises, fighting for us; there is time to think of the horrors of war; there is time to think of God and of Him gave his life upon the cross in the name of love and brotherhood and peace for all mankind.

I think that He will comfort the hearts of those who had sons, husbands or lovers, torn away from them by the pangs of war; because before He laid down His life He said "Greater love hath no man than this, than to lay down his life for his friends."

In Flanders Fields, there are acres upon acres, miles upon miles of white crosses which told of very aptly in the poem "The White Crosses." It tells of the millions of crosses that stand row on row to the horizon, each one indicating what once was a soldier full of the jest of life, full of smiles and laughter and happy thoughts.

The poppy has been chosen on account of its blood red color. All the cemeteries of Flanders are garlanded with them. Each one of us should wear a poppy to show that we respect the soldiers who lost their lives and the 170,000 Canadians who were disabled in the conflict. The only means of making a living for a great many of them is by making this simple emblem, the poppy, in the Veteran Shop.

O God of Love, O King of Peace, Make war throughout the world to cease, The wrath of sinful man restrain, Give peace, O God, give peace again.

but . . . . . is it?

With your car safely in the garage, seems as though you are prepared for anything that can happen. Don't even need a telephone any more.

BUT . . . ARE YOU CERTAIN? Sickness, fire, accident, whatever it may be — and some of these things come occasionally to all of us — is your car quick enough, sure enough? Maybe the roads are blocked. . . . Maybe a tire is flat . . .

In emergency what you need most is a TELEPHONE. Don't wait for something to happen to find that out!

NEW LOW RATES for farm telephone service are now in effect!
