THE WEED OF THE WEEK WILD MUSTARD This annual weed, now in flower, is so prevalent in Ontario that a description of the plant is hardly necessary. The seed is black, 1/16 of an inch in diameter, perfectly spherical resembling rape or turnip seed and retains its vitality for years when it is buried in the soil says the Crops, Seeds and Weeds Branch, Ont. Dept. of Agriculture Toronto.

An average plant produces about 15,000 seeds. The seeds are dispersed by water and birds but chiefly as an impurity in seeds.

Contrary to the belief of many farmers, a heavy infestation of Wild Mustard does reduce the yield of grain by as much as 8 or 10 bushels per acre, by the deletion of soil moisture and plant food.

Pull stray plants when in bloom. Where a field is badly infested delay seeding to allow for more thorough cultivation, thereby killing myriads of young plants before grain is sown. Harrow field when the grain is two or three inches with a light harrow, or use an implement known as a finger weeder. The young seedlings are easily dislodged without material injury being done to the grain crop. Follow by after-harvest cultivation, stirring the soil to a depth of 2 to 4 inches to induce the germination of as much seed as possible, later destroying the young plants by subsequent cultivation.

Spray the area with a solution made up of 30 lbs. of copper sulphate or bluestone to 100 gallons of water. Apply on a calm day as soon as the first plants come into flower.

THE ENVIIOUS Have you ever thought how vicious and insidious is hate? Have you ever realized that here is a poison so deadly that does those who bear it suffer more potentially than those on whom it is vented?

Perhaps you call this destroying element a grudge and do not classify the symptoms it generates with the affliction that hate inflicts. Well, grudge or hate, as you will, feelings of bitterness and resentment, of scorn and contempt, are excess baggage that you cannot afford to carry along.

SENIOR NAVAL OFFICER PROMOTED TO COMMODORE SPEAKS OF FLEET'S JOB

When Commodore Jones (who has just been promoted to that rank from Captain) and a flotilla were in Esquimaux on Vancouver Island at the commencement of war they received orders to leave for the East coast immediately. In two hours they were on their way, with wives and families standing on the shores, getting a brief glimpse of them as they pushed out of harbour. From that day to this some of them have not seen their families, Commodore Jones among them. They spent their Christmas too amid a waste of waves, on convoy duty to some vessels carrying Canadian troops to England.

Commodore Jones remembers that festive day. Two cups of Bovril were his breakfast, supper and dinner in forty-eight hours. And he doubts if the troops in the comparatively palatial quarters of the passenger vessels would eat much more though they had ample opportunity.

The Canadian fleet has been ranging wide. It has not simply done watchdog duty at Eastern or Western ports but its activities spread from the sub-tropics to the keen North and from Canada's shores to England's, as we now know. Unless they had done all that, there might have been a submarine or two prowling off Halifax or crawling up the St. Lawrence to attack the troop ships and carriers. That no such incident has occurred can be put down to the fact that the destroyers were there. Commodore Jones, an experienced officer who saw service in the last war, is ready to say the methods of detection of submarines are far more efficient now than they were then and there is nothing a submarine likes less than a destroyer equipped for hunting him down with the latest detection and destructive devices. You can take it from the Commodore that the men of the Canadian navy are eminently fitted for this job too. They are in his words "splendid men" who are called on for onerous tasks and who live in an atmosphere of constant readiness.

IN DAYS OF YORE

25 YEARS AGO

(from Review files, July 1, 1915) Through the kindness of Mr John Kelly, a lawn tea will be held on his grounds in aid of the Red Cross, Friday July 9th.

Monday last, 28th June, death claimed Michael McAuliffe, only son of Mr and Mrs Dan McAuliffe at the age of twenty-one years, six months. Priceville has solved the problem of accommodation for crowds. When they built the monster covered in sheds, they builded better than they knew for in these sheds on Tuesday night assembled a crowd of over 500 to listen to one of Canada's foremost Orators, Dr. J. A. Macdonald of the Globe.

Mrs Dr. Pickering and two little daughters left on Tuesday to spend the summer with her sister Mrs Chas. McKinnon in Bassano, Alta.

The startling news spread Wednesday that John McIntosh a farmer about a mile north of Dornoch had, in a moment of depression taken his own life. He had been bothered with an ulcerated tooth, supposed it to be cancer left home at 5 a.m. He was found in a swamp a few hours after with throat cut from ear to ear, the rash act doubtlessly being a desire to end his suffering.

Barrister Telford has sent in his resignation as Police Magistrate here, and it is improbable whether a new appointment will be made.

Crawford corr: After an absence of two years in the west, we are glad to see Mr Duncan and Miss Kate McKinnon back again and they look as if the Western climate agreed with them.

Dornoch Corr: Miss Reid held her school picnic on Wednesday in Mr J. Ledingham's grove. The program was good and everybody enjoyed themselves immensely.

Swinton Park Corr: Automobiles are becoming quite common now and the owners are becoming quite proficient in running. Electors of Proton want to beware and elect no automobile owners or taxation will soar about ten mills on the dollar for road improvement. But let us drop word in the ear of the various pathmasters.—it 's time that all those corduroy roads were torn out just the same as the oxen-drawn wagons are being displaced by the buggies and autos and improved wide level roads take their place.

Hopeville Corr: Mr Brett the agent from Shelburne came in with Mr Jas Russell of your town and sold a car to Mr Dan Haw a week ago today. This means three within 2 1/2 miles. Very good for the Ford Co.

North-East Normanby Corr: Mr. John Eackus installed a fine piano in his home last week.

Mr Walter Ferguson has purchased the Atkinson farm near Durham and gets possession next spring. Miss Janie Peters spent over the weekend with Miss Mary Backus.

Bathing suit makers can be busy and yet turn out next to nothing.

Wife Preservers To save wear and stretching on the pockets of sweaters, one housewife lines them with a cotton cloth in matching colors.
