

South Seas Motif Seen On Beaches

Barbaric Jewelry To Wear With Gaudy Gay Rags

Printed cottons and linens and rays in exotic designs of the flora and fauna of the South Seas, in the most vivid colorings, are used for beach frocks, for shorts, for coolie jackets, and full blouses worn with wide slacks (that just escape being a divided skirt) in a bright, plain color or in the shades of beach sand or lava dust. The same gay printed designs are also seen in full-skirted day and evening gowns.

Barbaric accessories — necklaces and bracelets of sea shells, shark's teeth, wooden beads, tarnished brass and copper; wide belts of the crudest embroidery, round beach baskets of woven reeds with sandals to match; wide-brimmed hats with spindly steeple-crowns on the round "coolie" shapes with a knot of seaweed on the top — add to the Tahitian atmosphere of the French seaside resorts.

Plain or printed cottons, linens, and shantung have supplanted the silk materials for the country frock. Full skirts, wasp-waists and little, short, puffed sleeves characterize these costumes and when one adds a wide-brimmed hat of linen, pique or straw, with a bright ribbon tied around the crown with "streamers" at the back, the effect is decidedly festive.

War Not Expected This Summer

According to Lord Beaverbrook, Canadian-born British newspaper publisher, there will be no war in Europe this summer. Arriving in Quebec, Lord Beaverbrook declared, "If I thought there would be, I should not be here."

Smart Women Fight Wilting Heat

Heat Won't Get You If You Just Watch Out

There are ways of keeping up appearances—in spite of wilting heat waves. For example, the smart woman remembers to:

LET freshly applied lipstick set for a moment or two, afterward blotting it with a piece of cleansing tissue before moistening lips. This keeps the color from running and smearing — no matter how oily the lipstick or hot the day.

USE an anti-perspirant under the arms at least twice a week. Furthermore, she keeps an anti-perspirant powder handy, too, and dusts it on her feet about once a week.

BRUSH her hair every night with a clean hairbrush. This removes excess oil and perspiration odor as well as falling dandruff and the day's accumulation of dust.

THINK twice before ordering a late summer dress that is lavishly finished with white touches. Unless she is sure that she will have both time and the inclination to keep the white touches immaculately white, she buys a plain dress and wears smart, cool-looking jewelry with it.

GET summer shoes for street wear a half size larger than those she wore last winter. Feet usually swell slightly during hot months, and aching toes and arches make any hot day seem twice as hot.

PUT on a clean slip every second morning and to wear thin silk panties under her giraffe.

USE only the lightest, freshest perfume during hot daytime hours. More often than not, she wears a scented cologne or a favorite toilet water during the day, saving perfume for evening use.

INCLUDE several washable dresses in her wardrobe, and to keep everything washable or not, absolutely clean and carefully pressed. If you look cool, you generally feel cool. The smart girls know this.

If some delicate material has been torn, it may be easily mended by placing the torn part, with a new piece beneath it, in an embroidery hoop. The hoop holds all firmly and makes the delicate darning of the tear much easier.

In 10 years airmail letters sent from England have increased from half a million to 100 million a year.

TRY IT THE "SALADA" WAY

Infuse 6 heaping teaspoons of Salada Black Tea in a pint of fresh, boiling water. After 6 minutes strain liquid into 2-quart container, while hot, add 1 to 1½ cups of sugar and juice of 3 lemons, strained; stir until sugar is dissolved; fill container with cold water. Do not allow tea to cool before adding cold water or liquid will become cloudy. Serve with chopped ice. The above makes 7 tall glasses.

HARRY HUTCHINS—Amy's strange visitor.
SERGEANT DOLAN—officer assigned to solve the murder of Amy Kerr.

Last week: Alone in her apartment, after midnight, Cilly becomes increasingly alarmed when Amy fails to return from the rooftop. She recalls it would be terrifying up there in the darkness!

CHAPTER II
Lonely Silence of the Roof
Cilly'd been up there once herself — to get a coat she had had hanging out all day to air.

You ran up the five flights of stairs—that was all right, for there were lights on every landing. But from there on it was No-Man's-Land. You went up the other half-flight to the roof, and pushed the heavy iron door out. As you stepped out onto the roof, that door swung shut behind you with a bang—a loud terrifying bang against the lonely silence on the roof.

Cilly was a courageous soul, but she had shuddered that first black moment after the door slammed behind her. There was nothing ahead but dark emptiness. The clothesline was just a few steps beyond the doorway, but in the darkness it seemed a mile away.

You picked your steps carefully, expecting any moment to trip over the raised platform under the lines — you held your hand out in front so that you wouldn't walk blindly into radio aerials. At every step you stumbled over a clothesline or a piece of rope.

There were the tall stacks, too: two from the furnace, and one from the incinerator which belched fire and brimstone into the black air above. At every step, you wondered just who or what lurked behind the next step. Not anything human of course, you knew that.

If you met anyone on the roof, it would be poor old Mr. Johnson, the superintendent, dragged from his bed to check up on someone's aerial. And Mr. Johnson was a harmless soul.

But you didn't think of Mr. Johnson.

Housecoats Have Charm

Attractive For Lounging At Home

Draped, shirtwaist, and basque tops associated with voluminous skirts, give opportunity for quaint details which often suggest period costumes in hostess costumes. Materials are at hand also with which period and national styles can be further underscored. A case in point is the "Seventeenth Century, New Amsterdam" housecoat, whose picturesque lines, kerchief yoke, and silver buttons are delightfully Dutch and whose cotton print, copied from a Dutch-tille stove, confirms the idea. The gypsy housecoat has had a great vogue, but is believed to be on the way out. Close-fitting basque tops are becoming, particularly when cut in acute angles.

Hostess Type
More elaborate and well-suited to informal dinners at home, even when guests are present, are hostess ensembles. They are most frequently composed of two units, an underdress or very expansive petticoat, worn with a contrasted outer robe, cut in directoire, redingote, or polonaise fashion.

TALKS

By SADIE B. CHAMBERS

As one visits the market and the store, or surveys one's garden in these fleeting summer days it would seem that nature is staging a race, so quickly do the fruit and vegetable crops come and go. Soon the "pickling days" will be in full swing and the recipes and suggestions offered are legion.

"Nine Day Pickle" is synonymous with pickles these days and after trying many last year I concocted the following recipe for myself. I am handing it on to you hoping that you will not only enjoy making it but also find it delicious. The other recipes listed are also favorites of my household.

NINE DAY PICKLE
2 quarts large cucumbers
2 quarts white pickling onions
2 quarts cider vinegar
½ lb. white sugar
1 oz. cinnamon buds
1 oz. Allspice buds
2 red peppers
1 oz. whole cloves.
Preparation of Onions:
Onions and cucumbers are prepared separately. Peel the onions allowing 1½ cups salt to two cups boiling water and let stand 3 days. Drain, let stand in clean water for three days.

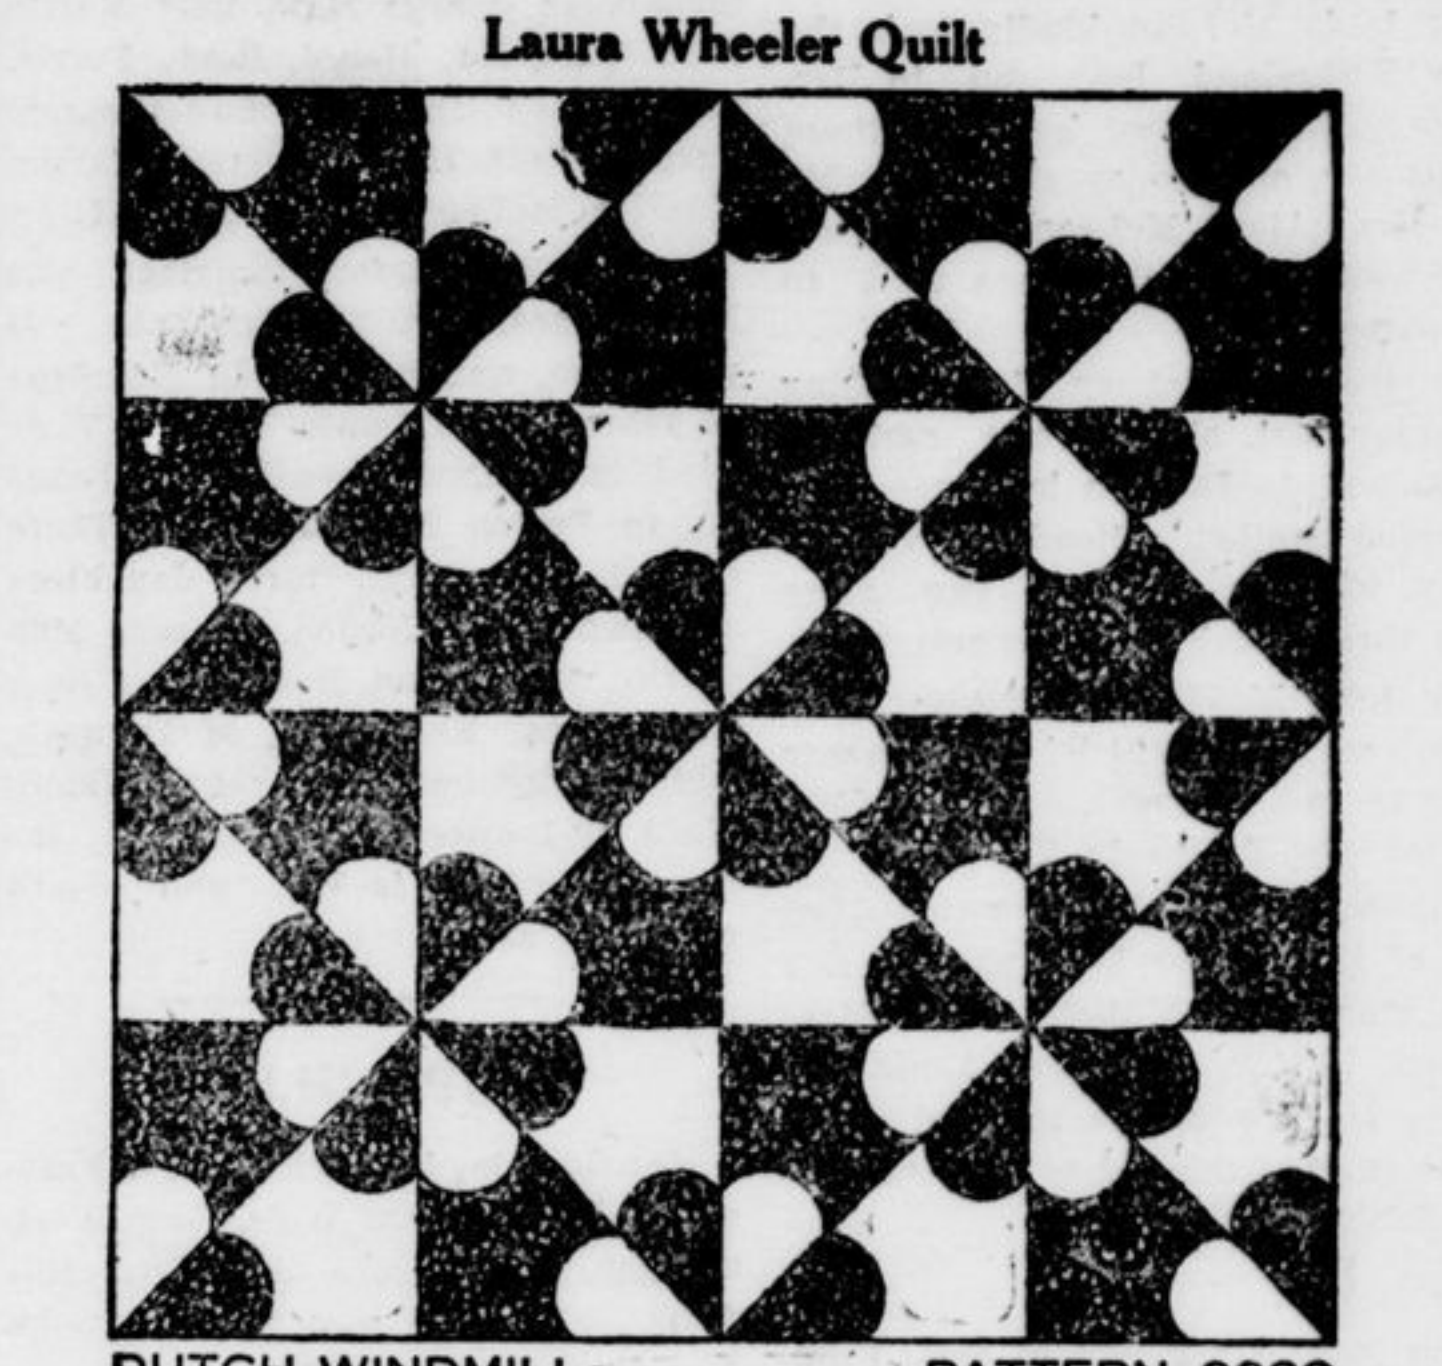

Preparation of Cucumbers:
Peel and cut in uniform pieces the cucumbers, removing seeds. Let stand in salt and water 3 days and salt in same proportion as onions. After the three days drain and allow to stand in clean water three days, drain again, place in kettle, cover with water and simmer for two hours. Add, while simmering, a piece of alum about the size of a walnut. The last half hour add the onions. Make a syrup of vinegar and sugar as given above pouring over cucumbers and onions which have been placed in bottles in alternate layers. Drain the syrup off three different mornings reheating each time. The cinnamon and allspice is added to the syrup the cloves and peppers (prepared and cut in small pieces) are placed in the jars with the layers of onions and cucumbers.

FRUIT RELISH
12 tomatoes
4 apples
4 pears
4 peaches
1 cup pitted plums
3 cups vinegar
2 red peppers
1 green pepper
3 capulais sugar
1 stick cinnamon
¼ tablespoon whole cloves
¼ tablespoon mixed spice
¼ tablespoon salt
Boll all together for two and a half hours. This recipe will make about 4 pts.

CORN RELISH
12 ears corn
½ cabbage
2 large onions
1 green pepper
1 stalk celery
3 cups vinegar (cider)
1½ cups sugar
¼ cup flour
3 tablespoons salt
¼ teaspoon mustard
one-eighth spoon cayenne
¼ teaspoon tumeric
Cook corn and remove from cob. Chop cabbage, onions, green pepper and celery and combine with corn. Place all the vegetables in a kettle and combine with the vinegar. Mix flour, sugar, and all the spices and combine with enough cold vinegar to blend smoothly. Combine with vegetables and vinegar in kettle, bring to the boiling point and cook slowly for 40 minutes.
Pour in hot sterile jars and seal at once.

night and made the regular rounds of the house. He had locked Amy out!

All this time that she had been painting a devil in her imagination. Amy had been up on that terrifying roof alone — locked out!

Cilly jumped out of bed, slipped on her shoes without her stockings, and took her coat out of the closet. She'd go right up and unlatch the door. Poor Amy . . .

Cilly stopped, clutching the coat in her hands. Her heart turned to ice in her breast. For the still night air was suddenly shattered by a wild, terrifying cry — the deathly, agonized cry of a human being.

Shrill and high-pitched, it pierced the midnight quiet for an eternal second, then died down to a rasping, choking murmur. A moment of silence followed — a silence so intense that it could be felt in every nerve.

Then there was a dull thud outside Cilly's bedroom window — a heavy, swift thud, as if something had fallen a long way . . .

In an instant, Cilly was at the window, and as she looked out, she forgot the six-foot drop to the ground, she forgot that she was clad only in pajamas and shoes. She jumped quickly; she knelt beside that crushed, broken figure that had come hurtling from the roof.

"Amy!" she cried. "Amy!" But Amy Kerr was beyond all hearing.

Vaguely, Cilly was conscious of windows being raised along the street, of heads craning out, inquiring the trouble. She looked down at this twisted, broken body that had only a few minutes ago been a lively, lively girl. Amy still clutched the blue dress in one hand. The other hand, clenched in the terror of death, slowly relaxed; a slip of newspaper fluttered to the ground. Cilly picked it up, unthinking, and tucked it into her pajama pocket. (To Be Continued)

Fashion Flashes

The smart swim suit has a matching beach coat.
Nubby fabrics, hopsacking, spun rayons, twills and cruches are registered in slacks suits, with extra tops highlighting the tropical inspired patterned shirt, cotton sweaters and sweat shirts.

The new "Queen's purple" is rapidly growing in popularity. Red and white blouses in gingham, dotted Swiss and organdie; chartrreuse also powder blue and dusty pink are all favorites for summer.

White sharkskin is tremendously important this summer for fitted jacket blouses, usually collarless, to be ensemble with a gored skirt or worn separately with a contrasting skirt or over dark dresses; classic sport shirts for slacks or shirts; brief "sugar coats"; dinner skirts.

"Raised" patterns will be good in autumn woollen fabrics together with multi-colored flecks in worsteds.

Fish hooks give bad wounds because the barbs prevent the hooks from being drawn out. Handle them carefully and keep them stuck in a cork.

"Contrariness"—Phase in Child's Growth

What is often mistaken for perverseness in a small child is simply his unwillingness to imitate any longer.

At first, when he is toddling around after mother at her work, he will gleefully copy everything she does. He "telephones," calls people by the names she gives them and copy-cats her very tone of voice. Then gradually he loses the thrill of it. This is because he is getting into the constructive stage, and that means the development of imagination with a vengeance. All is grist to his mill now, and he resents any interference with invention. What he does is his own idea, right or wrong. He does not stop to think of that.

A wise mother will allow for it as much as possible. She will not become impatient when Jimmy won't copy the boat she has drawn, but instead, makes a cross and calls it a man. In this child's pride and stubborn newborn ego, he rather glorifies in discarding suggestion.

These Things Give You A Headache

British Medical Association leaders compared notes at a meeting in Aberdeen, Scotland, and came to the conclusion that such things as unwanted visitors cause headaches more often than do actual physical disorders. Other headache causes: Loud voices, the prospect of unpleasant tasks, dislike of other people, depression, worry, insomnia and insults.

Understand Your

A Mother Should Get To Know Her

It is good for a different viewpoint watching and knowing her than her own. A way to do this is some work being done church, club, or professional and help children who will meet with ground and see they are occupied in many activities.

Mother May Be
It may be the best story telling which to work with a group of librarians in a library, or help in a museum. Perhaps she has interest in the work of Scouts, Campfire Girls, or other similar organizations. Lines in modern child development which are enlightening to an alert mother will find out about them gain deeper insight and understanding of her relation to all children.

I was talking with other day, and he is trouble with farmers, don't diversify enough. You farmers put all one basket, he says, raise a little of everything, allus have something one crop failed you're thing else to get you're.

That's good advice, I'm surprised that you put some advice on backlin' business, it's good, on account the want to borrow money to pay it back, and credit is good don't you.

What you would do to diversify, you'd do lobby here in the senate, you put some advice on sandwiches and pie? Then I notice that you wouldn't your money for the time, so you might pay her chair and do a little on the side.

Or maybe you might add a machine, you'd span time, Tuesday's the winter time. If she's at knittin' she might do manicurin', I wouldn't do a quarter hour and then hold my hand and trade.

The point is, I say, diversification is good for ought, be good for you any time you need any advice, just call on me Turnpseed, in Family Weekly Star).
