

People Must Be Taught To Think

Challenge Is Thrown Down to the Educators of This Continent—Refuse to be Taken in by Propaganda

Lena Madasin Phillips of New York, president of the International Federation of Business and Professional Women's Club, addressing 250 delegates attending the fourteenth annual convention of the American Association for Adult Education at Niagara Falls challenged educators to make people on this continent learn to think and like it.

People on this continent are so taken in with propaganda and high-powered advertising they should be taught the tricks of the trade, Miss Phillips said. "Let us analyze and discriminate on what we read and read, and make us willing to pay the price of our American institutions, our American democracies, before it is too late," Miss Phillips urged.

Youth Hostels Prove Popular

Four of Them Now Operating in Ontario Just North of Toronto

Michigan's youth hostel movement has grown rapidly in its five year history and thousands of youths from many states will follow the hostel trail across the state this summer.

Hostel travel started in 1910 when Richard Shirman, a German, arranged inexpensive dormitories for his hiking and biking trips. American Youth Hostels was established in 1924. The Canadian Youth Hostels Association now has four established in Ontario as well as elsewhere in Canada in the vicinity of Newmarket and Muskegon's Lake.

Hostels are farm homes, barns or other suitable places where hostellers may stay for 25 cents a night. These travellers carry sleeping bags and cooking kits and may travel by foot, boat, horseback or bicycle. Automobile travelling is banned if they wish to use hostel facilities.

BEAUTY HINT

Lipstick should be applied, according to Ann Morris, with the mouth open, then carry the color well inside the mouth. Start with the upper lip working out from the center to the corners or in from the corners to center. Never sweep the stick around the mouth in a circle.

Some Folks Have The Seeing Eye

Can Get More Fun Out of Walking Round the Block Than Others Do From Circling the Globe

Some people can get more fun out of walking round the block than others could find in going round the world. You don't believe me? "Betcha a nickel."

I've heard women who have travelled the Seven Seas who will tell you languidly that it was hot in Greece or the shops in Paris were over-estimated, or the food was terrible somewhere else—but they had never really "seen" a thing. Another person could come back from the same trip and she would make you see and feel the heat in Greece but she could also make you see the beauty of the scenery; she could tell you about the picturesque costumes, about the types of beauty or the degrees of character or the funny little incidents or some street scene—she has the seeing eye.

Conversational Zest We can't all be clever enough, perhaps, to see a great deal from one small window but if you keep your eyes and ears open whenever you are on the street-car, in the shops or just walking along the street, you will be amazed at the amount of material you can gather to add zest to your conversation.

LESSON XI
PAUL SOLVES CHURCH PROBLEMS

1 Cor. 1:1-3, 10, 11; 4:14-21; Gal. 1:1-7; 3:1-29; 1 Thes. 1:1; 4:9-5:22.

Printed Text—1 Corinthians 1:1-3, 10, 11; 4:14-21; 1 Thessalonians 5:12-15.

Golden Text—Let your manner of life be worthy of the gospel of Christ. Phil. 1:27.

THE LESSON IN ITS SETTING Time.—The First Epistle to the Thessalonians was the first letter by the apostle Paul of which we have any record, and was written about A.D. 54. The Epistle to the Galatians was written before the Epistle to the Romans, probably in A.D. 54, while the First Epistle to the Corinthians was written about one year later.

Place.—The city of Corinth and the city of Thessalonica were both in Greece, the former in the southern part, and the latter in the northern; Galatia was located in the northern part of the great peninsula of Asia, known to us today as Asia Minor.

St. Paul left Corinth in consequence of a determination he had formed to spend the approaching feast at Jerusalem. In consequence of the earnest entreaty of the Ephesians that he would give them the benefit of his presence he spent three years among them on his return from Jerusalem. But the latter part of his stay was disquieted by reports of disorders at Corinth. Paul could not leave Ephesus at present, for a "great door and effectual" had been opened to him there, but the occasion was urgent, and could not wait for his personal presence.

1. Paul, called to be an apostle of Jesus Christ through the will of God, and Sosthenes our brother, 2. unto the church of God which is at Corinth, even them that are sanctified in Christ Jesus, called to be saints, with all that call upon the name of our Lord Jesus in every place, their Lord and ours: 3. Grace to you and peace from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ. These three verses take us at once into the heart of Christianity.

Division in the Church 10. Now I beseech you, brethren, through the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, that ye all speak the same thing, and that there be no divisions among you; but that ye be perfected together in the same mind and in the same judgment. 11. For it hath been signified unto me concerning you, my brethren, by them that are of the household of Chloe, that there are contentions among you.

These divisions in the Corinthian church were fundamentally not caused by disagreement in the matter of doctrine. They divided rather over their respective allegiances to some of the great men in the church of the apostolic age. Some would say they followed Paul in his teaching; others would say they preferred the teaching of Apollos; while others claimed to be adherents of the apostle Peter; and then some, probably the most boastful, claimed to be followers of Christ's teaching. Now, the apostle says that they ought not to be followers of any name, except the name of Jesus Christ, and that all the apostles, himself, Apollos, Peter, and the rest, were saved only by Christ's death, and recognized only Christ as Lord and Savior.

4:14. I write not these things to shame you, but to admonish you as my beloved children. 15. For though ye have ten thousand tutors in Christ, yet have ye not many fathers; for in Christ Jesus I begat you through the gospel. 16. I beseech you therefore, be ye imitators of me. 17. For this cause have I sent unto you Timothy, who is my beloved and faithful child in the Lord, who shall put you in remembrance of my ways which are in Christ, even as I teach everywhere in every church. 18. Now some are puffed up, as though I were not coming to you. 19. But I will come to you shortly, if the Lord will; and I will know, not the word of them that are puffed up, but the power. 20. For the kingdom of God is not in word, but in power. 21. What will ye? shall I come unto you with a rod, or in love and a spirit of gentleness?

Brotherly love is of the very essence of Christianity. Every believer is taught of God to love the brother who shares his faith; such love is the best and only guaranty of his own salvation. The brotherly love of the early church was not only visible to the world; it was its great recommendation in the world's eyes. The early Christian churches were little companies of people where love was at a high temperature, where outward pressure very often tightened the inward hands, and where mutual confidence diffused continual joy.

1 Thes. 4:12. That ye may walk becomingly toward them that are without, and may have need of nothing. The gospel bids us to be glad to give where help is required; but it also bids us to strive not to require help and thus burden others.

13. But we would not have you ignorant, brethren, concerning them that fall asleep; that ye sorrow not, even as the rest, who have no hope. 14. For if we believe that Jesus died and rose again, even so they also that are fallen asleep in Jesus will God bring with him. 15. For this we say unto you by the word of the Lord, that we that are alive, that are left unto the coming of the Lord, shall in no wise precede them that are fallen asleep. 16. For the Lord himself shall descend from heaven, with a shout, and with the trump of God; and the dead in Christ shall rise first; then we that are alive, that are left, shall together with them be caught up in the clouds, to meet the Lord in the air; and so shall we ever be with the Lord. These precious verses teach at least the following truths: (1) that the Lord Jesus Christ himself will return visibly, (2) that he will be a triumphant return, (3) when he returns for his own, those Christians who have passed on in death will rise first; that is, their bodies will rise from the grave, (4) We who are living on earth at that hour will be caught up with them, (5) Those rising from the grave, and those living on earth when the Lord returns, will meet Christ in the air; it does not say that we shall stay in the air. (6) For all eternity we shall be in the presence of the Lord Jesus Christ.

Unselfish, Godly Life 5:12-15. 12. But we beseech you, brethren, to know them that labor among you, and are over you in the Lord, and admonish you; 13. and to esteem them exceedingly highly in love for their work's sake. 14. And we exhort you, brethren, admonish the disorderly, encourage the faint-hearted, support the weak, be long-suffering toward all. 15. See that none render unto any evil for evil; but always follow after that which is good, one toward another, and toward all. In the first two verses of this rich paragraph the apostle is speaking of those who were the officers and appointed rulers in the church at Thessalonica. Love is the secret of living the holy, unselfish, godly life Paul here describes. The characteristics of a Christian enumerated here can only become realities in our lives by our deliberate determination to practice these virtues — always, without ceasing, in everything.

GARDENING

RESETTING AND GROWING RHUBARB

No fruit or vegetable garden is complete without from six to 12 roots, according to the size and needs of the family, of either Ruby or Macdonald rhubarb. Rhubarb thrives best on a comparatively rich, deep, well drained soil. The soil selected should be preferably prepared by spading in deeply and thoroughly a good application of stable manure. Where space will permit it may be plowed under. Early the following Spring the soil should be well worked up and a commercial fertilizer, preferably 5-10-5 applied at the rate of five pounds per square rod and well mixed with the soil prior to planting.

Select Single Crowns When resetting crowns, taken from old dug-up clumps, single crowns should be selected, removing all old roots. These are set three feet apart in rows five feet apart. Plant the crowns so that its growing tip is just below the surface of the soil and tramp the soil firmly. Hoe, dig or cultivate at intervals to loosen the soil and control weeds. After the Autumn frosts kill the leaves, mulch with straw or straw manure for the Winter. Remove this in Spring and continue to dig and cultivate. Strong rapid growth of the leaves is the objective. The leaves manufacture the nutrients that develop the roots, in which are stored the reserves of food that make for the rapid growth of the stalks that we use as food in the early Spring. Remove no stalks the first year, but few the second, and after that never more than half the stalks that develop. The result will then be large, long, tender stalks for the table. It takes three or four years to develop a really productive crown.

Every farmer or gardener who has a good house cellar should grow his own Winter rhubarb. Four to six crowns should be planted annually and from the fifth year on this number can be dug up annually for Winter use. In this way continuous production for both Summer and Winter use is possible.
