Items Popular in Grandma's Day
Are Coming Back — Ear-
Muffs and Mittens

The feminine younger generation has gone "southern" in wearing apparel. It is their mothers and grandmothers, who still think they must wear in sheer thin-thats to be fashionable.

Their college-age daughters have come in for such items as: Woolen mittens, hoods, muffs, necker, gaiters, flannel night gowns, long-sleeved and high-neck cotton pajamas and woolen heaves. Some of the latter are in the red.

Woolen wool underwear in the knee length variety in colors—red, green, blue, yellow — are favored by the younger generation for winter sports.

It was observed co-eds crowded the counters in department stores where long-sleeved and high-neck light-colored flannel gowns—some with tiny floral patterns—and silk-satin pajamas were being sold. Their mothers, at other counters buying sleeveless gowns.

Child Must Sleep To Develop Well

Refusal to Sleep Means It Has Not
Been Well Trained

Children who go to bed unwillingly, at a reasonable hour, or who sleep too little, have not been trained properly. If you accustom a child to a regular bedtime from infancy, you not only help his chances for normal development of body and mind, but also you simplify your own problems of child management.

Long hours of sound sleep are one of the essentials for a child's mental and physical development. The night or day depends upon how the child has been trained. An excited day without a nap will leave a child too tired to sleep. Especially should the end of the day be free from excitement. The half hour before bedtime should be devoted to quiet pleasures without excitement, exciting games or stories. A child who goes to bed excited is likely to sleep well and to be easy to manage the next day.

When parents and child often sleep due to the fact that the child is worn out from lack of sleep, it is your child's lack of sleep, it has from nervous, excited body, it has from a clear skin, clear eyes, clear cheeks, under them a happy expression, and a good appetite, he is usually getting the right kind and amount of sleep.

A Revised Bible

Arguments that are "somewhat" set in the books of Job and Revelation will be clarified in a revision of the American standard edition of the Bible, Prof. William R. Taylor, Canadian, on the revision committee, said in an interview at Toronto.

The best results of modern scholarship expressed in the simple, classic style of the King James' version" will be embodied in the revised Bible, Prof. Taylor, white-haired of the department of Oriental Languages at the University of Toronto, said. With him will work 14 United States experts on the five-volume work.

"A man has more than one wife, his business—or problem," he pointed out on the suggestion the Bible might make textual changes in scriptural passages that have with polygamy. "We aren't saying anything sensational," he said.

Red Heads Can Wear Most Hues

A Pink Is Smart On Some; Blue, Green, Rust Good

It is used to be a prejudice against red hair, but now people with red hair are coming to understand how beautiful this coloring is with many hidden hues. Of course, no one really red; it is carrot, or copper, russet, or tawny, but not red. The effect of any special shade is enormously modified by the eyes that accompany it, so that it could have to write at great length in order to lay down rules. But who knows a girl with brilliant colored hair and blue eyes who would wear pink. "Red" hair is played up, not down. Blues, greens, mahogany and rust, black, and white create luminous effects.

Frequently stated that blondes do not wear yellow. This theory, however, is contrary to fact, and the designers of costumes have known the value of yellow with blonde. What's more, said, "What beautiful as blondes in sunshine! I love to dress them in yellows. In this case it is the lustrous, such as satin, which are particularly enchanting. Of course, there are blondes and blondes and the soft, may rebel against yellow, but cream, creamy blonde with honeyed hair is never lovelier than in yellow."

Sunday School Lesson

LESSON II
PREPARING FOR A LIFE OF SERVICE.—Mark 1:1-13
THE LESSON IN ITS SETTING
Time.—We do not know exactly when John the Baptist began his preaching, but it is generally assigned to the summer and fall of A.D. 26, while the baptism of Jesus took place in January, A.D. 27, and was immediately followed by the temptation.

Place.—John's preaching took place in Judea, the southern part of Palestine, which included the city of Jerusalem, though most of it was probably done on the eastern side of the Jordan in the Wilderness near the Jordan River, where also Christ was baptized, and somewhere near which, possibly on the eastern side of the Jordan River, he was tempted.

1. The beginning of the gospel of Jesus Christ. This verse is a super-description or title, not for the first fifteen verses of Mark's Gospel, but for the entire book. All that Mark records, may be considered only as the beginning of the gospel of Christ. The word "gospel" meant simply "good news," in the phrase "the gospel of Jesus Christ" we are to understand the proposition "of" to mean "the gospel which concerns the Lord Jesus Christ," the message of good news which men would never have had an existence, except through the life and work of Jesus Christ.

In the very title "Jesus Christ" is the gospel deeply embedded, for the fact that there would come One to deliver his people, a prophet speaking for God, all are to be taken as not only good news, but the greatest of good news.

The Son of God. Mark and the early Christians knew the Lord Jesus to be the very Son of God, partaking of God's nature, of his power, of his holiness, of his wisdom, the only begotten Son of the Father.

John the Baptist
Even as it is written in Isaiah the Prophet. The two passages here quoted are from Mal. 3:1 and Isa. 40:3. Professor Lenski well reminds us that Mark, by referring only to Isaiah; and indeed the form of this prophet's words makes them most valuable. The words from Malachi added as a life nature. Behold, I send my messenger before thy face, who shall prepare the way." The Father is actually speaking to the Son concerning the messenger who was to precede him and prepare for his coming.

3. The voice of one crying in the wilderness. Literally, the wilderness here referred to was that great desert including the whole eastern portion of Judea, and extending on both sides of the Jordan River. "In this very wilderness Elijah made his last appearance. John was a living illustration of how little man really needs here below, something we are prone to forget."

Make ye ready the way of the Lord, make his paths straight. Josephus, when describing a march of Vespasian, says that with the vanguard of an Oriental procession were such as were to make the road even and straight, and, if it were anywhere rough and hard to be passed over, to plane it, and to cut down the woods that hindered their march, that the army might not be tired."—Thomas M. Lindsay.

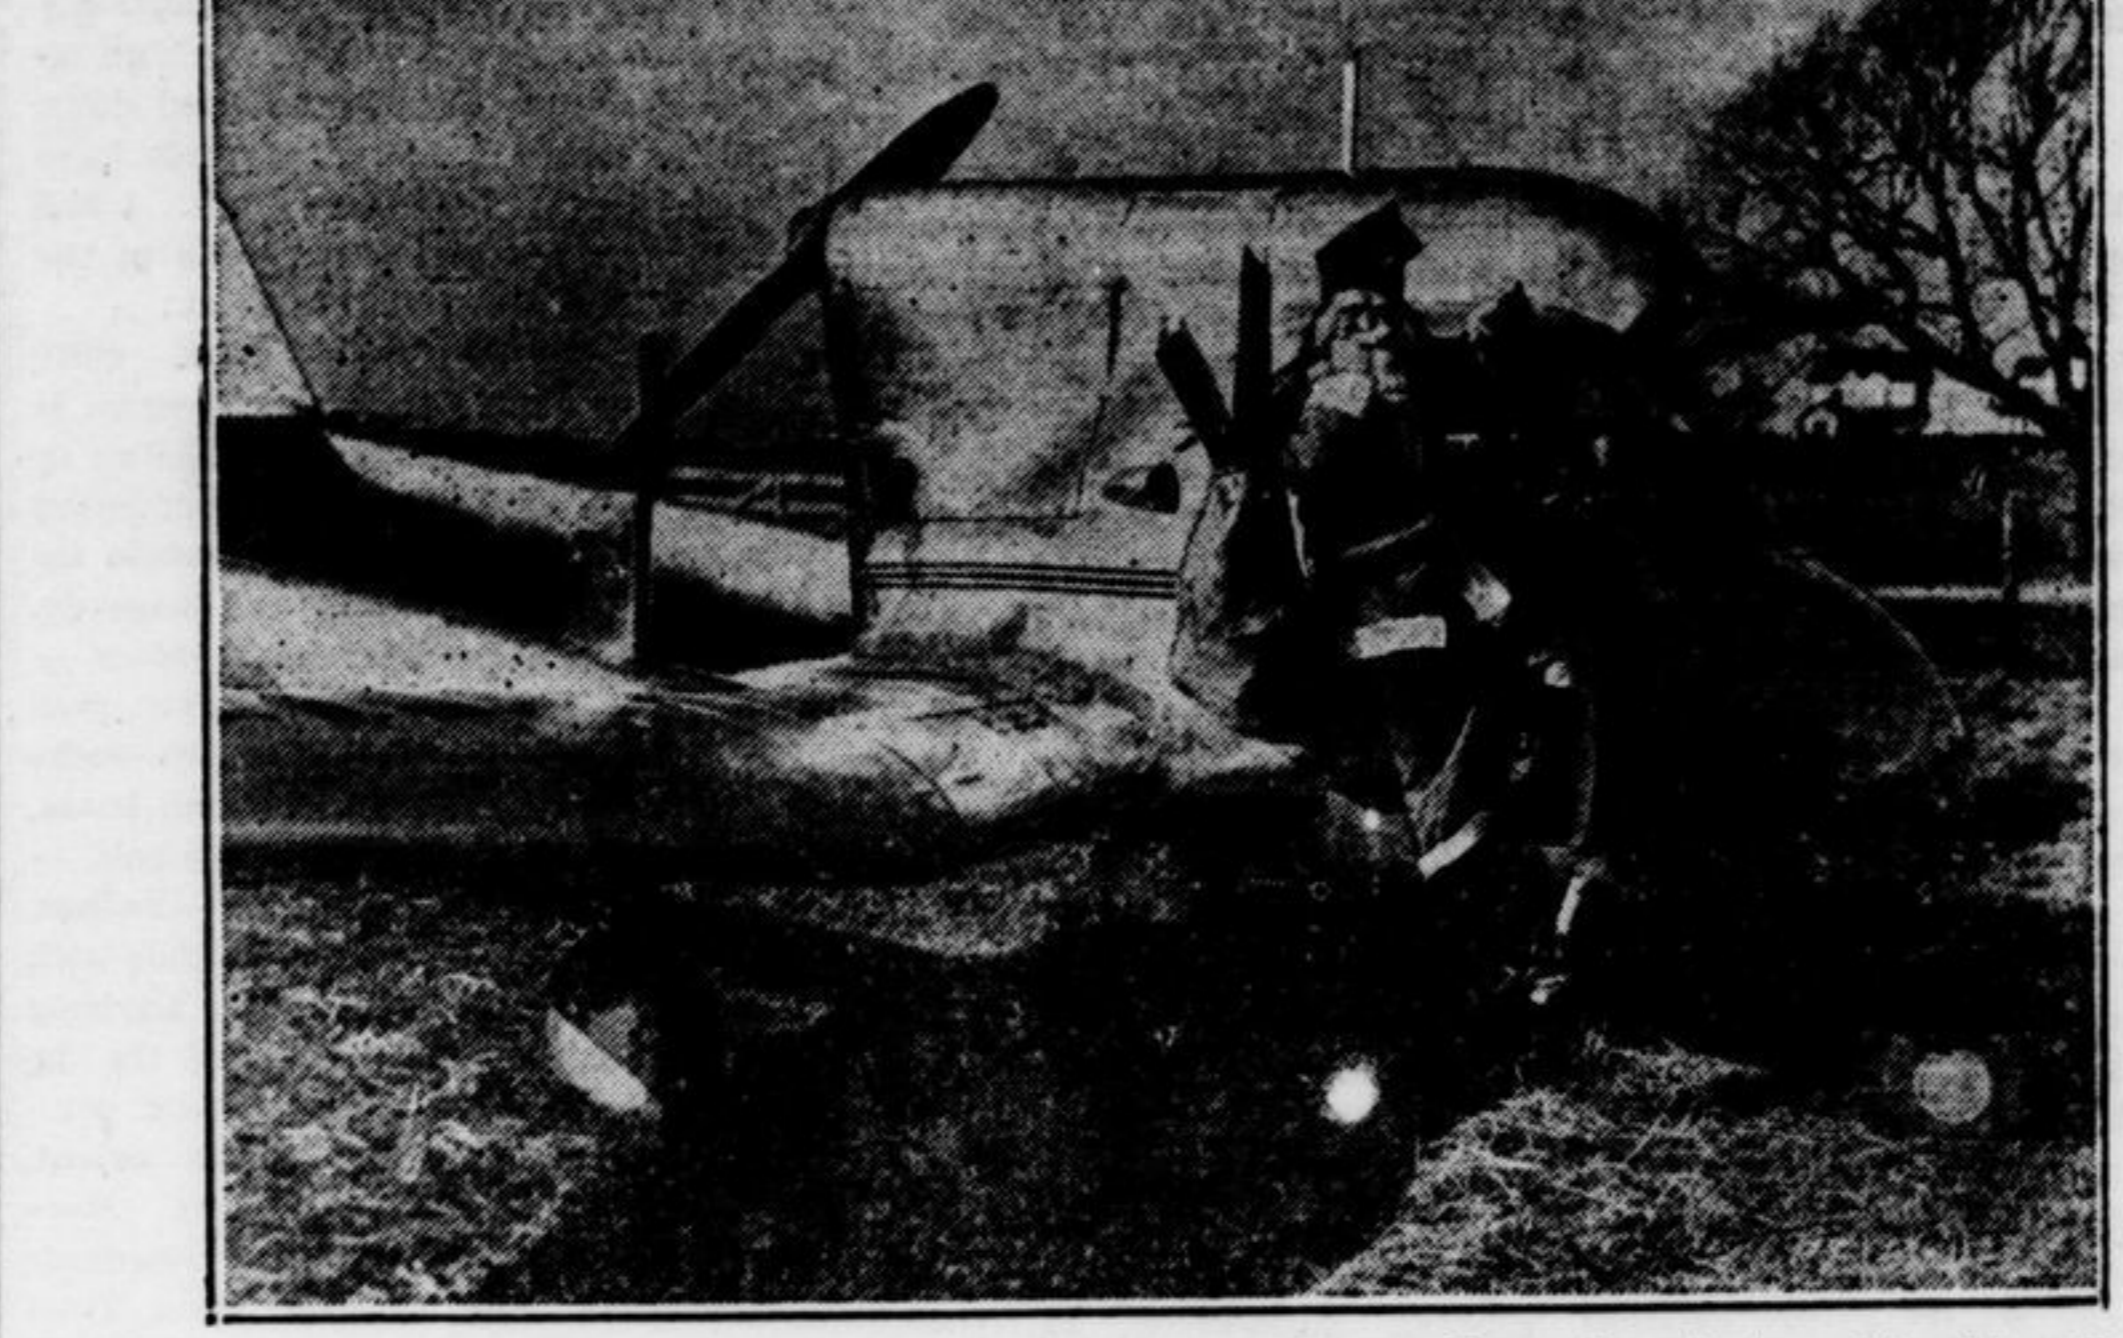

4. John came, who baptized in the wilderness and preached the baptism of repentance unto remission of sins. The word "repentance" means "to turn around," "to change one's mind," "to reverse one's attitude and verdict." It is not here said that baptism will secure the remission of sins, but that baptism was a public recognition that the heart had repented of sin. Baptism for adults, unless there is repentance and a washing away of sins by the Lord Jesus, is of no value whatever, but really a mockery.

6. And John was clothed with camel's hair. This probably means that John wore a long, loose robe woven from camel's hair, a garment of coarse texture often worn by the extreme poor. And had a leathern girdle about his loins. "The girdle kept the robe from flapping apart, and enabled it to be tucked up for rapid walking."

8. And did eat locusts and wild honey. "The law permitted the use, for food, of locusts and certain large kinds of grasshopper."

"There Cometh After Me"
7. And he preached, saying, There cometh after me he that is mightier than I. John here implies that he too is strong, the divine strength of the word having been given to him. The latchet of whose shoes I am not worthy to stoop down and unloose. In an Oriental household it was the task of the slave to stoop down and unloose the things which bound the sandals of a guest or the slave's master to their feet, and John here acknowledges that there is such an infinite difference between Christ in all of his glory and perfectness and him-

RADIO HEADLINERS
OF THE WEEK

From Hollywood comes word that Mickey Mouse, with Minnie, and others of his famous gang, is starting a series of programs on Sundays from the Mickey House Theatre of the Air, which is aired over the coast-to-coast NBC-Red Network from 5:30 to 6:00 p.m. It's a little over six years, now, that Mickey has been bringing smiles and hearty laughs to movie patrons and devotees of the comic strips, but now he comes in voice directly into the homes of radio listeners to enliven their Sunday afternoons. His band will be the music of Felix Mills, noted Hollywood musician. Bringing Mickey to the radio is another feat in Walt Disney's crown of laurel. Already, the antics of the lovable comrade have brought fame and fortune to their creator. A native of Chicago, Disney found the study of art a troublesome problem in his youth, and it was not until he left his native city and settled in Kansas City that Mickey was born. It was there that the first Mickey Mouse movie was created.

The Alred Humor Amateur Show, heard every Sunday at 12:30 over an eastern network, is blazing ahead. Today, the Disney studios employ six hundred persons.

Piano Team's Double Wedding
The two piano team of Lon Snyder and Murray Ross, playing under the name of "The Sophisticates of the Piano," over CBC and the Mutual Networks, is perhaps the most popular piano team in Canada. We understand that a double wedding is being planned by these boys at some date in February, and this should be quite a novel feature in itself. Both Murray and Lou are very much attached to their respective young ladies, who are, by the way, non-professional.

Community Sing-Song
We dropped in last Sunday to see the Community Sing-Song out at the Century theatre. Stan Francis, the genial M.C. of the program, turned in quite a nice performance. The little surprises that come in about the middle of the program are somewhat original. Vince Boyd, the man behind the piano, is quite a favorite with the audience in the theatre, and turns in a sparkling piece of solo work during the program. The tickets are free, and all are welcome.

It is a little known fact that those four boys known as the Ragamuffins, heard every Monday night at 10:00 o'clock, started their career in a cellar. The boys scripped and saved to buy instruments, and what were too expensive for them they made themselves. Between them they play two clarinets, two guitars, a bass fiddle, and a collection of pots, pans, washboards and tin horns, and believe me, they make music out of it. On top of all this, George Boyd, the tin horn expert, imitates a trumpet and does a choice bit of singing. To say nothing of the vocal trios and quartets that the boys have arranged. Harvey Temple, Alf Enning and Tommy Ellwell, constitute the remaining members of the organization. About a year and a half ago the boys were taken in tow by Wally Armour, conductor of the Pond's program, and after much work he has produced a smart musical band with just these four boys.

To the Indian, success would mean a return nearer "Dinetah"—the sacred, immemorial homeland of the Navajo in North Central New Mexico.

To many a white homesteader, it would mean a chance to sell out lands on which he has battled heat, drought, bitter cold, dying range and all the pioneering vicissitudes.

The immediate goal of this unique association of Indian and paleface is passage in Congress of the Navajo boundary bill. The measure would add approximately 250,000 acres to the Navajo reservation—land now "checkerboarded" in alternate strips of public domain, homestead lands and Indian holdings.

The Stars And You

By A. R. WEIR

WHAT THE STARS FORETELL FOR THOSE BORN ON JANUARY 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12 and 13

If the date of your birth is listed above, CAPRICORNUS is your Zodiac sign. This makes the White Onyx and Moonstone your lucky stones and black or very dark blue your lucky colour. It also suggests that you should marry one born between August 21st and September 20th; Dec. 21 and January 20 or April 21 to May 20, or one who has the moon in Capricornus. Capricornians usually live to a great age and are zealous and diligent people as a rule.

YOUR OWN BIRTH DATE:
JANUARY 7—Your viewpoint is usually serious. You take life seriously. You take people seriously. You take your troubles much too seriously. Try to cultivate optimism. This should be a successful and prosperous year for you—there should be more stability in your life.
JANUARY 8—You are very affectionate, very loving and very kind hearted yet no one is aware of this. You are too quiet, dignified and towards others. You should be much more demonstrative. Some very important changes are indicated in your business affairs and all indications are good.
JANUARY 9—Indications are that you have let yourself get into a rut. Why? It is important to success that one should keep pace with progress. Capricornians usually attain great wealth when they are ambitious and steadily and patiently industrious. An unexpected gain financially is indicated for you.
JANUARY 10—You are sincere but selfish. You are zealous and diligent but melancholy and introspective. Do not live so much alone with yourself. The year is good for social affairs and also for love. Relatives will benefit you. Business affairs should be excellent.
JANUARY 11—Much happiness should come your way this year. If you are single you may marry. You do not make friends easily but should cultivate a more friendly attitude toward others.
JANUARY 12—Your financial affairs this year should have a big influence on your later life. It should be a prosperous period. Your health will be good and a pleasant holiday is indicated. Be careful lest your natural thrift becomes meanness.
JANUARY 13—A considerable improvement is shown in your financial affairs this year also important news from a long distance. You will also be lucky in love. In business you have great ambitions but socially you consider your family all you require. This is not good. You may allow yourself to get into a rut.

Foresees All Milk To Be Pasteurized

Ontario Health Minister Predicts
It Will Soon Be Compulsory

General compulsory pasteurization of milk was forecast in a recent radio address by Hon. Harold J. Kirby, Minister of Health, in which the Minister declared that increased consumption of milk necessitated further steps for protection of the supply.

The new and far-reaching policy has been approved by Premier Hepburn and the Cabinet, and will be explained in detail in further radio addresses which Mr. Kirby will make in the near future.

Pointing to the number of diseases believed to be communicated by unpasteurized milk, he said pasteurization was a known and tried protective which, though in use in over sixty urban municipalities, still was not applied as generally as it should be.

"It is too much to expect that voluntary action by the public in a matter of this kind can alone be effective," he said. "Official support is apparently necessary, and steps are being taken to change the existing legislation to ensure more adequate protection for the milk consumer."

He said he had been "more than impressed" in reviewing activities of the department during the last year, "by the large number of instances in which typhoid fever, undulant fever, summer diarrhoea and other diseases which are readily transmitted by milk appear to occur with fixed regularity as a result of the inadequacy of the present safeguards."

Pasteurization, he said, was effective in destroying all disease germs which might be transmitted through milk, and "would eliminate milk as a factor in the spread of communicable disease. It did not interfere with the food value or other desirable properties of the milk."

Seek Spanish Gold Buried 400 Years

Dutch Engineer Will Attempt Diving For Sunken Treasure of Island of Mull

Nearly 400 years ago the Duquesa Florencia, a galleon of the Spanish Armada, was destroyed off Tobermory harbor, Isle of Mull. She is said to have carried to her grave untold treasure, including 20,000,000 gold ducats minted when Philip of Spain was at war with England's Queen Elizabeth.

Whether the story is fact or fiction will be determined shortly by Herr Van Wiener, Dutch engineer and inventor of a new type of diving apparatus, who has obtained permission to raise the hull.

Where Galleon Went Down

Down through the years the search for the treasure has been pursued and valuable articles are reported to have been recovered near that spot where the galleon is believed to have gone down. One haul brought a piece of plate in gold and silver, valued at thousands of dollars. Coins, daggers, scabbards and cannon balls have also been brought to the surface.

The Duquesa Florencia is said to have been driven into St. George's channel by the storm that scattered the Armada. Reaching the Isle of Mull, the vessel took on large quantities of stores and sailed away before the islanders were paid.

According to the islanders, a daring Highlander managed to get aboard and light a fuse leading to the gunpowder magazine. He plunged overboard a few minutes before the ship was shattered by the blast.

Fatal Tool Chest In Bovine Chest

Cow Had Pendant For Eating Machinery

A cow, Robert Trigg of the Fourth Concession, Whithy Township, discovered, can be peculiar at times. When his boy died, Trigg was at a loss the understand her disease says The Toronto Globe and Mail.

A post-mortem revealed that bossy was carrying around a miniature tool chest in her chest. More than a hundred metal articles, including nails, hay-wire, small bolts and scrap iron, were found, enough material to make a cream separator and then some.

Trigg is at a loss to understand the bovine penchant for machinery. "There was no sound of looser machinery," explained the owner. "She just became bloated and died."

Onions For Love!

Except as edibles, we do not regard our vegetables very highly, but in Ancient Greece cabbage was sacred and oaths were sworn on them in courts of justice. The onion was used as a love-symbol, just as our mistletoe is today, and houses were disinfected by it. It was also put into sick rooms to attract disease, just as it is placed in newly-painted houses now to take away the smell of fresh paint.
