

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

Don't Forget Snapshots at Night

A few inexpensive photoflood lamps are all you need for indoor pictures at night. Diagram (right) shows proper placing of lamps for picture (left). Diaphragm opening, f.8.3; shutter speed 1/25 of a second.

ALTHOUGH you may not be one of those lovers of the great outdoors and prefer the warmth of the old fireplace or furnace these cold, damp wintry evenings, there is no reason why you should not enjoy your camera, for it is always ready for action in or outdoors—an all-weather friend.

Time passes quickly and before we realize where the days and weeks have gone the air begins to get a little balmy and we are thinking of the garden, the yard or those pleasant drives in the car after dinner.

The next three months, however, are ideal for snapshots at night in the house and if you have not already experienced the pleasure of this fascinating pastime you have certainly missed a lot of fun and failed to "follow through" on your amateur photographic knowledge.

The "hey-hey-hi-de-ho" days of youth are the ones we always remember and as snapshots at night are so easy to take why not start in right now and make picture records of the many happy winter evenings at home. All you need are three or four photoflood lamps for brilliant illumination and a camera with an f.8.3 lens, or faster. Photoflood lamps cost only twenty-five cents each and as they are good for two hours of picture taking, the cost per picture is negligible. For the best results you should use the modern super sensitive panchromatic film. It is available in all standard sizes.

Let's suppose that Mary and you are entertaining Betty and Jack and everybody is as happy as the four some above seem to be. Let's make a snapshot at night of your party.

The diagram indicates the relative placing of the subject, lights and camera for this particular group. For a different setting you can place the lamps accordingly.

Ideal weather on Sunday for the anniversary services. The church was well filled both morning and evening. Rev. Mr Kaye, our pastor, had charge of the services, and gave good messages. In the morning he took for the scripture reading Rom. 12, and his text was Rom. 12: 18: "If it be possible as much as lieth in you, live peaceably with all men."

The choir sang one selection and Miss McNaughton and Mr. Douglas Donnelly each sang solos. Mrs. S. Koenig was organist. In the evening Mr. Kaye took for his text, Thess. 2: 15: "Therefore brethren, stand fast, and hold the traditions which ye have been taught whether by word or cur epistle" and the scripture lesson was taken from Mat. 7.

The Mt. Forest quartette supplied special music in the evening. The church has been redecorated and was bright with flowers. We were disappointed in missing these services.

Campbell Grant's Impressions of Europe

Mr and Mrs Campbell Grant arrived home at the beginning of last week after a six-weeks' vacation trip to the British Isles and the Continent, which they thoroughly enjoyed. They made the homeward crossing of the Atlantic aboard the palatial C.P.R. liner Empress of Australia sailing from Sherbourg in Northern France.

Mr and Mrs Grant left Canada on July 7th making the trip to England on the steamer, Letitia, and on arrival in Old Country went directly to Scotland, where they spent a week at Balmoral, where the summer home of the King and Queen is located, and which is the stamping ground of Mr Grant's forebears. Although Campbell failed to contact any known relatives in the clan, he uncovered many evidences that the family name had originated in that locale of the Land of the Heather and had spread eastward from Balmoral over the heaths into No Man's Land, as it were.

Following their sojourn in Scotland the Walkertonians joined a conducted party of tourists, and visited numerous places of historic, educational and scenic interest in England, Holland, Belgium, Germany Switzerland and France.

Of these countries the one in which Mr Grant perhaps evinced the greatest interest owing to the world economic conditions today was Germany. He found the older people of the country opposed to the Dictator, while the younger generation were strongly pro Nazi and rabid supporters of de Fuehrer. But in spite of their confirmed Hitlerism the German people as a whole were as anxious to keep out of war, as we in Canada are. There is no freedom, however, under Hitler's rule such as is enjoyed in the Land of the Maple and many Germans expressed the desire of leaving the land of their birth and coming to the new world, but under existing conditions and laws, this, at the present time, is an impossibility. The authorities are now very strict with regard to their money and frown upon foreigners taking German marks into the country insisting that all currency exchanges be made within their own borders and thus avoid the heavy discount on German coinage prevailing in other lands. Another reason is that the thousands of Jews who have been exiled and driven from the land have fled the country with vast sums of money and this is now being bootlegged throughout the world. It is an endeavor to stop the influx of this bootleg currency, which has been bought by foreigners at a big discount, that Hitler has tightened up his coin of the realm laws and the carrying of German money, except very small sums, across the border into the Fatherland is prohibited. In Germany the large percentage of the populace is in the employ of the State, and the ordinary individual enjoys but little liberty where the Swastika banners wave.

Walkerton's ex-mayor was most favorably impressed during his tour of Holland. The Dutch, as a people were the most industrious encountered in his travels. Every inch of ground in the land of dykes and windmills appears to be under cultivation, and Hollanders generally were busily engaged in the tilling of the soil or in carrying on the various lines of industry peculiar to that country.

In England, Mr. Grant found that preparations for war was uppermost in the mind of the average Briton and he learned that defensive preparations had reached such a peak that every individual had been supplied with a gas mask.

UNIQUE ATTRACTION AT FALL FAIR

The Hepworth Fall Fair which will be held on Wednesday and Thursday, Sept 20th and 21st will have an attraction, which will be worth going miles to view. There will be an exhibition for public inspection a variety of white mink said to be unique in the animal world. These mink are the property of Percy Noble of Shallow Lake. The mink first appeared on the ranch in the Spring of 1937 and at present the herd numbers 48 and as far as can be learned is the only herd of such mink in existence. We understand Mr Noble has been offered $5,000 for the herd, but has flatly turned down the offer. This will be the first time the mink have been on exhibition and will no doubt prove a big attraction to the Hepworth Fair.

A FACT A WEEK ABOUT CANADA

FOREST FIRES

Forest fires are by no means a modern evil, as scars on ancient trees give mute evidence of forest fires long before the advent of civilized man. Most of these pre-historic fires were probably started from lightning, but in recent years with the improvements in transportation facilities and the increasing use of the forests for recreational purposes, eighty-five per cent of all forest fires have been caused by man, either willfully or by carelessness.

During the last ten years forest fires in Canada have caused a direct loss of more than forty-eight million dollars. This statement does not tell the whole story, as it is impossible to estimate in dollars and cents the indirect losses in soil fertility and scenic value and the damage caused by floods, soil erosion, and the lowering of water levels in streams, all of which are the inevitable results of extreme denudation.

The high percentage of man-caused fires can be greatly reduced by the exercise of caution on the part of the public, and all those who travel in or near the forest are strongly urged to be careful with fire at all times. The late spring is one of the greatest danger periods in the year, and various forest protection agencies throughout Canada including Dominion, provincial and private, stand ready to face the danger of fire which follows the drying winds of late April and early May. These winds remove the moisture from the previous year's dead vegetation, leaving it dry and inflammable. Not until the June rains and the advent of new green vegetation will this fire hazard subside.

Two other danger periods when fires will spread rapidly and assume large proportions are in summer months during protracted periods of dry hot weather, and again in the fall, after the ground vegetation has been killed by early frosts and subsequently dried out by high winds and hot sunny days.

In providing the raw material for Canada's third primary industry, the forests are a great source of national wealth and employment, and the problem of safe-guarding this great heritage against the constant threat of destruction by fire is therefore of utmost importance to all. The forest resources are so interlocked with the many phases of personal and industrial life of the country that to destroy them wantonly or to stand heedlessly by while they are devoured by flames, is to impair the basis of the nation's social and economic existence.
