THOUSANDS OF CHILDREN NEVER SAW ROYALTY

The greatest blot on the continent-wide tour of their Majesties, King George and Queen Elizabeth, who won such popularity and affection throughout Canada and the States, is the dire disappointment of many thousands of school children—yes, adults also who last Tuesday at Guelph, Stratford and Windsor, after waiting for hours in the heat and coming 50 to 150 miles on excursion trains, never had even a glimpse of the Royal couple, and thousands more only a fleeting glimpse.

At Guelph, the city people and many motorists crowded around the station where thousands had a good view while presentations were being made there, for about 15 minutes. Meanwhile the special train excursions carrying thousands of school children were shunted out to Guelph Junction, where they lined the tracks for a mile or more. When the royal train stopped for 5 minutes for services, only those lined close to the rear car had a good view of their Majesties. Then when starting, instead of slowly passing the crowds, the train quickly picked up speed, going 15 to 20 miles per hour rate, passing the Durham quota. The King and Queen could not be seen till directly in front of you, and in a moment, were out of clear visibility. Many children failed to see them, most had just an instant's view, and further west along the tracks, the train's faster speed made the glimpse more fleeting.

The Bruce County children fared worse. After coming from Tobemory, Warkton, Walkerton, Lucknow, Chesley and other points, broiling and collapsing in the hot sun in a five hour wait, the royal train sped past them lining the tracks going into Stratford, no King or Queen visible and it failed to stop or slow down till reaching the station. Little wonder the Bruce County newspapers and populace are sore over such mismanagement and treatment!

The Royal couple are not to blame; they would gladly have greeted the excursionists; but the officials responsible for the bungling of the view of thousands by permitting the train to speed past, should be revealed and apologies demanded. Far more important that thousands travelling most of the day for the event, at much expense, should get a proper view which would have taken 30-4 minutes more, than that the time be used up at the stations, giving the city officials and other big-wigs introductions to royalty. First the Midhurst fiasco, then the bungling at Guelph, Stratford and Windsor, has left a sour taste in the mouths of many excursionists.

CO-OPERATIVE PRODUCTION!

Consider the cow. Its main function is to give milk. To give milk it must saponise its hunger on the lush grass of the meadow. There is no interference with the work of nature. If milk giving proclivities were regulated as humans are regulated there would be a pot of gold between its mouth and its food thus limiting and curtailing its supply of milk. It is only after the milk leaves the cow that man has a chance to get in his work.

Clarksburg fair directors are planning to have baked a huge apple pie as a novel feature for their Fair, this exhibit to be representative of the fruit belt of Grey County.

The United States holds fifty-eight per cent. of the world's gold. Britain has eleven per cent., and France has ten per cent. Yet, with $14,000,000,000 of gold, the United States has also 11,000,000 unemployed citizens.

Apropos of the visit of Their Majesties, King George and Queen Elizabeth, it might interest them to learn that the village of Glamis in Bruce County, near Paisley, was named after Glamis Castle, where the Queen lived. In fact Bruce is filled with names now familiar to Scotsmen: Paisley, Kincairdine, Dunkeld, Culross, Kinross, Tobermory, Bervie, Greenock, Lovat, Holyrood, Lochaleh and many others, enough to intrigue the royal couple had they had the good fortune to visit the county named reciprocally after Robert the Bruce by his exiled compatriots.
