All signs point to better times especially we note the number of tourists in this locality, and so many of our old neighbors and friends who went West 20 or 30 years ago, who have been able to return for a visit this summer, and all so welcome. We also notice that more of our down-

POETS' CORNER

DRIVE FORWARD

Drive forward! — 'tis folly behind to be glancing, We cannot recover the days that are past; The future, our joys, will perchance be enhancing

Tho' dark clouds of care o'er the present are cast. There is never a night but there comes a tomorrow, There is never a cloud but a sun-beam succeeds, We should feel not the balm, if we know not the sorrow.

Drive forward! the future must yield to the power That justice, and goodness and truth can convey; The base and the false may succeed for the hour, But reason, at last, will but honor obey.

True courage consists in facing a danger Ne'er harbor injustice by word or in deed, As you'd be to a friend, be the same to a stranger

Drive forward and hope, you'll be sure to succeed. —By Barbara McKee, aged 12, Priceville, Ontario

SILVERLY WAVES

Along the fields of waving grass, There comes a shadow flying past; Its grand to watch those silvery waves,

On these glorious summer days. Perched upon a stump or knoll, Beside some ancient swimming hole; I view the lines of waving grain, As for me, they wax and wane.

Then I climb to a summit high, Underneath a clear blue sky; And o'er the landscape far and wide, Still those silvery waves I spied.

If only our ears were tuned to hear, The music of this earthly sphere; What rejoicing there would be, In this land, God gave for me.

All these pleasures that are mine, Are for you; dear friend, you'll find; Or just around your cottage door, Nature beams for evermore. Hordes of money cannot buy, These earthly scenes from you and I;

Where peace and calm forever rests, Let nature ease your troubled breasts. —J. C. Stafford, Durham, Ontario.

The venerable Mr and Mrs. Adam Weir and daughters enjoyed a good day's outing as well as the rest. Mr and Mrs John McGowan and some members of the family were amongst the number that came from Durham. Also Mr and Mrs Nell McCannel enjoyed the day's outing.

Mr John A. Graham and two girls took advantage of being out on Civic holiday and nobody enjoyed themselves better than John did listening to the highland pipes. Dr Hutton, son and daughter were there also. It is well sometimes to have a doctor or two at such gatherings, but fortunately their services were not needed.

Holstein Corr: Wesley and Roy Seaman and Milton Seim, three former Holstein boys, were among the first to volunteer their services in the Wellington Regiment. If they pass their medical examinations they will be drafted for the front in the near future.

Quite an extensive fire broke out in the swamp at the back of James Lewis' farm and on Sunday thirty men were fighting it to prevent further conflagration. The heavy rain put an effective end to it.
