"Away to The Canadian Rockies"
 A travel literature is the latest Brinley "Away" book—"Away to the Canadian Rockies and British Columbia"—by Gordon Brinley, with illustrations by her artistic husband, Putnam Brinley. Drawn to Western Canada by a booklet on the pleasures enjoyed by the Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies, the "Travelling Brinleys" spent an entire summer in the pursuit of happiness—and of notes and illustrations for an addition to their popular series of travel books. In her happy, lucid style, Gordon Brinley, the writer, tells of their visit to Calgary to see the another vivid countryside and excellent fishing in the Vancouver Island salmon runs. The two adventure-loving Americans have a large following of readers who will see the Canadian West through their eyes, attracted by the charming drawings of Lake, Larch Valley, and magnificent Yoho Valley, and thoroughly enjoyed the novelty of living in Indian tepees, fishing for trout in lakes in the clouds, and thrilling to the changing pageantry of their surroundings. Further adventures carried them to such famous lakes as Louise, Emerald, and O'Hara, right over the Great Divide into British Columbia, and on to Vancouver where they discovered

ITALY NOW IN WAR AGAINST THE ALLIES
 A doleful week, with Germany gaining ground daily and driving the French army back on Paris and beyond, was climaxed by the news on Monday that Mussolini had plunged Italy in with Germany against France and Britain. It Duce evidently believes the Allies are beaten and wants to get in on the kill. Italy is in for a lot of grief, however. The French, though hard pressed are still holding; the Allies still command the seas, and the day is coming when they will also be supreme in the air.

SILVER BULLETS
 Mr Lloyd George, in the Great War, spoke of "silver bullets." He was thinking of the savings of the people, of the money they could give to provide food and guns and shells for the Allied armies. Canadians today, in all ranks and walks of life, and of all ages, get the opportunity to provide "silver bullets." It comes through War Savings Certificates. Under this War Savings Certificates plan—described in Government advertising—a five dollar certificate may be purchased for four dollars; a ten dollar certificate for eight dollars; a twenty-five dollar certificate for twenty dollars; a fifty dollar certificate for forty dollars; a hundred dollar certificate for eighty dollars. A gilt-edge security, and with provisions for redemption before the date of maturity (they mature in 7 1/2 years) they are an admirable investment: simple, safe, profitable, fitting the smallest of budgets. Our Government needs money, needs it desperately. Only by what it can raise in taxes, by loans, and by these War Savings Certificates, can it help win the war. Therefore, if we believe the things we profess, if we are sincerely anxious to strike a blow for freedom, if we want, in short, to save Canada from the "night of barbarism" of which Mr Churchill has spoken so solemnly, we must—all of who can—buy these certificates. In Britain they are giving their last farthing to help win this war. In Nazi Germany they are giving everything — are including everything taken from them, including their liberty—to win this war. Are we capable of less? Are we of weaker fibre?

SAME OLD STORY
 (Bowmanville Statesman)
 Now that the railways have made application to abandon lines from Lindsay to Dranoel and from Orillia to Medonte to effect an economy of $55,000 per annum, the people along these railways are howling and protesting at the thought of losing this means of transportation. It's the same old story that happened along the C.N.R. Orono line. The people travelled by motor cars and did their shipping by truck, and when the railway made application to pull up stakes these same folks who gave such little patronage to the railway were the first to complain that a great injustice had been done them. It was ever thus!

KNOW THE CONSEQUENCES OF STEPS TOWARD WAR
 (The following editorial from the Detroit News of June 5th shows that Americans are beginning to realize it is their battle as well, that the Allies are fighting.)
 "Popular opinion in this country with regard to the war in Europe has changed significantly in the weeks following the invasion of Holland and Belgium. It is not merely that opinion favorable to helping the Allies has been growing; there has been a change in the basis or fundamental nature of that opinion. Formerly it was sentimental, based on sympathy for the Allies and dislike of Nazism. Now it is based much more frequently on a conviction that Europe's War after all is our war; that an Allied victory is vital to American national interest; that the frontier of American democracy lies just now on the Aisne and Somme and along the British channel coast; that France and England are fighting our battle. Just as 24 years ago, this feeling is strongest in the eastern seaboard states. But it is spreading westward and quite possibly may become very suddenly as it did 24 years ago, the dominant national sentiment. And the people must realize that in favoring help for the Allies, on grounds of national interest, they are taking a step toward war. That seems to us self-evident. The American people have liked to think of their participation in the former World War as an idealistic, if mistaken, crusade for democracy. It was not exactly that. The United States entered that war when the people had finally become convinced that national interest lay on the Allied side. Once that conviction prevailed, the final factors prompting entrance were anger, fear of a German victory and a sort of shame at letting others fight the battle for us. Those factors are all present now. Despite preparations for national defense, there is widespread fear of a German victory and of its consequences for this country. Shame at letting others fight what is held to be our battle is not yet widely prevalent. But it will become so, within a very few weeks. Thus far, the theory of confining American help to bloodless materials and money has gone comfortably on the premise that Allies have no need of our young men. That premise, however, has been invalid in truth ever since the Germans broke the Maginot Line. The Allies, including the British Empire, entered this war at a disadvantage compared with Germany in numbers of military effectives. They already have lost heavily in the battle of Flanders, and finally they face an imminent possibility of having to spread their insufficient forces over two more fronts, the Spanish and Italian. These facts are not cited to intimate that the Allied cause already is lost. On the contrary, it is our opinion Germany still may be defeated, for economics will fight on the Allied side as long as resistance lasts and, with it, the sea blockade. The fact we want people to face is that the Allies already need men—not just money and materials—and that they will need them more and more. We want people to realize that, accepting victory by the Allies as vital to American national interest, the only honorable course, as it will seem very soon, will be to send men. There should be no self-deception about that. The News sympathizes with the Allies, dislikes Nazism and infinitely would prefer to see the Allies victorious. But we do not believe anything to be gained for America and democracy by helping the Allies can be compared with what would be lost by involvement in this war. Thus we insist that people realize how very near to war they really are."

FRENCH PRAISE FOR BRITAIN
 In a leading article entitled "Le Grandeur Britannique" the "Temps" (April 15) states: "The remarkable exploits of the British Fleet have put an end to the legend of German invincibility. They have equally destroyed other legends that enemy propaganda has been trying to build up in order—vainly—to shake the Anglo-French entente and shake the confidence of all free peoples in the resolution and determination of Great Britain. The lie of irremediable British decadence and that other lie, that England was making French people fight for egoistic British interests, will no longer serve, not even in the eyes of the most ignorant among the masses."

 "The British people are still the same as they have been in their greatest hours of their history; they are fighting like the French for a high ideal of liberty and justice."
