

LONG past is the day when a hole in the ground was regarded as the best place in which to keep savings. Modern banking, evolved by man as a convenience to serve his developing needs, now provides the solution. As a depository for his money today the Canadian relies upon his bank. From the days of the old-world goldsmiths of centuries ago, to banks, bank notes and deposit accounts which meet so efficiently the greater business and human needs of today, is a far cry indeed. Canada's chartered banks, with their wide distribution of branches throughout the Dominion, now provide deposit and other banking services in line with up-to-date requirements and in keeping with Canada's position as an important factor in world trade.

In war, as in peace, Canada's Chartered Banks maintain, uninterrupted, all their services to depositors, farmers, manufacturers, exporters—facilitating the nation's business—looking forward to peace with freedom as the only sure basis for enduring prosperity.

Quebec Expects Banner Tourist Season

The Great Gates of Quebec's ancient city wall—originally designed to discourage hostile visitors—will be thrown open this summer for a large scale tourist invasion, expected to top all previous records. With most of Europe's Old World charms affected by wartime conditions, increased numbers of Canadians and Americans will take advantage of Quebec's historic surroundings and fine sporting facilities.

Combining the charm of the past with the luxuries of the present the Chateau Frontenac is the centre of the city's social and sports activities. Dominating the city's skyline, the majestic Canadian Pacific hostelry is within easy distance of the city's outstanding points of interest—an ideal headquarters for the visiting tourist. Dufferin Terrace, adjacent to the hotel, offers an ideal view of the historic "Lower Town" and the broad St. Lawrence.

Though possessing ideal facilities for practically every modern sport, Quebec's chief fascination to the tourist lies in its Old World charm. Its narrow, winding streets, lofty spired churches, convents and quaint domered dwellings are reminiscent of medieval Normandy. Its not-so-peaceful years are recalled by battlefields, grim stone forts and ancient cannon.

WORLD WIDE OBJECTIVES IN ALLIED WAR AIMS

(By Britannicus)

British statesmen have been re-proved, by correspondents in the British commonwealth overseas, for emphasizing the European aspect of Allied war aims.

The reproach is fair. It is not merely to alter the map of Europe that Great Britain and her Allies of the Empire are resolved to win the war against Nazi Germany at whatever cost. Their cause and their objectives are world-wide.

The First Essential—Order in Europe. Yet, although over-emphasis of the need for building a new order, specifically in Europe, is to be regretted, it is wholly natural. The foe we fight is a European Power. The occasion of the war was an act of flagrant aggression in Europe. In Europe, as this is being written, lie all the theatres of active land warfare.

Again, when we come to express our war aims in concrete terms, we must begin with the liberation of European states enslaved to Nazi Germany—Czechoslovakia, Poland, Denmark, Norway. At this stage, it is hard to express other war aims with half such sharp definition.

The defeat of Nazi Germany in Europe, moreover, is the condition precedent of achieving our war aims in the wider world. Until the nightmare of dread of attack by Hitler and his hordes has been rinsed from the consciousness of Europe (including therewith Great Britain and Ireland), there will be neither the cash nor opportunity for the larger effort that we burn to make towards world-wide economic and political progress.

The world order waits on European order. Nor should the extra-European peoples, fighting side by side with Great Britain and France be aggrieved that this is so, or complain that war aims in Europe can be more precisely expressed than war aims in their own continents and oceans.

Rather they should be proud. For the fundamental reason is that in practically every quarter of the world, outside Europe, the bases of freedom and ordered progress have already been secured.

Does North America, does Australasia, or the parts of Africa and Asia where the writ of British and French imperial power runs, live in constant fear of aggression by a neighbor armed to the teeth, followed by subjection to a ruthless racial tyranny? What Indians would exchange the position of their country for that of, say Rumania to-day, completely independent sovereign state though she be?

And then—World Progress. There has indeed been grave aggression, in this generation, in Asia and Africa. But what the countries of the British Commonwealth, and of France-Beyond the Seas, are chiefly fighting for is not the mere foundations of the good life as nations and citizen-states of the world, but the chance to go on building the super-structure.

The British Commonwealth is fighting for a chance to work out its own destiny, as a community of nations rising severally and jointly to greater economic welfare and political stature. The new world order which we hope to fertilize with the ashes of the old order in Europe can be expressed in those very terms.

To turn the jungle of sovereign states into a community of nations; to seek for each and all of them greater economic welfare; and to establish the conditions in which each can rise to its full political stature and make its full contribution to world progress—these are the wider war aims of the Allies in every continent.

ITALY'S FOOD SHORT PRICES ARE SOARING

Prices continue to rise sharply in Italy. From one end of the peninsula to the other correspondents complain of the failure of crops, in part because of the intense cold of last winter; in part because of drought. In the north especially, many farmers will plant only enough for next year's seed since grain is now so dear. A correspondent declares that fodder is scarce and cattle diseased. "The crops are ruined," he writes "burned dry. We have not been able to make bread for eight days now as we couldn't find any flour."

Among Italian peasants, bread is an essential part of every meal. Scarcity is reported to be greater than in the war of 1914-18. Soap is rationed at one cake a week. Cement is so dear in some districts that building is stopped.

In other districts, all building materials have been requisitioned for fortifications.

POLISH AIRMEN FIGHT WITH ALLIES

The bulk of the Polish air force escaped falling into the hands of the German invaders. The majority of the Polish airmen found refuge in neighboring countries—the Rumania, Hungary, Lithuania and Latvia. Most of them have by now succeeded in reaching the Allies—France and Britain.

The Polish air force has now been formed into two main groups: the fighters in France and the bombers in Great Britain. Over 1500 officers non-commissioned officers and men are being trained, "somewhere in England."

Among them are pilots of world fame who have flown the Atlantic on long distances to Far East and who have been concerned in many other exploits in the air.

The Polish air force in Great Britain wears British Royal Air Force uniforms. The only distinction which makes them recognizable as Poles is a little air badge with inscription "Poland", similar to that worn by Canadian airmen.

The Polish air force containing a great majority of trained pilots, observers and ground personnel, is undoubtedly a considerable contribution to the strength of the Royal Air Force. The spirit of the Poles is indomitable; their only desire is to get into the air to strike at the Germans.

TO REVIEW ELECTION PLANS

Co-operation of all municipal councils, officials and county judges is to be sought by the department of municipal affairs in an effort to overhaul the machinery of the present municipal election procedure. Hon Eric Cross has announced. Letters are to be sent throughout province, Mr Cross said, seeking suggestions to improve upon the present methods of preparing voters' lists.

AN OLD TIME GOLD RUSH

The very nature of the countryside up around Eugenia Falls suggests romance and it is no wonder that some interesting stories have come from there. A history of the Eugenia district, or better still, a novel based on that history, would probably be entertaining. Last year, we passed on stories about the mystery of the ancient tunnel above the Falls, and told why there is a townsite large enough for small city.

Last week's Arthur Enterprise News tells another story of Eugenia, this time of the gold rush in 1853 into what was then unexplored territory. A settler named Brownlee heard the roar of the falls from what is now Flesherston and made his way there. Later, he returned with another man by the name of Miller. They not only found the water, but they picked up quartz fragments containing what they thought was gold.

They tried to keep their find a secret, but other people, looking for the Falls, saw the men quarrying the quartz, and the rush was on. But one man was doubtful and he sent samples to Toronto, only to learn that it wasn't gold at all, but the so-called "fools' gold" or iron pyrites.

If we recall, there was a somewhat similar incident at the valley at Forks of the Credit, where at least one man lost his life in the gold rush.—Fergus News-Record.

MICKEY MACKEY BURIED AT GRAND FORKS, B. C.

Funeral services were held in Grand Forks, B. C. for Duncan (Mickey) MacKay, one of hockey's all-time stars, who died in an automobile accident last Thursday.

Hundreds of friends filled St. John's United Church to pay last tribute to the "wee Scot" from Chesley, Ont., who came to British Columbia to stake his way into the hearts of hockey fans.

Many of Durham's hockey fans of former days will remember "Mickey's" brilliant play against our boys with Chesley team some twenty years ago, at the start of his hockey career.

"LET'S HAVE IT!"

Gas stations, now so numerous, may fold up if the new fuel ever becomes common. A derivative of uranium, a pound of this fuel, placed in the gas tank of car and with water added as needed, could drive a car 60 million miles. A small airplane would run 24 million miles on one pound of the new fuel, or could stay in the air for nearly 137 years. Using it, there will be none of us here to mark the conclusion of endurance flights.

Geneva reports that, despite the war unemployment has increased all over Europe, in belligerent and neutral states alike.

CRAWFORD

Remember the anniversary services in Crawford United Church next Sunday, June 9 at 2.30 and 7.30. Rev. J. Melville Boyd, pastor of the United Church at Swastika, Ontario, will be the guest speaker. Mr Boyd is a nephew of the Boyd family of Lamash. Special musical numbers will be provided for both services.

Mr and Mrs John McDougall and children, Mrs J. McDougall, Sr. and Miss E. McDougall of Hamilton spent the weekend with Mr and Mrs Jas. McDougall.

Recent guests of Mr and Mrs A. Hastie were Mr and Mrs Will McClesney of Elmwood.

A fair representation of the rate-payers of S.S. No. 9, Bentinck met in the school last Wednesday evening to organize as an unit to work in with Bentinck Township War Chest. The following officers were elected for this section. President, Miss Lynne Fisher; 1st Vice-Pres., Mrs. W. N. Campbell; Sec'y-Treas., Miss Florence MacDonald; Auditor, Mr Will Anderson; Section Representative, George Cammidge. A canvass is being made at once to raise funds for the work and later an entertainment will be held.

Sincere sympathy goes out to the bereaved family of the late Robert Twamley of Durham who passed away at his home last Thursday morning after a brief illness. Mr Twamley was a resident of this community for years before retiring to Durham. He was a kind neighbor, always ready to lend a hand when or where he was needed. And many a time his kindly advice was sought after.

The large number of friends and particularly neighbors from this locality that attended the funeral on Saturday afternoon testified to the high esteem in which he was held. Six of his former neighbors were pall bearers namely: Donald, Alex J. and D. J. MacDonald, Andrew Hastie, William Cook, and Will Campbell.

MULOCK

A large audience was present in the Baptist Church, Friday evening where B.Y.P.U. members presented a play entitled "An Old Fashioned Mother." The play was of a high standard, special mention of any one player would be unfair to the remainder of the cast. Each and every player took his or her part in an expert manner. The play was ably directed by Mrs W. G. Heatherington.

Mr and Mrs Herb. Martin and daughter Patricia of Toronto, Mr and Mrs McDuffy and Mrs Katherine McDuffy of Collingwood, were welcome visitors at the home of Mr and Mrs Doug Hastie.

Mr and Mrs Nelson Redford spent Sunday with Mrs Howard Gibbons and family. Mr and Mrs Spence Hopkins accompanied by Mr and Mrs Philip McDonald motored to Walter's Falls on Sunday and spent the day with Mr and Mrs William Markle.

True and heart-felt sympathy is extended to the family of the late Robert Twamley a former resident of this section who passed away at his residence in Durham on Thursday.

HONOR C. A. FLEMING

Presentation of an illuminated address was made to Christopher A. Fleming, Owen Sound, Thursday night at a session of the three-day convention at Hillcrest Church of Christ. It was in recognition of 58 years of service as trust treasurer of the Churches of Christ in Ontario.

"EVENIN"

(Russell H. Leach)
Crickets chirpin' here an' yonder
All the katydid's astr
As I set out here an' ponder
I can hear a partridge whirr;
In the west the sun is droppin'
Back behind the far-most pine
An' the evenin' star comes poppin'
O'er the darkenin' timber line.
I can hear the bullfrogs holler
Makin' music for their tads
An' the black bass start to waller
Down among the lily pads;
Fireflies with their little lanterns
Flashin' off and on at will
Shadders makin' fancy patterns
With the Master Artist's skill.
It's a joy to watch an' listen
When the twilight rolls aroun'
An' the first stars start to glisten
Like the jewels in a crown;
Somethin' grand about the evenin'
Come the closin' of the day,
Alas seems to me that Heaven
Ain't so dog-goned far away.
